Girl to Hop for Paris Today

Today

They Should Not, But Do.
Iron and Schools.
Safer Fuel Wanted.
You Notice Him.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

(Copyright, 1927.)

HUMAN beings spend their time reading of things that should and would not happen, in real civilization.

Five men are burned alive, trapped like rats, in a lodging house, known to be a fire trap. To make it safe would have cost money.

In one city three women are clubbed into insensibility, two girls badly beaten, two men stabbed, and in danger of death.

That is a small part of one day's crime record. Putting big type above such news fails to interest the crowd in it.

THE fact that so-called "fashionable" ninnies crowd a restaurant in Paris, because it charges fifty francs a dozen for oysters, is more interesting.

Fools fighting boredom are more interesting than ordinary citizens fighting the well established nation-wide crime wave.

R. A. GRADY, secretary of Kiwanis Club of Duluth, invites you to see the Western terminal of the Great Lakes to Ocean waterways, and the vast open pit mines that supply iron for all parts of the world.

Minnesota, its great mines, growing cities and able citizens should be visited by everybody. Ahd Eastern cities, especially that think they have fine public schools, should see the public schools of Minnesota.

To say that there are no finer in the world, is putting it mildly. New York has the money, but Western states, California, Minnesota and others, have the public schools. And those schools will transfer the balance of power, even as regards money, from the East to the West.

"THE gasoline tank exploded, and the men were burned to death."

That describes a flying fatality; which of the great industrial laboratories will develop a fuel to prevent such accidents?

Germans are making Diesel engines, light enough per horsepower for dirigibles. They are still too heavy for lighter-than-air planes, but additional improvement may overcome that and in proportion to flying radius, their load of fuel is much lighter than the airplane's gasoline load.

RUSSELL SCOTT, murderer, hanged himself in a Chicago jail and science demands the right to examine his brain. Others hang, shoot, drown and poison themselves, without attracting attention.

BUT Michel Billie, coal miner and widower, in Pennsylvania, compels attention.

He sat in his little parlor, tied two sticks of dynamite to his head, one on either side, set them off and blew his head and parlor out of shape.

Why should that interest us more than the lovelorn girl swallowing iodine, or the ruined stock gambler

Sign Up Miljus At Raise

John Miljus, Lawrenceville pitcher, whose great slab work in the late weeks of the race was a big factor in the Bucs' pennant drive, is the first Pirate to sign for the 1928 campaign.

His face wreathed in smiles, Miljus emerged from the Pirate offices a few minutes after he had been called into conference by President Barney Dreyfuss today. Because the contract was so entirely satisfactory, Miljus said, the business of "coming to terms" was no more than a formality.

SALARY DOUBLED

While the exact figure was not announced it is understood that Miljus' 1928 salary represents a substantial increase over the rate of compensation stipulated in his 1927 document.

His heroic work in the first and last games of the world series, as well

THE WEATHER

Increasing cloudiness, probably followed by showers late tonight or Wednesday. Warmer tonight.

SLAIN IN RUM FEUD

A bootleg fued took its toll in human life in McKeesport last night. A riot gun was the thrust from a curtained automobile in White street, and Frank Frisaura, 28, of 712 White street, was shot to death almost at the door of his home.

Today a score of women will be questioned by police and detectives in connection with the killing. Their names were obtained from an address book found in the clothing of the murdered man.

McKeesport police are in possession of the address book found on Frisaura. They did not make public the names found therein and it was presumed to be a roster of customers in the man's illicit whisky business.

Prohibition officers raided Frisaura's place last Saturday and reported seizing a large still and many gallons of moonshine liquor. He was arrested and released under $1,000 bail.

The theory was expressed that Frisaura was killed to prevent his revealing bootleg operations to save himself from a severe penalty.

He was about 100 feet from his home when the automobile paused in the street a few feet away. The gun, similar to those used by police riot squads, was thrust out and one shot was fired. Many slugs struck Frisaura and he was dead when taken to the McKeesport Hospital. The gunmen speeded away before pedestrians had an opportunity to obtain the auto license number. The gun used in the slaying was found near the scene.

Pennington Removes Aide

Removal of B. W. Murray from the post of assistant federal prohibition administrator in charge of the enforcement unit was announced today at the office of John D. Pennington, local prohibition director. Murray, it was said, will be assigned to special duty outside this division. No reason was given for the change.

C. E. Barnhart, chief inspector, will be acting head of the enforcement unit, replacing Murray.

Bribe Offer Told

Controller C. C. McGovern was offered $100,000 if he would not run for county commissioner as an independent, his campaign manager, former Senator C. M. Barr, charged today.

The offer, Barr charged, was heard by him and nine other people by means of a dictaphone which McGovern had installed in his office.

"The man who made the offer was trailed to the office of a Pittsburgh politician who has been noted for his rotten methods in the past," said Barr.

Senator Barr refused to name the witnesses, the man who made the offer or the politician to whose office the latter was traijed.

"We have all the names and we'll be ready to shoot them after while," he said.

According to Senator Barr's story, told at a noon meeting in the McGovern-Shields headquarters, 328 Fourth avenue, the first offer made to McGovern to keep out of the fight was $50,000 and the payment of his primary election expenses.

"In order to find out who was behind the offer, McGovern led the man on and finally was offered $100,000 and an appointive job of his own selection if he would withdraw. Finally he was told to name his own price, with assurances that he would be taken care of," said Barr. "The people who were behind this offer have found that McGovern cannot be bought. The physical attack made on him in his office in which the slugger was put

Many Play Dead Man's Tip—and Win

Pittsburgh gamblers who played a tip from the dead collected $9.42 on each $2 wager today on "Overdraft," winner of the sixth race at Hawthorne, with Francis—and the ghost of Robert Woods—up, yesterday.

Woods, a 60-year-old race track follower of Cumberland, Md., was found dead in the Duquesne Hotel here Sunday. Even in death, his hands clutched a racing chart and an envelope containing $2 on which was scribbled:

"Overdraft to win. Parlay with Bad Buddie."

Newspapers published the story and the city's gambling farternity, ever eager to play a hunch, took the tip. During the day it is estimated thousands of dollars were wagered in the various bookmakers' establishments on "Overdraft's" nose.

Had Woods lived to place his bet, he would have collected $14.13 for Overdraft's victory. His parlay entry—"Bad Buddie"—was scratched.

Invalid Fan Has Relapse as Bucs Lose Series

WAYNESBURG, Pa., Oct. 11.—Mrs. C. M. Dunn, an invalid who has become an avid baseball fan via the radio, suffered a relapse in her home when the Yankees won their fourth straight victory over the Pirates in the world series. Mrs. Dunn never has seen a major league ball game, but is said to be able to click off players' names and batting averages with the facility of a regular patron.

CRY FOR CUYLER MADE BUSH HOT

(Copyright, 1927, Sun-Telegraph.)

The story runs that Mr. Dreyfuss never cared much about me. He is an experienced baseball man and he is entitled to his opinion—especially about one of his employes. It would not be proper for me to argue about my baseball ability. That must be left to non-partisan judges. But it must have been my baseball ability or lack of it which brought me into disfavor with my employer, because since I came to Pittsburgh I have talked with Mr. Dreyfuss only four or five times, and on all those occasions we did not have a cross word. Even after I held out at the close of the 1925 season and when I met Mr. Dreyfuss in a salary conference in New York City there was no scene. In a short time what salary difference existed was straightened out.

I have heard that Mr. Dreyfuss got a bad impression of my ability in a Giant series in 1924

RUTH ELDER

PLANE, AMERICAN GIRL, POISED ON RUNWAY FOR ATLANTIC DASH

By SYD J. HUGHES.
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

ROOSEVELT FIELD, N. Y., Oct. 11.—Perched on the historic runway that started half a dozen men on transatlantic flights—some to glory and some to death—the flaming orange monoplane, "American Girl," which was to carry the dauntless Ruth Elder and her co-pilot, Capt. George Haldeman to Paris, was poised for the takeoff here this afternoon.

At 1:30 the ship had baad provisioned, final radio tests had been completed and the two fliers were standing by for a favorable breeze.

"We will go this afternoon," Miss Elder said. She was obviously impatient and anxious to start. She had lunched at noon with her pilot and returned immediately to the field.

WEATHER IMPROVING

Weather maps which showed improved conditions over the Atlantic were carefully studied before the decision to hop off today was made. All preparations were being made for the start. Necessary provisions were loaded into the fuselage of the plane, and the gasoline tanks filled.

In addition to the main tanks, the plane carried 140 gallons of gasoline in auxiliary tanks of five-gallon capacity each, which are stored in the back of the cabin. As the main tanks are emptied, this auxiliary supply will be poured into the main tanks and the small containers dropped overboard.

Rations for the flight included:

Three and a half pounds of roast chicken.

Three vacuum bottles of coffee.

One vacuum bottle of beef tea.

Half dozen oranges.

Six chocolate bars.

Court Puts Sweeping Ban on Mine Union

One of the most sweeping injunction orders in labor history, directed against the United Mine Workers of America and forbidding virtually every union activity at the mines of the Pittsburgh Terminal Coal Operation in this district, was signed and handed down by Federal Judge F. P. Schoonmaker at 1:33 o'clock this afternoon

The injunction, at present only temporary, is based on the Corporation's petition for relief, which was bitterly contested by union counsel in Federal Court here two weeks ago. It cites almost every complaint of the corporation specifically and forbids continuance of the alleged practices.

Even picketing, except under certain given conditions, comes under the ban.

The order became effective this afternoon with the posting of a $50,000 bond by the corporation.

One short paragraph of the mass of legal verbiage in which the injunction is couched shows its all-embracing nature:

This forbids the defendants "from obstructing, impeding, hindering, preventing or interfering with the operation of any of the plaintiff's mines or from any act which would result in interfering with such operation."

It also forbids "assaulting, beating, coercing, threatening, insulting or in any way molesting company employes or prospective employes, from shooting at or toward company property or employes, from trespassing upon company property, from [illegible] company property, from exploding dynamite or powder on the company property, from occupying company houses in defiance of the wishes of the plaintiff or from disbursing funds, appeal bonds, attorneys' services or court costs for aid-

PANIC AS MOVIE IS BOMBED

ST. PAUL, Oct. 11.—(AP.)—Twin Cities motion picture theaters today were under police guards, and all negotiations between striking theater employes and owners had been broken off by the owners, following the bombing of two theaters yesterday.

One woman was injured and 300 patrons were driven in panic to the street when a bomb exploded in the Forrest Theater here, during a performance last night. The Logan Theater at Minneapolis also was damaged by a dynamite bomb. The Logan was unoccupied at the time of the explosion except for the janitor, who was not injured.

A conference between the owners and strike heads, which was to have taken place today, was canceled immediately after the bombings by the owners, who issued a statement that they were "too busy trying to protect our property" to engage in any further negotiations.

Union leaders denied any connection with either bombing.

jumping from his hotel window. It does interest us more.

DR. CAMPBELL, able astronomer, calls our earth, with its many fine real estate corners, "Just an insignificant point in the universe of countless spheres," and adds it would be unthinkable that our world is the only planet that supports life.

FEW do assume it, who know that life can exist wherever oxygen and water exist, and that the spectroscope shows oxygen and hydrogen throughout the universe. We cannot see life on other planets. Even on the moon, object nearest to us, nothing smaller than a big skyscraper would be visible through a modern telescope. But men no longer believe only what they see. They cannot see the radio, working through the ether, but they believe that it works.

SCIENCE will some day build a telescope, enabling us to see life on other planets, which will probably amaze us, as when we first saw microscopic life in a drop of stagnant water.

Alfred Russell Wallace, a great scientist, co-discoverer of evolution with Darwin, persuaded himself that human life and intelligence were a monopoly of this earth. But he was old and did not give the laws of nature credit for sufficient versatility.

THE situation in the Balkans is described as "more acute." Jugo-Slavia and Bulgaria, for reasons that would seem trivial to us, far away, may decide on war at any time.

Let us hope it will not start anything expensive for us, as did the Sarajevo incident in 1914.

POLAND and Lithuania contribute their complication to Europe's troubles. Fortunately Pilsudski, Polish dictator, seems able to take care of his situation, with France, and a huge army, back of him.

A dictator, in earnest, like Mussolini or Kemal Pasha, seems to be the best investment for the average European country, now that the world has been made safe for democracy.

Gardner Topping Ticket

District Attorney Samuel H. Gardner led the Republican county ticket at the primary election, with John Francies, candidate for county treasurer, a close second, the official returns, made public today, showed. The Council slate was headed by President Daniel Winters, in spite of the fact that he was "cut" in the Third ward and other places.

The judicial ticket was led by Judge Joseph M. Swearingen, with Judge Josiah Cohen second and Judge Richard W. Martin third.

HELD UNDER $1,000 BAIL FOR STEALING FREIGHT

Charged with stealing freight in interstate commerce, William B. Chambers, of McKees Rocks, was held under $1,000 bail at a hearing before a United States commissioner yesterday. Chambers was arrested Sunday in the Pittsburgh and Lake Erie yards at McKees Rocks.

BASEBALL FANS LINE UP TO GET MONEY BACK

The early birds were out in force this morning to have their tickets for the sixth game of the world series redeemed at the Oakland Savings and Trust Company, Forbes street and Meyran avenue, in accordance with an arrangement worked out by the Pittsburgh Baseball Club.

A long line of fans anxious to get their money back formed shortly after the bank opened its doors for the day's business and the officials, with assistance of an employe of the baseball club, were kept busy handing out checks and cash.

The pay-off will continue at the bank and through the mail until the last of the pasteboards are turned in, provided the fans do not dig them up after they are outlawed. Some 30,000 tickets will have to be cashed and approximately $170,000 is involved.

EARL CARROLL ASKS PAROLE

ATLANTA, Ga., Oct. 11.—Earl Carroll today filed application for release on parole from the federal prison. Warden John W. Snook said the parole board would consider Carroll's application with 50 others at its next scheduled meeting.

"When that will be, I cannot say," the warden said.

The New York theatrical producer became eligible for parole on October 8 after serving four months of a year's term for perjury in connection with his "bath tub" party trial.

Wright to Settle Auto Crash Out of Court

A timid, stammering Glenn Wright—sharply different from the lion of the ball field—appeared in Traffic Court today with "nothing much to say" regarding the collision of his automobile with a machine driven by Melvin Morgan, of 5637 Hobart street, at Shady avenue and Darlington road, Sunday.

Wright tetered from one foot to the other, sought futilely for a resting place for his hands as he went haltingly through his story. It was brought out that the case would be settled privately by the persons concerned and Magistrate John Staley, Jr., puts an end to the shortstop's misery by dismissing the case.

The accident occurred while Wright and two teammates were en route to a golf engagement. Three occupants of Morgan's car were slightly hurt and a traffic beacon was damaged.

Raid Hotel In 6th Ave., Seize 8

The Metropolitan Hotel, an alleged downtown disorderly house, at 443 Sixth avenue, had another of its periodic visits from a police raiding squad, led by Lieut. Dennis Hennessy, this morning.

Four women and four men were arrested and the hotel register, little used, police say, because of the Metropolitan's alleged failure to observe the little formalities of hotel etiquette such as requiring baggage or registration from guests, was seized.

Those taken into custody were Joseph Saylor, 26, and Joseph Sany, 29, of the Metropolitan Hotel, charged with keeping a disorderly house; Sally Reed, 21, of 621 Arch street; Margaret Allen, 22, of 2011 Fifth avenue; Frances Evans, 23, and Florence Ezenhorn, 23, of 188 Thirty-ninth street; John Russell, 33, of 498 Frank street, and Roy Davis, 22, of 2116 Fifth avenue, charged with being visitors.

out by one blow of McGovern's fist taught them that he can't be scared."

The offer to McGovern was cited by Barr as another reason why the two independent candidates for commissioners should be supported at the November election. He reiterated charges that the present commissioners had refused to permit an audit of the county's finances, that "a little group of professional politicians" had attempted to control the judiciary at the primary, that one county commissioner acting alone appropriated hundreds of thousands of dollars of public money and falsified the records of a meeting to show two votes instead of his own, and that employes of the commissioners have had county funds in their own private checking accounts.

"All of this will be brought out in due time," he said, "if McGovern and Shields are elected and given an opportunity to make an audit of the county accounts and to make such prosecutions as the rotten state of affairs justify, according to the evidence now in the possession of the Controller."

Other speakers at the meeting were the two independent candidates, McGovern and George B. Shields.

The latter, saying that the people are tired of the machine-made brand of politics, said that James Houlahen, the Democratic commissioner, is "chained to the wheels of the Republican machine."

SWEEPING BAN ON UNION

ing or abetting persons to occupy these houses."

The last was the plaintiff's particular grievance, counsel for the corporation holding that occupation of company houses by union miners left them without facilities for caring for new employes. Counsel for the defense declared that the federal court petition was aimed solely at regaining possession of these houses, a move they had been unable to accomplish in the state courts.

Under the terms of the order one picket post may be retained upon or immediately adjacent to each public highway leading to each of the plaintiff's mines, but not upon its property, and not closer than 100 feet to any building used by the company in its operations. Each picket post must be clearly marked as such and not more than three persons may be stationed at any post at one time. No other persons are permitted to stand or loiter within 100 feet of the post for any purpose. The pickets are permitted "peacefully to observe, communicate with and persuade persons," but they are not allowed to use abusive or threatening language.

Both the girl and Chiannelli were arrested on suspicious person charges after she had been discharged from the Pittsburgh Hospital.

FIRE THREATENS GASOLINE STILL

MENACES REFINING PLANT

Scene when fire threatened a 20,000-gallon cross still at the Atlantic Refining Company plant, Fifty-fifth street and the Allegheny Valley Railroad, early this morning. The fire, which started when one of the flues was being cleaned, baffled firemen, who were fighting it with steam and chemicals, for more than two hours. The damage was estimated at $3,000. Arrow indicates steam used to smother flames.

USE STEAM TO FIGHT FLAMES

Fire which followed an explosion threatened the plant of the Atlantic Refining Company at Fifty-fifth street and Allegheny Valley Railroad early this morning.

The opening of a vent in a hot still caused the explosion. Flames which followed the blast were fed by leaking fuel oil, which vaporized as it entered the hot still flue.

Firemen of three companies, aided by trained fire fighters of the oil company, combated the burning vapors at the still top with steam and chemicals for more than an hour. The blaze could not be extinguished until the leaking valve at the bottom of the flue was repaired.

Twenty thousand gallons of oil had been drained from the still a short time before the explosion occurred and the still was being cooled preparatory to cleaning the flue when flames shot high into the air as the vent was opened.

An alarm was sounded and while Engine Company No. 25 was rushing to the scene Fireman John Little was jolted from a fire truck as it bounded over a rough street. He was picked up by a patrol wagon crew and removed to St. Francis Hospital, where it was stated he was suffering from body contusions.

The damage to the still was estimated at $3,000 by District Fire Chief John B. Callaghan, who stated that an examination of the still after it cooled may reveal greater damage.

AMERICAN GIRL POISED

Twelve Swiss cheese sandwiches on toast.

Miss Elders' plane is a Stinson-Detroiter and a duplicate of the Sir John Carling, which was lost in its attempted flight across the Atlantic; the Royal Windsor, which abandoned attempt to make a trans-oceanic flight, and the Pride of Detroit, in which Brock and Schlee made their attempt to fly around the world.

The plane carries two sheepskin flying suits, emergency rations for four days, a set of searchlights and a huge, sharp hunting knife, set on the ceiling of the cabin, for use should it be necessary to cut away from the plane.

CARRIES LIP STICK

Miss Elder's costume will consist of gray knickers, a plaid sweater and a white, starched, short shirtwaist under her flying suit. Under her flying helmet she will wear the scarlet bandana which has become as much a part of her as Helen Wills' eyeshade, and in the pocket of her flying coat, she admitted, she will carry a complete vanity case, with lipstick, rouge and all.

"I want to get out of the plane at LeBourget as cool and neat and looking as well as I did at the start," she frankly said. "Surely I'll powder my nose whenever I feel like it—flying or not flying."

WILLIAM J. ROCHE IS CALLED BY DEATH

William J. Roche of 7134 Kedron street died Monday in the home of his sister, Mrs. John Girard, at Latrobe. Mr. Roche was born in Ireland and was a member of the Holy Rosary Catholic Church. Besides Mrs. Girard, he leaves another sister, Mrs. Charles C. Freedman, of Bon Air.

BODY OF CLIFTON RESIDENT IS FOUND

William H. Thomas, 73, of Clifton, disappeared from the home of his employer, J. Walter Phillips, a farmer of Clifton, on Sunday after complaining he was in ill health. His body was found in the corner of a shed on the Phillips farm this morning. Pneumonia was said to be the cause of death.

"She drove him to it," Mrs. Krauss declares, with no trace of feeling for Mrs. Remus (above). "She stole him from me knowing that ours was a happy home," declares the first wife, who has promised she will remain loyal to the man who cast her aside after he gained wealth.

EXPECTED IT
"No happiness could come from her actions," continues Mrs. Krauss, shown in another pose above. She expressed little surprise when told that Remus had slain his second wife. She was sorry for him, she said, but could find no pity in her heart for the woman who had stolen him away from her.

Murder Widow Rages As Alibi Fails

MAYS LANDING, N. J., Oct. 11.—(INS.)—Mrs. Margaret Lilliendahl, held without bail in the Atlantic County Jail here pending trial with Willis Beach on November 28 for the murder of Mrs. Lilliendahl's late husband, Dr. William Lilliendahl, paced her cell furiously today as she asserted her innocence.

BEACH QUIETER

Beach, who with Mrs. Lilliendahl pleaded not guilty, was quieter—still smiling, but not joking.

"It's an outrage," screamed Mrs. Lilliendahl. "The authorities haven't made any real effort to get the murderers. Instead they've taken the easiest path and tried to hang it all on two innocent persons."

Mrs. Lilliendahl had paced the floor of her cell for hours. She is the only white woman in the jail. She does not want visitors, and has not expressed any desire to see Alfred, her 8-year-old son, who is now with relatives in Bridgeport, Conn., unaware of his mother's imprisonment.

ALIBI SLIPPING

Richard Black, special investigator, reported to Chief of County Detectives Frank Harrold he had exploded at least part of Mrs. Lilliendahl's explanation of what she was doing in the lonely Atsion road at the time of the murder. Mrs. Lilliendahl had told the authorities, it was said, that she was going to visit a Rev. Green in Indian Mill, a nearby village. Black said he had learned there was no such person as Rev. Green living in or near Indian Mill.

The trial will start November 28 and preparations were under way today which indicate it will be the biggest of its kind in New Jersey since the Hall-Mills trial.

Girl Beats Ederle's Record

By International News Service.

FOLKESTONE, Eng., Oct. 11.—Mona McLennan, whose real name is Dorothy Cochrane Logan, a London doctor, established a new English Channel swimming record for women today when she completed a swim from the French to the English coast in 13 hours and 10 minutes. She was the second English woman to swim the channel in five days, the first being Mercedes Gleitz, a young London stenographer.

The old record for women was held by Gertrude Ederle of New York, who swam the channel in 14 hours and 34 minutes.

TRUCK LOAD OF BEER SEIZED

A truck loaded with 20 barrels of high test beer was seized yesterday by federal prohibition agents when it parked in front of the Fern Gardens, formerly the Raybrook Inn, Cochran road. R. J. Stewart, 29, of Camp street, the driver, was arrested. He was released under bond pending a hearing before a United States commissioner. Peter Pegori, 30, of Smithton, was arrested in connection with the seizure of 10 barrels of beer found in a parked truck on the Greensburg pike, near Turtle Creek.

BOY RUN DOWN BY AUTO DIES

Charles Hawthorne, 12, of 5128 Dearborn street, died in St. Francis Hospital today from a fractured skull suffered when he was struck by an automobile at Penn avenue and Pearl street Saturday. Emil B. Beinheimer, 924 Walnut street, was turned over to the coroner.

GAS PRICE COMPROMISE RESULTS IN $60,000 LOSS

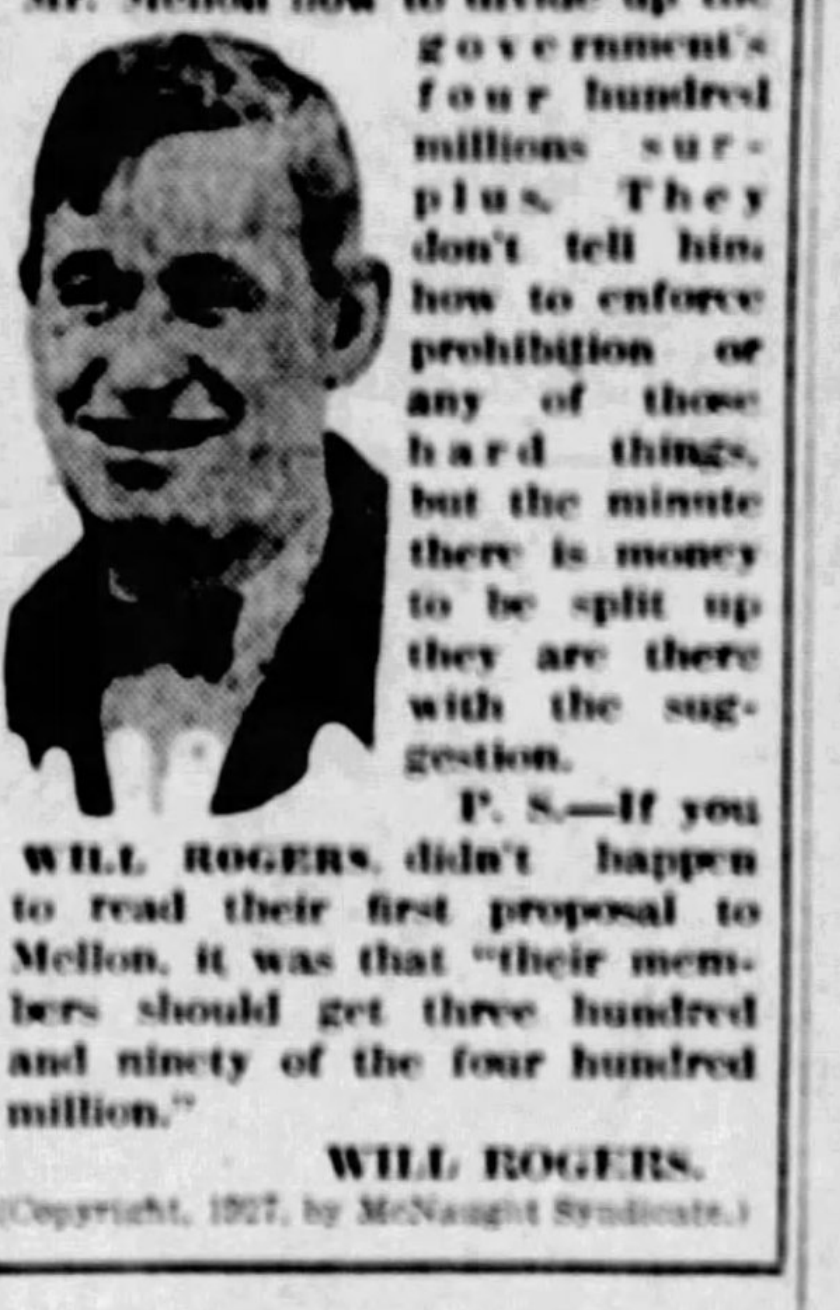
C. of C. Ready to Spend, Says Mr. Rogers

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., Oct. 11.—See the United States Chamber of Commerce has advised Mr. Mellon how to divide up the government's four hundred millions surplus. They don't tell him how to enforce prohibition or any of these hard things, but the minute there is money to be split up they are there with the suggestion.



WILL ROGERS.

P. S.—If you didn't happen to read their first proposal to Mellon, it was that "their members should get three hundred and ninety of the four hundred million."

Missing Girl, Thought Kidnaped, Sought Here

Stirred by the offer of $5,000 reward for information concerning Jeanie E. McClure, Corning (N. Y.) school teacher, who disappeared mysteriously last August 30 while visiting an uncle in Johnson City, N. Y., the search was taken up here in the belief that the girl might have been kidnaped.

City detectives, police and the bureau of missing persons began a systematic search of the city today, centering their efforts on known underworld haunts for possible clues to a white slave ring. If Miss McClure was carried off by kidnapers, it is believed they would take her to some metropolis, detectives say.

The reward is being offered by the Citizens' Committee of Corning, and will be paid for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the person or persons responsible for the teacher's disappearance, or for her safe return or substantial aid and assistance in securing same, according to the communication received by local authorities from Sherman L. Howe, president of the citizens' body.

Miss McClure's home is in Lindley, N. Y., and she had visited her brother, Cameron McClure, at Onset, Mass., during the summer. On August 30, accompanied by her mother and brother, she left Onset by auto and drove to Schenectady where they stopped for the night. On the following day they drove to Johnson City to visit her uncle, Duncan McClure, and while there Miss McClure left the uncle's home to make purchases at nearby stores. She has not been seen since.

The young teacher is described as follows: Weight, 120 pounds; height, 5 feet 4 inches; fair complexion; blonde hair, unbobbed; skin quite tanned; wore pearls around neck, gold wrist watch, black felt hat with red roses on side, green silk crepe dress, trimmed with tan; dark blue three-quarter length coat, black patent leather oxfords, flesh colored hose and carried an alligator skin pocketbook.

$5,000 FOR NEWS OF HER

JEANIE M'CLURE
Mysterious disappearance of Jeanie E. McClure, 21, Corning, N. Y., school teacher, has excited a nation-wide search, $5,000 reward having been offered for information concerning her whereabouts. Local city detectives, police and members of the Bureau of Missing Persons have taken up the search here in the belief that she might have been abducted by white slavers and brought to Pittsburgh's underworld.

Chicago Market Man Burglars' Santa Claus

By Universal Service.

CHICAGO, Oct. 11.—Bismarck Fleichenfeld, owner of twenty-six retail markets, had a very bad day.

Shortly after burglars had entered his home and escaped with jewelry, furs and silverware, valued at $6,000, he was held up and robbed of between $2,000 $2,800 in cash.

The robber dropped eleven of sixteen envelopes in which the receipts from the stores were carried. Fleichenfeld recovered these.

THIEVES STEAL CLOTHING

J. W. Good, of 803 Forbes street, reported that while walking in Forbes street near his home, last night, an unidentified holdup man robbed him of $22 after threateneing him with a revolver.

Clothing valued at $200 was stolen from the home of Mrs. Hilda Hinton, of 571 Wyola street, by thieves who entered the house through a side window.

Cigars and candy was the loot obtained by thieves who broke into the confectionery store of George Bauman, of Beethoven street, last night. Bauman was checking his loss this morning.

MEXICAN REBELS ROUTED, LEADERS ARE IN HIDING

TROOPS SCOUR HILLS FOR GOMEZ

By International News Service.

LAREDO, Tex., Oct. 11.—Mexican federal troops today were scouring the country in the vicinity of the state of Vera Cruz searching for Gens. Arnulfo Gomez and Hector Almada, anti-re-electionists, who fled after their forces were routed in a battle with loyal troops.

According to advices from Mexico City, the two generals and a handful of supporters were believed to be hiding in the mountains awaiting an opportunity to slip into the United States. Mexican officials declared the capture of Gomez and Almada was only a matter of hours and that their execution probably would follow immediately.

GOMEZ FORCES ROUTED

More than a thousand men who formed the Gomez force have scattered in the hills, but are surrounded by the Federals, who number approximately 10,000 with 5,000 reserves coming up.

The battle which ended in the rout of the Gomez forces took place Sunday afternoon near Perote. According to word from Mexico City the Gomez forces were surrounded by Federal troops led by Gen. Escobar and in the fighting the Gomez faction was reported to have lost about 200 men.

The engagement is looked upon by Mexican officials as the final blow in the suppression of the revolutionary movement in the country, which began a week ago and which has resulted in scores of executions. Officials along the border were of the opinion that only Gomez' capture was necessary to close the rebel incident completely.

After the execution of Gen. Serrano, Gen. Gomez loomed as the strongest man in the anti-re-electionist movement. He rallied his supporters in the state of Vera Cruz and prepared to meet federal forces which were sent against him. Several times his execution was reported, but each time he bobbed up near Vera Cruz.

Another victory was also claimed by the government forces. They reported that a strong detachment under Gen. Jesus Gomez, brother of Arnulfo, was defeated at Saltillo. The rebels were reported scattered, leaving a number of dead and wounded. From the wounded the federals learned that the band was trying to join the Gomez forces in Vera Cruz state.

Store Employes Offer Minstrel Show

More than 100 employes of Kaufmann & Baer Company will take part in an amateur minstrel show to be given at Syria Mosque the night of October 19. The production is in two acts, the first a minstrel offering, and the second in a modern cabaret setting.

James Hughes, known to radio fans, is directing the production in collaboration with Arthur Kaufmann, merchandise manager.

Among the girls who have been given special numbers are Lois Leech, a whistler; Anna Holleran, who leads the chorus in a dance number, and Irene Fisher, who will sing.

LEGIONNAIRES ON LEVIATHAN

SOUTHAMPTON, Eng., Oct. 11.—(AP.)—The steamship Leviathan, flagship of the United States Lines, sailed for New York today as a doughboy ship—just as she was in the days of the World War. Nearly 2,000 legionnaires, the last of the great pilgrimage to Europe for the American Legion convention, were aboard her.

To Avoid Engine Repair Bills

Wise motorists check their ignition when the engine falls short of the fine performance that it once had.

Many times expensive repair bills are incurred and it is afterwards found that all that was needed was a new set of spark plugs. This for the reason that spark plugs in time deteriorate and need to be replaced.

This is the simplest, safest and least costly thing to do before authorizing extensive repairs or adjustments.

When you buy spark plugs, be sure to insist on AC—the spark plug on which Lindbergh, Chamberlin, Byrd and other great flyers staked their lives—then you will be sure of perfect spark plug performance.

Your dealer has the right type and size for your engine.

DELAY HEARING IN DENNISTON ESTATE

Judge Jacob J. Miller in Orphans Court yesterday postponed further hearing in the contest of the Henry Denniston heirs, to prevent Mrs. Ella Vaughn from carving out five choice acres of land owned by the Swissvale recluse, and, she says, left to her.

Under the terms of the will, Judge Miller pointed out, the testator directed that Mrs. Vaughn, a niece of Denniston, was to have five acres, "and it appears she was to select it and that she is the favorite object of his bounty in the donation of the land in question," as Judge Miller expressed it.

"It is the duty of the jury to make a partition of the land," continued Judge Miller, "keeping in mind the desires of the testator. I shall postpone further hearing without prejudice and recommend a submission of all of the facts to the jury (viewers) and the exceptants can report whether it is equitable or inequitable. We then can rule on exceptions, "as the present proceedings is not subject to instruction of this court at this time."

2 OUT ON BAIL IN MINE KILLING

Fred Ewald, 30, of Irwin, and H. P. Watts, 25, of Harrisburg, coal and iron policemen employed by the Pittsburgh Coal Company, were at liberty under $1,000 bond each today to await the action of a coroner's jury in the death of M. C. Watkins, 28, Negro miner.

Watkins was shot and killed during a battle Sunday between coal and iron police and Negro miners in Moon Run after the Negroes are said to have taken a Negro woman prisoner from the officers. Watkins was an innocent victim of the riot. The police charged yesterday that the Negroes opened fire on them.

Fur Coats for Collegiennes

THIS store maintains an Individual Fur Shop for Misses, which presents Coats distinctly styled for youth, in line and in fur. The following are notable among those of sports types:

Raccoon Coats remain first favorites with collegiennes, and Horne's is the favorite place to choose them, because only the best skins are used in raccoon coats here—full-furred for wearing quality, and clear-colored for beauty. With shawl, Johnny or crush collars—$350.00 to $425.00.

• • • •

American Opossum Coats at $165.00, Kangacoon Coats at $195.00, and Australian Opossum Coats, $275.00, are good-looking sports models for young women who want inexpensive ones.

• • • •

Otter is a sports-type fur which has one hundred per cent wearing quality, to be had in rich ombre brown tones, in coats with beaver collars, $450.00.

• • • •

Samoli Leopard, with warm orange tints in its coloring, comes in finer sports-type coats, with collars of self fur, red fox or beaver, at $695.00 to $825.00.

Reptile Footwear

Significant of the autumn trend, shoes of this type were noted on the smartest women in the grandstand at Forbes Field last week.

Sports-type and street shoes of brown or black alligator, in oxford, step-in or one-strap style, with two heights of Cuban heel, and turned or welt soles, $10.00 to $16.50.

Semi-dress shoes of genuine lizard, brown or black, fine, lightweight oxford models, $14.50 to $25.00.

Handsome, Dressy Coats for Women, $129.50

They have been chosen with great care in regard to both fabric and fur.

They are made of various of the fashionable flat-surfaced weaves, in black, brown, tan and green shades. And as coats must be this season, they are richly trimmed with fur—fitch, caracul, cocoa squirrel, beaver, black and kit fox, and platinum wolf. Sizes 34 to 46.

Tailor-Type Dresses

Of Fine Cloths

$25.00

So many styles in the new lightweight cloths for women.

There are one-piece coat effects, youthful one and two-piece models, and bolero styles. Some are strictly tailored, others are softened with binding of satin, contrasting applique, and white crepe de chine collars.

The fabrics are wool georgette, wool crepe, cordovan crepe, rep, and wool jersey—in solid colors, pencil stripes, and fine, invisible checks.

An Importation of

EXQUISITE LINGERIE

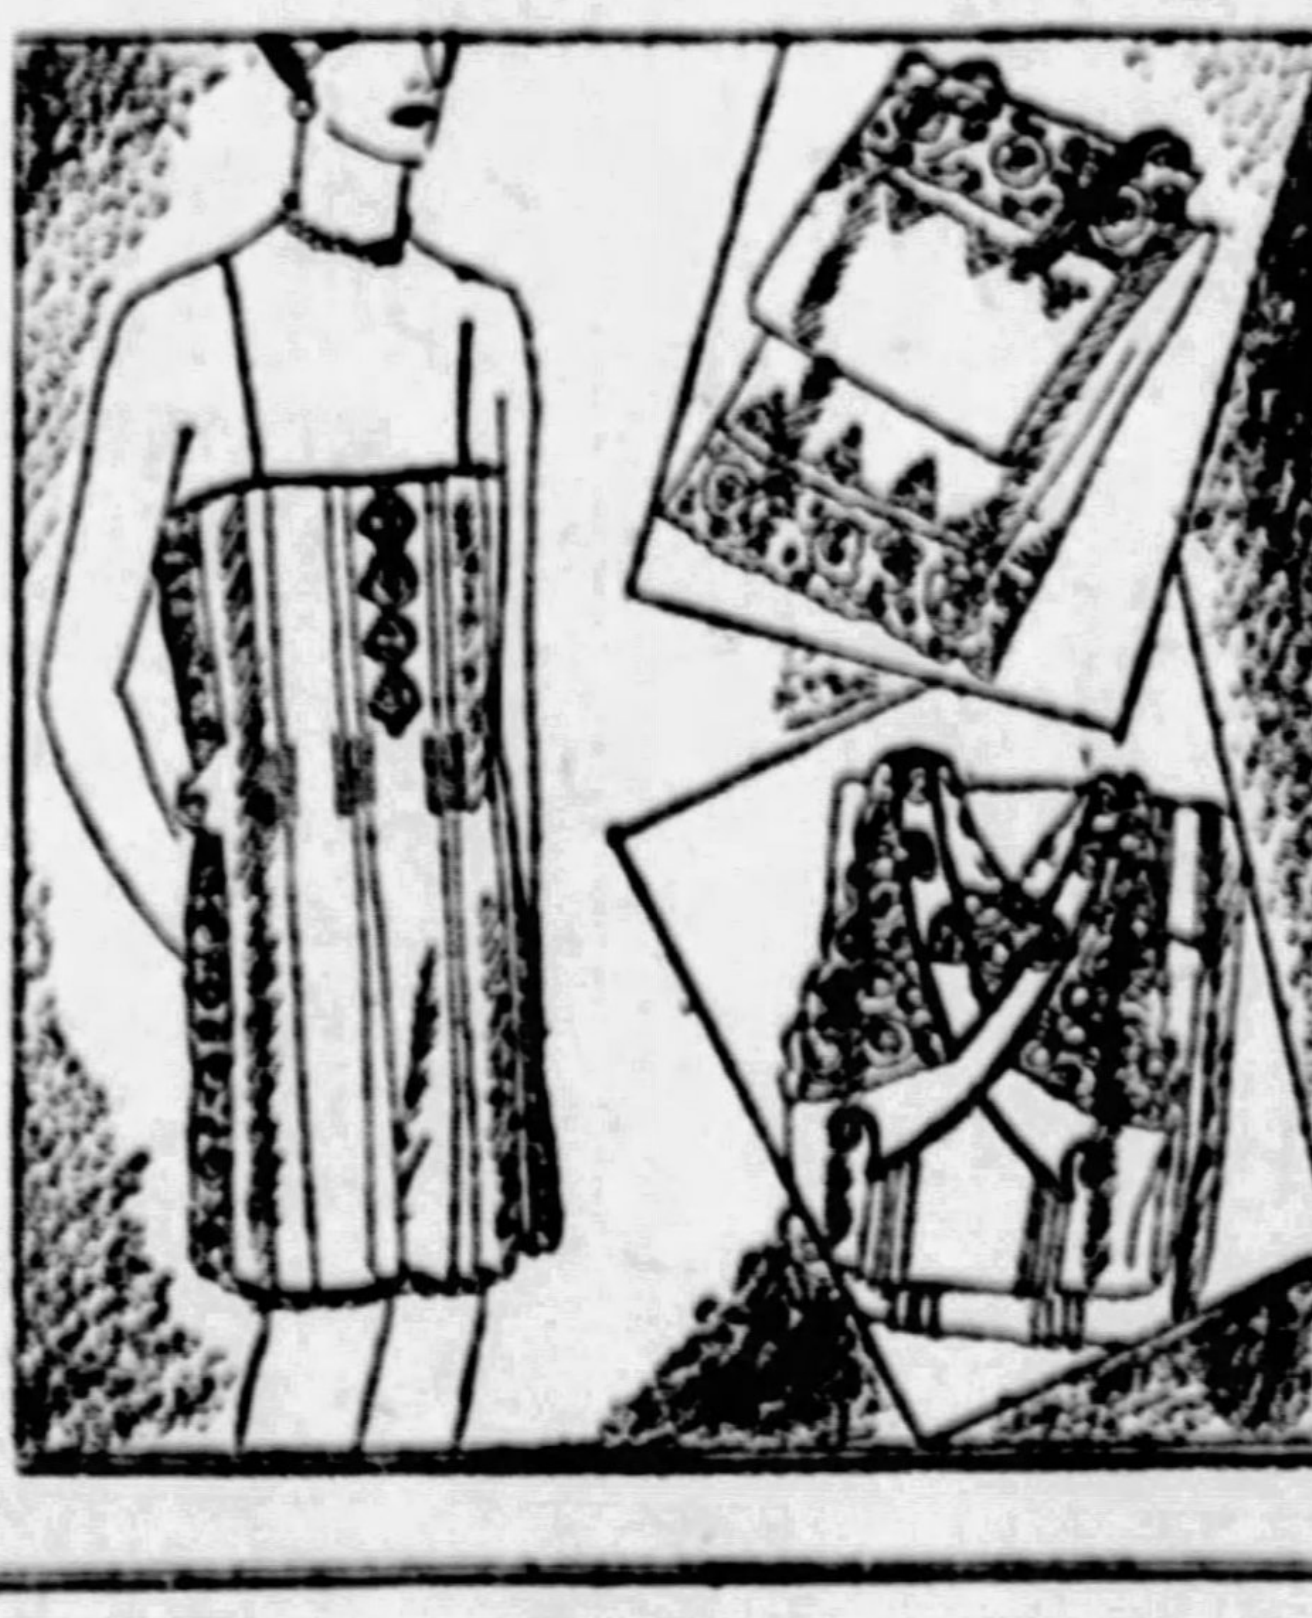
Very French are these gowns, costume slips, bloomer sets, and chemises, beautifully hand-made and smartly styled.

Alencon, Brittany, and Valenciennes are some of the laces used on crepe de chine, georgette, and ninon—materials soft or sheer, with embroidery and incrustations.

Interesting and smartly Parisian notes are found in the wisps of straps coming from front and back and looping at tops of shoulders, or the satin ribbon bows closing gowns at the shoulder.

Pastel and vivid deep shades, as well as tinted and embroidered laces, are used on peach, maize, scarcelle blue, flesh, wistaria, or white.

Slips, gowns, and chemises, or bloomer sets variously priced.



Bloomer-Chemise of coral crepe de chine, with panels of delicate cream lace repeated in diamond shaped inserts on bodice. $35.00.

Slip of flesh crepe de chine, with embroidered net at top and bottom and rows of hand-embroidered dots above and below. $35.00.

Gown of orchid crepe de chine with groups of fine full-length pleating. Deep yoke of orchid-tinted lace, with lines of hand embroidery in self-color pattern $59.50.

The Mol-may Riskay

The Foundation for Natural Beauty

The discriminating woman realizes that the natural figure lines are the most becoming, most alluring, and most beautiful. Therefore, she does not want a heavily-boned corset which forces her figure into unnatural constraint. She chooses a garment that will give the needed support, and will restrain and mold her figure into the correct proportions. Thus she acquires the grace of movement which comes from the proper control and poise of the body, while she presents a lovely, well-groomed appearance at all times.

The Mol-may Riskay, a boneless, one-piece foundation garment, gains its effectiveness by the use of strips of reinforcing material, and by a patented reinforcement for diaphragm control; it provides just the right proportions of support and freedom. A beautiful garment of fine silk brocade, some models with filet top, lined with indestructible chiffon. There are also models in all filet, lined with indestructible chiffon, or with satin—a fitting foundation for the evening mode. Mol-may Riskays from $7.50 to $89.50.

The foundation garment must be fitted. Our expert fitters will be glad to advise you on your figure problems. Phone for appointment, Court 3000.

Weary of Their Wickedness Michael Arlen's Nice People Reform and Lunch in Nixon

By GEORGE SEIBEL

GEORGE SEIBEL

POST-WAR morals are the theme of "The Zoo," a comedy by Michael Arlen and Winchell Smith presented in the Nixon Theater last night by a company of such fine mettle that the thin texture of the play was hardly noticed. The authors had the happy idea of patterning their characters after animals, but the variety is rather monotonous. Foxes and geese are the principal figures, with a good-natured donkey to bray and a pig to squeal for accompaniment. And the only moral our new Aesops can tack on to this fable is that lunch is better than romance.

When the curtain rises Olivia has left her husband, who has been indiscreet with a divorcee who enjoyed the luxury of five co-respondents. Victor is making love to Olivia unsuccessfully, until her husband gets Victor to intercede for him, whereupon the lady falls in love with Victor. In the second act, only one week later, Victor is already making love to another girl, and gets his face slapped with Olivia's glove. In the third act everybody forgives everybody else and presumably everybody is unhappy forever after. The wife lies to her husband, the philanderer goes abroad, and the young girl no doubt will wed the genial idiot who spent most of the second act off-stage getting sandwiches while she was being pursued by the other man, who had "made love so often and never loved before."

This plot is wrapped in a shimmering scarf of wit and epigram. If it doesn't sparkle and glitter as pyrotechnically as in the usual run of Wilde, Shaw and Maugham plays, that may be because the formula is so well known—like narcotics, the effect wears off. Just as the modern dances, viewed through a French window by one of the characters, are described as "organized epilepsy," so this modern society drama, viewed through the lenses of satiety, might be defined as "systematic infidelity." It is the second childhood of Don Juan.

But all these epigrams and these situations are most adeptly projected across the footlights by a company of admirable excellence. The palm should be awarded to Miss Irene Browne, whose Olivia is played with a wistful weariness that makes it completely credible. Roland Young, also, as the artist cad, depicts the duality of this character with remarkable finesse, never lapsing into real passion, never ascending to real heroics. Miss Elsie Lawson is sweet and ingenious as Honor, and Miss Lucile Watson is acid and sophisticated as Mrs. Wallbridge. Wallace Eddinger plays the husband with sheepish contrition in the first act, with alcoholic exaltation in the second, and with chanticleer glee at the finish. Nor must a difficult piece of work by Miss Leila Bennett as the unattractive governess be passed over without its meed of high praise. The cast is just about perfect. So is their English diction.

But, just as one of the characters says that there is a fortune in it for the person who invents a new sex, so this play makes it evident that there is a fortune in it for the dramatist who invents a new sin. Those mid-Victorians had something to live for—their successors haven't any commandments left to bend or break.

MAGIC AND JAZZ IN DAVIS

There are several novel acts at the Davis Theatre this week, most novel of all being Frakson's cigaret trick. He is a magician quite adept with cards and coins, but there are many of that kind. When he manipulates a lighted cigaret, throws it away and reproduces it over and over, he is different and most mystifying. At the other end of the bill is Carl Freed with his orchestra, who is announced as "Europe's foremost musical director," and is really one of the most amusing of musical clowns, as well as a virtuoso on jugs, jewsharps, spoons, and similar unmusical instruments. Another merry bit of melody gone astray is the imitation of a country band playing "Poet and Peasant," presented by Harrison and Dakin. Roger Imhoff in a hotel comedy called "The Pest House" gives a good impersonation of an old Irishman. Lillian Fitzgerald, one of the numerous sisters of Fanny Brice, has a good voice and mimic skill, but there is little substance to her songs or jests. A dancing act by Taylor, Whiteley and Houston made up the remainder of the program, along with Willie Mause, a daring cyclist who whirls about inside of a huge wheel. "Swim, Girl, Swim," is the screen offering, with Bebe Daniels playing a comedy role very effectively and Gertrude Ederle appearing as herself in the scenario.

LANDER BROS. IN GAYETY

Lander Brothers Revue, current production in the Gayety, is there with pleasing action and entertainment. Its comedians are clever, its girls can dance and it offers a good feature in Six Jolly Jesters, singing, dancing and saxophone entertainers. The Lander boys, Harry and Willie, this season give some of their old antics a new dress and introduce some new stunts. Jack W. Burke helps out with the fun-making. Billy Morlen, with an accordion, and Blanche Mason, with a violin, give some specialty numbers. The show pokes fun at the movie-makers and moviegoers among other things. The costumes of the chorus are bright and sufficient. The scenic effects are satisfactory. Among the scenes are "Fishing in Hawaii," "The Gypsy Camp" and "The Old Wishing Well."

Comedy and Songs Feature Bill in Grand

"American Beauty," starring Billie Dove, with Lloyd Hughes as leading man, is the comedy screen feature in the Grand. On the stage Dolores Cassinelli sings, her voice being of a quality that gives much pleasure. In "American Beauty" Miss Dove is a poor girl who pretends she is rich so she can get a rich husband and thus obtain the pretties her heart desires. As a poser she is a charming success. So successful is she, in fact, that she receives the proposal of a wealthy man and decides that she doesn't want rich gowns and a steam yacht and other things money can buy. So off she goes to South America with the poor young man who had proposed to her when he received a job as chemist for a mining company. In the picture there are a lot of laughs, a little drama and a novel expedient adopted by the heroine to let the young man of her heart know her change in sentiment. Miss Cassinelli, who formerly was a film star, is assisted in her vocal program by Julian Oliver, tenor, both giving satisfactory performances.

"Jazz Week" Bill Presented in Penn

Presenting a screen comedy, "Spring Fever," and a stage bill planned to carry out a "Jazz Week" tone, the Penn has a bill made up principally of lighter elements of entertainment. There is just a touch of seriousness when the orchestra plays an overture made up of selections from "Faust," the conclusion of which is a stage scene from the opera in which is heard the voices of Marguerite, Faust and Mephisto. "Spring Fever," starring William Haines, is an amusing little story about a shipping clerk who is a golf bug. Being late for work he gets in bad with his boss but everything is made right when the boss discovers his clerk is a crack golfer. The clerk corrects some of his employer's faults and becomes the white-haired lad around the office. Skipping a lot, let it be known he elopes with his employer's niece and is forgiven when he wins a golf match at the last hole. Joan Crawford is the girl, George Fawcett, the boss. Haines scores in a comedy role. Other do excellently. On the stage Jimmy Carr and his orchestra; Willie Robyn, tenor; the eight Tiller girls; Olivette, eccentric dancer; Chief Eagle Feather, dancer, and Leonard and Hines, singers, all please.

Old Fashioned Melodrama in New Fashioned Wrapper is Excellent Show in Alvin

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS.

OLD fashioned melodrama done up in a new fashioned wrapper is on the boards in the Alvin, where it held the interest of the audience steadily through the three acts it contains last night. "Interference" is the title of this melodrama. It was written by a couple of English writers, Ronald Pertwee and Harold Dearden. The characters are all English and the company is largely composed of English actors. Although it is melodrama it is in nowise suggestive of Drury lane, of melodramatic tradition. There is no "fireman-save-my-child" atmosphere but there are "papers" in the form of letters. There is no villain, properly speaking, but there is a villainess, if one may apply such a term to one of the gentler sex, even though this specimen was not so particularly gentle.

There is a murder done right in the view of the audience, but no rough stuff. Just a nice, genteel exhibition of killing. And there are—what melodrama could be complete without them—police, who are neither dumb, nor bungling, nor offensively officious, but capably efficient. Here, you see, are all the elements of a good, rousing melodrama of the sensational kind, which it is not. It is a nice, polite, quiet sort of a melodrama, with scarcely a word spoken above a genteel conversational tone, yet the tensity of all the situations that are tense is stressed as effectively as if words were hissed with snaky sibilance or emotions expressed with curling lips, heaving chests and rolling eyes.

From the foregoing you may infer that "Interference" is quite an unusual melodrama. It is. In fact, it is one I am sure you would enjoy seeing, so I cheerfully recommend it as a dose of old-fashioned dramatic medicine, nicely sugared.

In "Interference" are two men who don't like interference. They are Sir John Marlay, M. D., and Philip Voaze. At the time the play opens Sir John has just been an F. R. S. for a medical discovery and everything seems placid. His wife asks for money for about the tenth time in a short period. Next comes a patient who proves to be Lady Marlay's first husband, thought to have been killed in France and who never took the trouble to rectify the mistake. Lady Marlay and Philip meet and one judges their marriage had been delayed a little and that he had been quite a rotter and that she was now enjoying her first happiness. That is she would be if she were not being blackmailed by a woman who also had been part of Philip's life.

It is this woman one sees murdered in plain view under circumstances that might cause the police to suspect either Sir John or Lady Marlay, despite strong evidence that was manufactured to make the crime appear suicide. I know who did it and I realized that I am saying too much, with vigilant police everywhere about. So I will say no more about it. Except that it was a nice, gentle murder.

A. E. Matthews was the rotter and he played his part with rare skill and judgment. Arthur Wontner was Sir John Marlay, making him eminently efficient and decisive without earmarks of acting. Phoebe Foster won sympathy for the distressed wife she portrayed so well. Kathlene MacDonell was the other woman, and she too is deserving of high praise. In fact, every member of the large company did their work so well that all may be called artists.

ALDINE OFFERS GOOD BILL

There is real class to much of the stage entertainment being dispensed in Loew's Aldine this week. Cecilia "Cissie" Loftus gives a group of impressions of prominent theater personalities of the present and past, including Ethel Barrymore, Fanny Brice and Sophie Tucker. With the aid of the movie screen. Manley and Baldwin present a novel introduction to their act, "Great Men of the Past." They deal chiefly with th old hansom cab driver and the bartender. Howard and Lind, two "Girls," who confess their age is under 45, sing and banter about wedding bells that don't ring for them. "Castle of Dreams" present an assemblage of youthful talent adept at entertainment. Marion Chambers, Micky Norton, Lindsay and Mason carry the song and dance honors of this latter presentation. The Kitaros, Japanese performers, toss one another about in the air and win applause. "Silk Stockings," a light and entertaining comedy drama, holds sway as the photoplay feature. Laura La Plante is starred. Short film entertainment is on the bill.

CAMEO FILM FEATURE IS "THE LONE EAGLE"

"The Lone Eagle," a picture centering around the part played by aviation in the World War, is the current feature in the Cameo. Raymond Keane portrays an American youth attached to a veteran unit of the British Flying Corps. Barbara Kent, 1927 Wampas baby star, is seen in the role of the French heroine. Other members of the cast include Jack Pennick, Nigel Barrie and Don Stuart. The picture is based on "Winged Victory," a story by Lieut. Ralph Blanchard of the United States Air Service. A new issue of the "Collegian" series, International News and special music complete the bill.

Bebe Daniels is the star of "Swim, Girl, Swim," current photoplay in the Cameraphone. The picture serves to introduce Gertrude Ederle, conqueror of the English Channel, as a movie actress, Miss Ederle having a featured role. The picture plot is unraveled against a collegiate background. Many of the scenes were made at the University of California and several hundred students appear in extra roles. The cast includes James Hall, Josephine Dunn and William Austin. Short screen features complete the bill.

GERBER'S SKIT IN HARRIS

Gerber's Jesters, a sextet of singers, dancers and funsters, top the vaudeville this week in the Harris with an entertaining skit. The "jesters" include Harry Seymour, the Teller Sisters, Chat Gorman and Val Irving. Another act is "The Toy Shop," which is presented by a man, woman, ponies and dogs. The ponies and dogs are clever performers. Janet Childs proves full of pep and well up in the art of impersonation. She does a very interesting Charlie Chaplin, but she ought to leave out some of it. Morgan Davis and Lulu McCoy "boob" their way through an act that has its good points and some too rough. Jarrow, a trickster, is amusing. The photoplay feature is "The Coward," featuring Warner Baxter. Warner is seen as a son of wealth, who cuts up wild in his home town, Gotham, and then goes to the Canadian woods to reclaim himself.

Academy Offering "Social Maids" Burlesque

"Social Maids," in the Academy is a burlesque offering a variety of features. Chuck Wilson appears in an eccentric comedy role and in specialties. Rose Bernard is an energetic dancer and who also sings in a pleasing manner. Naomi Wheeler plays the ingenue part and presents specialties. Betty Abbott and Nan Forrest are prominent. Sam Pierce, George C. Mack and Buddy Abbott, are fun-makers. Burlesque skits and a song drama are among the popular diversions. Dottie and her period dancers, ten in number, have a showy act. There is an oriental ballet, which gives Cleo an opportunity to present a special dance.

Variety and Film Program in Sheridan

In the Sheridan Square yesterday "Girlie and Her Cyclones" topped the bill in what they called "A Colored Dancing Revue." Four men and Girlie went through a series of the fastest moving dance numbers seen in a long while. Rubini and Rosa, in a singing offering, were a close second for applause. Toby Wilson and company appeared in a skit that called for legitimate acting. Howard Nichols made hoops do everything but talk. Rice and Newton presented a novelty. The photoplay was Laura La Plante, in "Silk Stockings," a farce that had Otis Harlan helping in the fun. John Edward Mitchell in an original organlogue, comedy screen features and other acts completed the bill.

BARRYMORE PICTURE REMAINS IN OLYMPIC

John Barrymore's newest starring production, "When a Man Loves," is being presented for a second and final week in the Olympic. Dolores Costello has the leading feminine role. The picture is offered with a Vitaphone accompaniment, played by a 107-piece orchestra.

What Should Your Blood Pressure Be?

Doctors often figure normal blood pressure by adding 100 to a person's age. If a test shows it to be abnormally high, a dangerous condition is indicated.

High blood pressure means that the blood stream and system are loaded with body poisons. Yet it is a condition which can be corrected pleasantly with Lithuric Salts. Composed only of valuable, natural mineral salts and fruit acids, effervescent, palatable Lithuric Salts quickly reduces blood pressure by gently but thoroughly flushing the intestines, stimulating the liver and assisting the kidneys. In Lithuric Salts you will find no sodium chloride or sugar, making it perfectly harmless to take even in diabetic conditions. If your blood pressure is high, get a bottle of Lithuric Salts today at any May Drug Co. Store, or of any other good druggist, on our "satisfaction or money back" guarantee. All druggists sell and recommend it.

HOLD 2 AFTER AUTO CRASHES

J. M. Clark, 72, of 265 Dasher street, suffered bruises about the head and body when struck by an automobile driven by Thomas Phillips, 231 Borden street, Carnegie, at Liberty avenue and Seventh street at 7:30 o'clock this morning. He was taken to Allegheny General Hospital. Phillips was arrested, charged with reckless driving.

The automobile of John Neigoot, Latrobe, crashed into the car of Harry Saitta, 2908 Preble avenue, at Seventh avenue and William Penn way at 8:30 o'clock this morning. Neigoot was charged with reckless driving. Saitta's car was badly damaged.

MINERS ANSWER COMPLAINT BILL

Dismissal of the bill of complaint of the Pittsburgh Terminal Coal Corporation upon which a temporary injunction has been granted against United Mine Workers of America was asked in an answer filed in Federal Court today by counsel for the miners' union.

The union officials deny that they conspired to interfere with non-union mines in the central fields, that they resorted to violence or lawlessness, that they imposed "burdensome conditions" upon the operators, that they have "monopolistic control" over labor.

CALL MASS MEETING TO DISCUSS FERRY TUBES

Indorsement of the projected Ferry street bridge and tubes to Southwestern Allegheny county was voiced last night by the board of commissioners of Mt. Lebanon township. The project will be considered by the Mt. Lebanon Chamber of Commerce at its meeting tonight. A public meeting at which the project will be discussed in detail will be held in the Washington School, Mt. Lebanon, at 8 o'clock Friday night, according to C. E. Hood, who is in charge of arrangements. Among the speakers will be Harrison Nesbit, president of the Bank of Pittsburgh.

GIRL SAVES GREENBORO FROM FIRE

FLASHES STORY OF DANGER TO OTHER TOWNS

WAYNESBURG, Oct. 11.—(Special.)—Lenore McCann, telephone operator at Greenboro, today was being given credit for having kept down damage, which nevertheless may reach $40,000, by calling help to fight a fire which last night menaced the entire village. Not until fire companies from eight other towns had answered calls for aid were the flames checked. Three members of the Greenboro bucket brigade—Francis May, Louis Hanna and Melvin Zimmer—collapsed from exhaustion during the fire, but were revived.

The fire started in the frame bake shop of Peter Behigeni, spread to his cottage, then to the home of Ellsworth Garrison, destroying all three buildings. It reached the Main Street Garage, owned by Ray Eddy, destroyed it, and detonated gasoline and oil tanks. Embers hurled by the explosion ignited a score of small frame buildings, some of which were destroyed.

Miss McCann's telephoning, although the telephone building was in danger of fire, brought one outside company quickly, but the Monongahela River, only source of water, was 1,700 feet away, and the company was powerless until her calls brought a second company. In all, she got help from Waynesburg, Point Marion, Carmichaels, Masontown, Uniontown, Rices Landing, Fredericktown and Jefferson.

Greenboro is known for its manufacture of pottery and earthenware with which it supplied a large share of the neighboring market.

LETS BAG FALL, LOSES GEMS

A bar pin, containing 50 small diamonds and two large sapphires, and her marriage certificate, were lost yesterday by Mrs. Jack Gold, 537 McKee place, when her purse fell from her automobile in Forbes street, Mrs. Gold reported to police today.

According to Mrs. Gold, the pin, an heirloom, was worth several thousand dollars and had been given to her as a wedding gift.

JUDGE GIVES OWN COAT TO LONDON THEFT VICTIM

MISS GRAYSON'S PLANE LANDS AT HOP SPOT

By Universal Service.

OLD ORCHARD, Me., Oct. 11.—Frances Wilson Grayson and five passengers made a graceful landing on the beach here yesterday in her Sikorsky amphibian plane, "The Dawn," in a flight from Roosevelt Field.

Accompanying Miss Grayson on the first leg of a proposed flight which she intends to make to Copenhagen, Denmark, were Wilmer Tultz, Pilot; Brice Goldsborough, navigator, John Nrogge, newspaperman; Boris Lebeinsky, Sikorsky plane expert, and Thomas H. Kinkade, Wright motor engineer.

On the Atlantic hop Miss Grayson will be accompanied only by Tultz and Goldsborough.

Speed and load tests will be made here before the take-off for Copenhagen, Miss Grayson said. One stop will be made en route to the final destination. This will be very likely either in England or the Azores, she said.

MONASTERY OBSERVES "BENEFACTORS" DAY

"Benefactors day" was being observed at the Monastery of St. Paul of the Cross, South Hills, today as part of the three-day celebration of the Passionate Fathers' diamond jubilee, which began yesterday. The Rt. Rev. Joseph Nussbaum, bishop of Marquette, Mich., was celebrant at the pontifical mass. Tomorrow will be the "day of thanksgiving," with the Rt. Rev. Hugh C. Boyle, bishop of the Pittsburgh diocese, as celebrant.

STOP BAD BREATH

People afflicted with bad breath find quick relief through Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. The pleasant, sugar-coated tablets are taken for bad breath by all who know them.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets act gently but firmly on the bowels and liver, stimulating them to natural action, clearing the blood and gently purifying the entire system. They do that which dangerous calomel does without any of the bad after effects.

Olive Tablets bring no griping, pain or any disagreeable effects.

Dr. F. M. Edwards discovered the formula after 20 years of practice among patients afflicted with bowel and liver complaint, with the attendant bad breath.

Olive Tablets are purely a vegetable compound mixed with olive oil; you will know them by their olive color. Take nightly for a week and note the effect. 15c, 30c, 60c. All Druggists.

Death rate doubles as FAT increases

FAT is abnormal. It is an ailment. It aids disease. Records of 43 insurance companies show it raises death risk from 25% to more than 100% at middle age.

There is an effective, common sense way of reducing overweight. Take Rite-Wate. These pure vegetable tablets aid nature. Use them with complete confidence, avoiding ill effects of strenuous diet and exercise.

Go now. Get Rite-Wate. Lose a pound or less daily until normal. Restore health and vitality. 8-4

SQUIRRELS VISIT CITY LOTS

CUMBERLAND, Md., Oct. 11.—Driven from the mountains by hunger and lack of natural forage, hundreds of migrating gray squirrels have come into the outskirts of Cumberland, and in many instances into yards of homes in the heart of the city in search of food. The animals are thin and half-starved and boldly expose themselves. Blight has killed nearly all the chestnuts, once their chief source of food, and other varieties of nuts were killed by the late spring frosts.

CHICAGO CADDY THOUGHT MURDERED, RUNAWAY

CHICAGO, Oct. 11.—Teddy Franks, popular North Shore caddy, who has been missing more than a week, and whom the police believed to have been murdered, returned to his home here today, unharmed. He had been merely a runaway boy.

TIONESTA JAIL PRISONER CAUGHT SAWING WAY OUT

TIONESTA, Pa., Oct. 11.—Leroy Jay, held on a charge of larceny in the county jail, was detected sawing two steel bars of his cell. Hacksaw blades had been smuggled to him.

RUM AUTO TEST CASE UP

By Universal Service.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11.—Announcement was made by the United States Supreme Court yesterday that it will review a Washington state case involving the right of the government to confiscate an automobile used for transporting liquor, when the title to the machine rests in a credit company which financed the purchase.

The Commercial Credit Company contends that the government illegally dismissed a charge of transporting liquor against W. G. Campbell, of the state of Washington, so it could confiscate the automobile under another section of the law dealing with evasion of tax upon liquor.

JEANNETTE PLANS BIG ARMISTICE DAY FETE

JEANNETTE, Pa., Oct. 11.—Armistice Day will be celebrated here with a full day's activities under the auspices of Post No. 344, American Legion. Parades, a football game and a dance are among the entertainment features scheduled. Jeannette's new municipal building will be dedicated then.

JAPANESE NAVAL MEN PRESENTED TO COOLIDGE

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11.—Admiral Nogano and members of his staff in command of the Japanese training squadron now at Annapolis paid their respects to President Coolidge at the White House yesterday. They were presented by the Japanese Ambassador, Mr. Matsudaira.

Do You Know What Really Ails You?

If you are ailing continually without knowing just what is the matter, help Nature by eating easily digested foods, by keeping the bowels open and by staying outdoors.

As another splendid aid to Nature, take Tanlac and see what even a single bottle will do.

Mrs. Albert J. Tucker, of 120 Orchard St., Nanticoke, Pa., says: "For six years I was a nervous wreck and suffered such severe headaches I could not ride on a trolley without being sick. Tanlac put me on my feet. Now I don't have headaches and enjoy the best of health."

Tanlac is one medicine that can be relied on as a quick and sure relief for general debility and weakness, sick headache, stomach ailments, nervousness, loss of appetite and sleep.

Tanlac is a good, pure medicine. It contains safe, vegetable ingredients of roots, barks and herbs that are recognized by the United States Pharmacopoeia. Get it from your druggist and begin to take it right away. Your money back if it doesn't help you.

BLOCKHOUSE SHINING FOR PRESIDENT'S VISIT

WARM WELCOME AWAITS CHIEF EXECUTIVE

Calvin Coolidge, the first President since George Washington to visit the Block House, will receive a cordial welcome at the historic building at the Point when he calls there Thursday morning.

Post flags will be flying, D. A. R. escutcheons will glitter with fresh polish and a new leaf will be in the register for the signatures of the President and Mrs. Coolidge. At the Block House it will be the biggest day in nearly 150 years.

Although the Point is important geographically in the life of Washington, fate has decreed that Coolidge is the first President of the United States to visit the place, as Washington was only a provincial colonel when he last stopped here in 1770, 18 years before he was elected the country's first executive.

The Coolidge pilgrimage to Pittsburgh's oldest landmark will be the only incident in his visit here, which has been arranged outside of the program for the Founder's Day exercises at the Carnegie Institute. A close student of Washington, the President has always taken opportunity to view close at hand the scenes of Washingtonian triumphs. The elm at Cambridge, Mt. Vernon, the "crossing" on the Delaware and the sacred ground at Williamsburg and Yorktown all have been visited by Coolidge during his term of office.

NO SPEECH PLANNED

At the Block House there will be no speech, unless the President takes the itinerary schedule into his own hands, and feels inspired to break his traditional silence. He will be accompanied by Mrs. Coolidge, Secretaries A. W. Mellon and James J. Davis of the cabinet, a group of European diplomats and the reception committee of the board of trustees of Carnegie Institute, headed by Col. S. H. Church and R. B. Mellon. It is planned that the party will reach the Block House about 10:30 a. m. and remain not longer than 30 minutes.

A brass plate in the pavement at the Block House will recall to President Coolidge the visits of his illustrious predecessor. Washington first halted at the "Forks of the Ohio" in 1753. He came again in 1758 when he commanded the Virginians in Gen. Forbes army in the capture of Fort Duquesne. Fort Pitt was erected in 1759 and the Block House in 1764. It was during Washington's journey in 1770 that he saw the little building which is standing today. He arrived October 17 and remained until the following day, and records in his journal that he dined at the fort and supped there in the evening "with the officers of the garrison."

It was on this occasion that he spoke a good word for Pittsburgh hotel accommodations by praising "the house of public entertainment kept by one Semple," 200 yards from the fort.

READY FOR VISITOR

President Coolidge will hear an eloquent description of the Block House and of the efforts of the Daughters of the American Revolution in their work of transforming the old tenement of 1817 into its original state as a frontier fort if he converses with Mrs. Mary Beck, custodian of the building. For years Mrs. Beck has welcomed Block House pilgrims and she has everything looking spic-and-span for the coming of the Coolidges.

"I am glad the President is coming," said Mrs. Beck. "We have visitors from all parts of the world, but many Pittsburghers have never seen the place. We have had foreign diplomats, generals, admirals, counts and princes by the score and it's high time that our own President should pay us a call. We average nearly 20,000 visitors a year, but when the people hear that Mr. Coolidge called on us, we'll have twice that number next year. Yes, all the flags will be up."

PA. HUNTS RACE TO FURNISH THRILLS

Clever riders on good horses will be seen in action tomorrow at the Pennsylvania Hunts Race meeting at Greensburg and thrills galore are promised on the 12 brush jumps over the two-mile oval course. The meet opens with the Westmoreland cup event and terminates with the Pennsylvania Hunts Challenge cup contest in which many well-known riders will compete.

George R. McNary's Red Fire, winner of the event last year, again will answer the bugle call, but he will be ridden by J. G. Smith of New York, Mr. McNary having been injured while traning about 10 days ago. J. C. Hamilton, former polo player, has entered a horse in each event and Mal McGriffen also will be represented in both. J. J. Bissell, winner of the Westmoreland cup last year, is out to repeat and W. B. Schiller, Jr., will go to the post on Bacardi Bay. Other entrants include F. L. Page, G. L. McCook, M. Coulter, J. W. Lawrence and many others.

J. Frederic Byers will be one of the judges and the stewards will be R. B. Mellon, Torrence Miller, W. B. Schiller, H. N. Van Voorhis, R. K. Mellon, George Paull, J. O. Burgwin, A. R. Flinn, H. W. Coulter, R. S. Love and J. D. Wentling.

CONVICTED "RADICAL" DENIED REHEARING

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11.—William Burns, convicted of violating the California syndicalism law, was denied a rehearing by the United States Supreme Court yesterday.

Miner Moves Leg First Time in Five Years

Bedfast for five years, Sebastian Bianchi, 52, Bruceton miner, was operated upon in McKeesport Hospital, and today for the first time in that period felt life in his right leg. Physicians believe he will walk within a few weeks.

Shot in the back five years ago, the bullet caused pressure on the spinal column and paralysis of the leg followed.

During those years Bianchi has been a periodical patient in Pittsburgh hospitals, always returning to his home, with no change in his condition.

Two months ago he was taken to McKeesport Hospital and since then has been prepared for the operation which Dr. T. S. Armstrong declared was one of the most delicate in orthopedic surgery.

The operation was performed yesterday and today Bianchi was able to get a slight response in the muscles of his leg. Dr. Armstrong, who performed the operation, assisted by other staff physicians, this morning watched Bianchi move his right leg slightly.

HASN'T FELT SO GOOD IN 20 YEARS

One package ALL-BRAN enables him to say good-bye to pills!

Read Mr. Awtry's testimonial as to what ALL-BRAN does in stamping out constipation.

"I'm a man 56 years of age, have had chronic constipation for 35 years. I have been taking all kinds of purgatives, scarcely—if ever—have a natural movement. Have spent a great deal of money and no permanent relief. . . . When I had used one package of your ALL-BRAN, I found I could discard my pills and tablets. I haven't felt as good in 20 years.

Jos. W. Awtry, Atlanta, Ga.

You can get permanent, natural relief from constipation by eating Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. Two tablespoonfuls daily—in chronic cases, with every meal. Guaranteed. Doctors recommend it because it is 100% bran.

Eat ALL-BRAN with milk or cream—and add fruits or honey. Use in cooking. Mix with other cereals. Served and sold everywhere. Ready to eat. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek. Recipes on package.

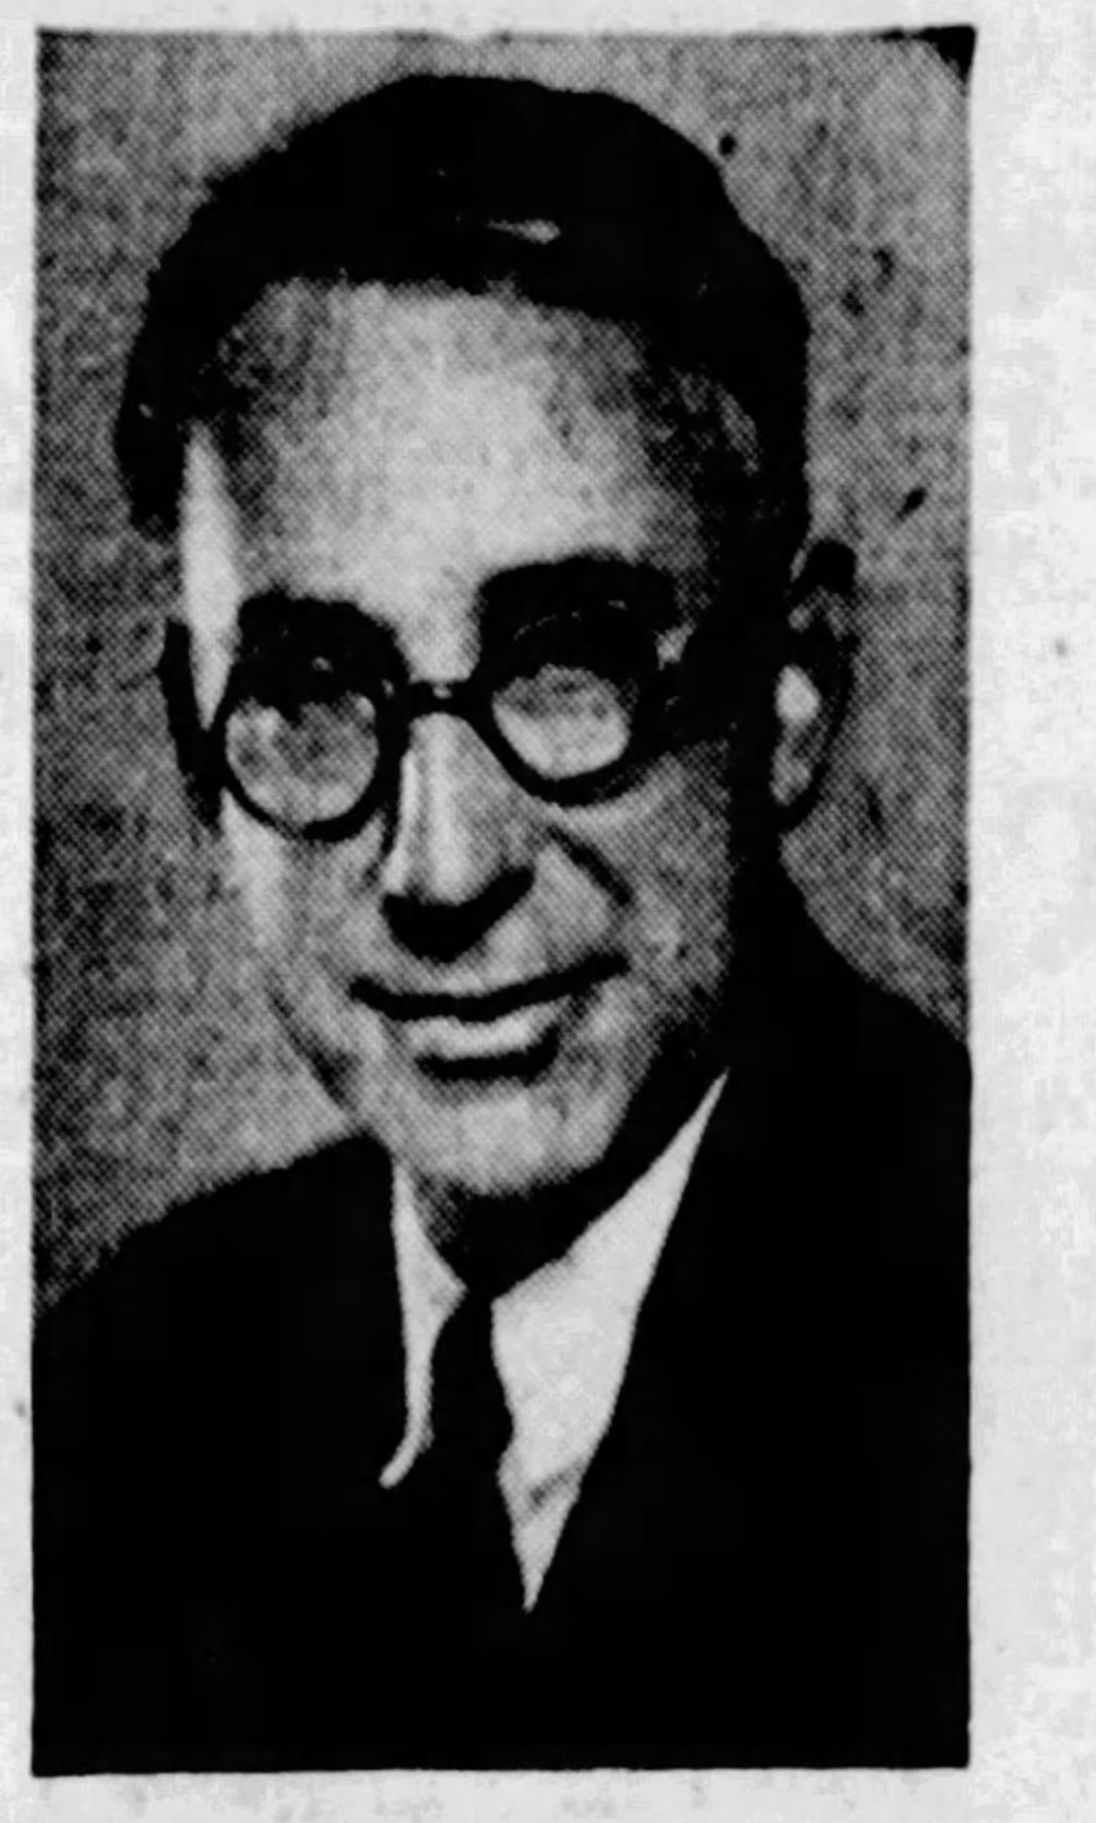
MAY DRUG CO. STORES, ALL OVER PITTSBURGH



The Private Life of a Lady of the XVth Century

By JOHN ERSKINE, who told us All We Ought to Know About Helen of Troy and Galahad

A LADY OF THE XVth CENTURY . . . the most beautiful woman of her time

JOHN ERSKINE, who is now revealing, to Cosmopolitan, some more Private Lives

AFTER looking over a copy of Cosmopolitan recently, Mr. Hearst, who knows at least as much about the publishing business as any other man living, said: "There's no question about it: this is the aristocrat of magazines. Any writer with a real message to deliver or a real story to tell, sooner or later chooses its pages as his avenue for reaching the reader who will understand and appreciate."

Which is quite true.

John Erskine, who wrote "The Private Life of Helen of Troy" and "Galahad" begins in Cosmopolitan a new set of private lives — the first being the leading feature of the November issue (just now on sale). Dr. Erskine found, when he addressed his classes at Columbia, that dry-as-dust facts were good only as soporifics, but that those facts, interpreted in the language of our day and given the glamour of romance, drew crowds and stimulated thought. So he wrote history as romance—and his books sold in thousands. Now he wishes to reach even a wider audience, and he chooses magazines. And naturally he gravitates to Cosmopolitan.

Naturally to Cosmopolitan, because there he finds the companionship of George A. Dorsey and Will Durant, distinctive thinkers; of Irvin S. Cobb and E. Phillips Oppenheim, Arthur Somers Roche and Capt. Thomason, distinctive story-tellers; of W. Somerset Maugham and Maurine Watkins, distinctive playwrights; of Peter B. Kyne and A. E. W. Mason, distinctive novelists; of George Ade and H. C. Witwer, Ring Lardner and O. O. McIntyre, distinctive humorists all; and of others outstanding in their fields.

A company which explains why Cosmopolitan appeals to the largest CLASS audience in the world, the largest audience of intelligent readers; an audience so determined to have the best and only the best that each reader pays each month for his copy a price which would buy several other magazines.

An Atheist Who Flouted God—But Goes to Church Every Sunday

HERE, in the story of a woman who could not and did not accept God, is one of the finest and frankest outpourings of the heart that ever has been put on paper. "God in the Darkness," by Honoré Willsie Morrow, is so powerful that it may cause to think even those who accept faith blindly.

459 Below Fahrenheit Zero—B-r-r-r

By Universal Service.

BERKELEY, Cal., Oct. 11.—Four hundred and fifty-nine degrees below zero, Fahrenheit, is the low temperature that may be obtained with a new refrigerating machine perfected at the University of California, according to announcement yesterday.

The machine was designed by W. F. Giauque, assistant professor of chemistry, for use in scientific research.

The low temperature of 459 degrees below zero is accomplished by a series of "steps."

By use of another refrigerating machine, a temperature is reached sufficient to liquefy air. Using this liquid air, it is possible to liquefy hydrogen. With the hydrogen it is possible to liquefy helium gas.

Liquid helium, subjected to a vacuum pump, can be further cooled to approximately 458 degrees below zero. At this point the new apparatus is put to use and the temperature is brought down within a small fraction of absolute zero, which is 459.4 degrees below the zero of a common thermometer.

SIMPLE HOME MIXTURE DARKENS GRAY HAIR

Cincinnati Barber Tells How Any One Can Prepare It in 5 Minutes.

Any man or woman can easily look twenty years younger by simply darkening their gray, faded, or streaky hair. This is now easy to accomplish with a recipe given by a well-known Cincinnati barber.

Simply take a half-pint of water, add one ounce of bay rum, ¼ ounce of glycerine and a small box of Barbo Compound. Shake it and it is ready to use. These ingredients can be bought at drug stores at trifling cost.

Applied to the hair twice weekly this delightful mixture quickly gives the desired shade. It is easy to use, is not sticky or greasy, will not color the scalp and does not rub off.

BLUSH BETRAYS YOUTH AS AUTOMOBILE THIEF

Louis Swidarski, 19, of 222 Twenty-fourth street was held for court on a charge of stealing an automobile by Justice of the Peace James A. Hernon, Sharpsburg, last night, because the youth blushed when Motorcycle Patrolman Chester Zygello gazed sharply at him in passing last Saturday. Zygello stopped and questioned the youth, who is said to have admitted the theft of the car from W. C. Slaser, 225 Harrison avenue, Avalon.

ANNIVERSARY OBSERVED BY HISTORICAL SOCIETY

Its seventeenth anniversary was observed yesterday by the Woman's Historical Society with a luncheon in the Congress of Clubs at which covers were laid for nearly 100. Mrs. Philip Kussart, now serving her second year as president, presided, and called on Mrs. James McGaw and Mrs. Edward A. Jones, of St. Petersburg, Fla., past president, and Mrs. Mary J. Cowley, a honorary member, for informal talks. A delightfull musical program was presented by Mrs. Ruth Bowers Gibson, who, with Mrs. Helen Sanford at the piano, gave several violin numbers, and Mrs. Elma B. Sulzner, contralto, who was accompanied by Miss Cathryn Sharrar. Mrs. Mark W. McGaffey, former regent of the Dolly Madison Chapter, Daughters of 1812, talked about "Friendship Hill," the former home of Albert Gallatin at New Geneva, and Mrs. Cowley, who has visited the home, and Mrs. Kussart, who formerly lived in New Geneva, supplemented her talk with a few words.

Mrs. R. F. Westerman was hostess to the Monday Club of Carnegie in the Y. W. C. A. rooms yesterday. Under the leadership of Mrs. O. R. Cook this program was presented on Norway and Sweden: "Topography and Climatology," Mrs. W. H. Roberts; "Waterfalls, Snowfields and Glaciers," Mrs. J. S. Bradwell; "Flora and Fauna," Mrs. J. M. Duff, and "The Smiling Hardenger," Mrs. W. A. Love. Trio numbers were offered by Mrs. W. W. Booth, Mrs. O. S. Heck and Mrs. W. B. Holt, duets by Mrs. Booth and Mrs. Heck and piano numbers by Mrs. Vivian Burnham. Mrs. H. A. Jones, a guest for the day, described a trip she made this summer to 42 cities of 20 countries.

Infantile Paralysis

MOTHERS!

Learn how to guard your dear little ones against this terrible disease

Nobody knows where infantile paralysis comes from. It seems to spring from nowhere, and it marks out for its victims little children who are unable to defend themselves. Right now newspapers are reporting increasing epidemics of infantile paralysis throughout the nation. It is a germ disease, and the germs, in some manner, are spread from one child to another.

The favorite place for germs to enter the system is through the mouth. So the place to destroy the germs is while they are in the mouth. Nothing destroys germs so quickly as GERM-ORAL. Thousands use it daily—finding it the only absolute protection against disease. It maintains a constant condition of cleanness and sweetness of the mouth, besides preserving the health of throat, gums and teeth.

GERM-ORAL is the most powerful mouth antiseptic known to Medical Science, yet it is absolutely safe and pleasant for the tender mouths of little children. It leaves a cool, refreshing, pleasant taste.

Isn't it wiser to use GERM-ORAL than to have your children run the risk of catching disease? Go today to your druggist and get a bottle of GERM-ORAL. Just a simple swabbing of children's mouths night and morning with this scientific mouth antiseptic avoids disease dangers and relieves you of worry. GERM-ORAL is extremely economical. Just a few drops to a half glass of hot water is sufficient. If inconvenient to buy at the drug store, send 75c to Hollander Bros. Drug Co., Rankin, Pa., Dept. 56-T.

How to End Corns in 3 Minutes

There's an amazing new corn remedy called Shur-Off that will remove sore, painful corns and callouses in only 3 minutes. No 3-day treatments or foot soaking. Complete relief comes at once.

The instant you apply Shur-Off all pain and soreness stop. It positively will not irritate or affect healthy skin, yet so quickly softens a corn or callous that in 3 minutes you can take it out—root and all. Anyone can do it easily by following the simple directions. Why let your feet cause further misery when you can get a bottle of Shur-Off sufficient to remove eight corns or callouses for only 50 cents at any May Drug Co. Store, or of any other good druggist?

"ASK ME ANOTHER" FASHION QUESTIONS

By Sarah Van Rensselaer

My dear Miss Van Rensselaer:

Next month I expect to leave for a trip around the world and am at a loss what to acquire for a wardrobe that will be practical and chic other than the accepted great-coat and sports hats. Could you possibly help me?

Buffalo, N. Y. Miss P. W.

From your note your besetting problems seem to be frocks and accessories. Several sweater costumes in different weights depending upon the various climates you intend to encounter: four afternoon frocks and three evening dresses should really be sufficient with one evening cape and a dress coat.

Accessories present difficulties. I would recommend Chamoisette* gloves—you can buy two pairs for the cost of one pair of kid. They wash easily and dry quickly and in damp weather feel much more comfortable on the hand than kid. For your underthings there is only one choice—Italian* Silk. This is highly practical for a long trip for it, too, washes simply, holds its shape and wears exceptionally well. And, be sure to stock up with hosiery as it is very expensive out of America. Kayser Slipper Heel* hose is dependable—made of a pure thread silk it wears well and even after washing retains its original lustrous appearance.

•CHAMOISETTES•

Your glove worries cease when you buy Chamoisettes.* For in choosing them you choose the ultimate in style, perfection in fashioning and fitting. In a fabric that resembles kid and costs half as much.

TOMORROW'S HOROSCOPE

Wednesday, October 12

If one has sympathy with the operations everything connected with them will seem to have beauty.—Marcus Aurelius.

UNDER the benignant rule of the beautiful planet Venus, in trine aspect with the moon, all should flourish and bring joy which pertains to the finer expressions of human living.

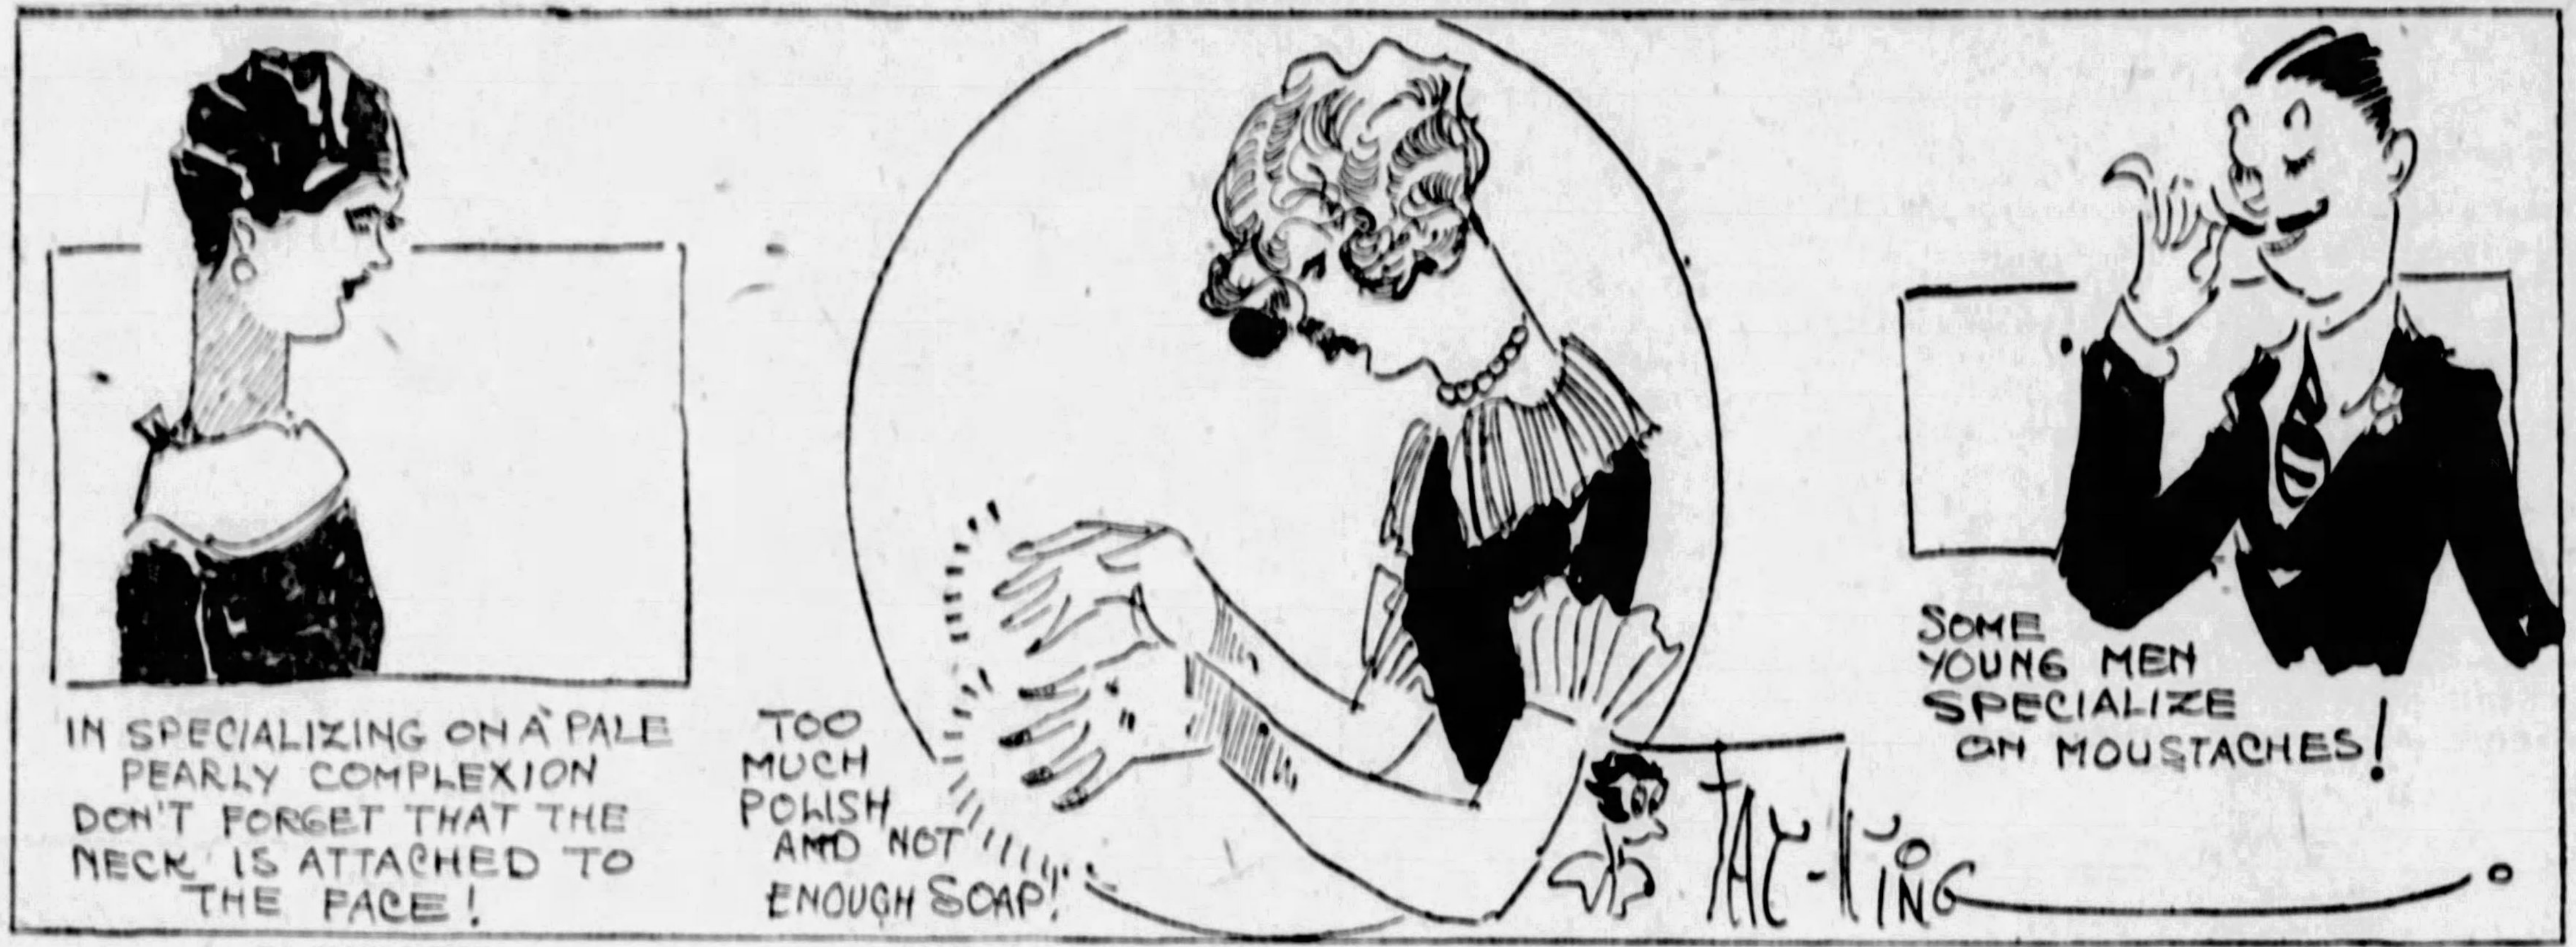
Heart and home affairs should thrive, and also those commercial enterprises having to do with these, as well as adornment, furnishing and clothing.

It may be well to be cautious in the signing of papers and dealing with corporations.

Those whose birthday it is may anticipate a year of pleasure and progress in domestic, romantic, social or artistic affiliations or in business catering to these, but should be on guard against fraud or treachery, especially in writings.

A child born on this day may be splendidly endowed with social graces and talent which should bring it success, happiness and popularity. It should be trained in conservatism in making contracts, as well as statements.

Fay King Decries Too Much Specialization



IN SPECIALIZING ON A PALE PEARLY COMPLEXION DON'T FORGET THAT THE NECK IS ATTACHED TO THE FACE!
TOO MUCH POLISH AND NOT ENOUGH SOAP!
SOME YOUNG MEN SPECIALIZE ON MOUSTACHES!
FAY-KING

By FAY KING.

THIS is a day of specialization.

Was a time when you could pop into one place and have a chair fixed or a leg set. But today you would have a fat chance trying to buy chicken feed and eye glasses at the same counter.

Even the dentists and doctors specialize. The dentist who fills teeth, will not pull them. The doctor who cures your sore throat can't do a thing for you if you have earache.

I have also observed that there is a tendency to specialize in appearances these days also.

The young ladies who specialize on beautiful nails, concentrate on their cuticle, but forget to wash their hands.

Another young lady specializes on her complexion, but forgets that her neck is attached to her face. She may be of alabaster whiteness and coral pink from the chin up, but she is dark and foreign looking from the chin to her chest.

Some specialize on a beautiful breath. Each word they speak seems scented with violets and roses, but her grammar and voice are barren as the sage brush country.

Legs have been specialized lately. Sheer stockings and smart shoes have become the special delight of every woman.

In specializing in them she has forgotten that they may be in any way related to the rest of her wardrobe.

A little generalization would help specialization in some of the cases where concentration has been riveted too emphatically, and more harm than harmony is the result.

Here's the Way to

Dazzling Teeth

That Movies' $100,000 Stars Use and Leading Dentists Urge.

Accept 10-Day Tube to Try

SCIENCE has made important discoveries in restoring "off-color" teeth to clear whiteness, and in firming tender gums. One's whole appearance may be quickly changed.

Most tooth ugliness (as to color) now is traced to a film that forms on teeth. You can feel it with your tongue—a slippery sort of coating.

That film absorbs discolorations, breeds bacteria, invites tooth decay and gum troubles. Old-type dentifrices failed to combat it successfully.

That's why your teeth are now off color. Clear it off, and you'll be amazed at what white teeth you have.

High dental authorities urge a new-type, film-removing dentifrice called Pepsodent . . . different from all others. You feel that film coat go. Beautiful color and high polish come.

All druggists sell Pepsodent in large tubes. Or send coupon for test free. Do this now.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

by Royal S. Copeland M.D.
U.S. Senator from New York

The Hundred-Year Club Growing Every Day

DR. COPELAND

MME. SCHUMANN-HEINK is among the most highly respected and admired of the great singers heard and enjoyed by Americans. She has been before the public so long we wonder at her perennial youth. She is the type of woman who never grows old. This is what she just said about herself:

"I am still the old war horse champing at the bit. I do not feel old. I do not believe I shall ever be old. Age is something of the mind, and my mind is young."

The day I read this was the ninety-eighth birthday of Hon. John R. Voorhis, president of the New York Board of Elections. He was in his office, greeting interviewers "with the beaming eyes, glowing smile and alert mind of a man of no more than fifty," one reporter said.

Always I have preached that age is a state of mind. Madame Schumann-Heink realizes it. Mr. Voorhis believes it. Your eyes must convince you of the fact.

Look at the women in the cities. You cannot tell whether they are 30 or 50. I know many a woman of 60 who can outdo her grandchildren in activities.

Show me a community where "old-fashioned ideas" prevail and I'll show you a place where the women look and act old at 35.

It isn't their fault, God bless 'em! It is the fault of their husbands. These men admire the looks of charming, youthful women, but get mad as hatters if their own wives spruce up and wear gay colors.

Wouldn't it be wonderful if everybody forgot the calendar and birthdays and just traveled full steam ahead!

The engineer of a fast train keeps his eyes ahead. He has no time to look backward. All his hopes and fears relate to the track in front of him.

That is the way we should live. We must look ahead and keep fit for coming tasks.

The state of mind is governed by the state of health. To have a cheerful and youthful mind, there must be freedom from physical pain.

I was much impressed by one thing Mr. Voorhis said on his birthday. It was this:

"I have been very highly favored by my Creator. I haven't had a headache in 50 years, although I have had some wracking work on my mind. I have been freed from the ailments usually attending life, especially one of such long duration as mine."

It is said that "God helps him who helps himself." God has helped these young-old folks because they have observed His laws. They have taken care of the temple of the body. By walking, by simple eating, by taking plenty of rest and sleep, by avoiding excesses and intemperance, they have preserved the body, kept its tissues nourished and vigorous, and guarded against disease by the sensible means of keeping fit.

My congratulations to all those who belong to the Hundred-Year Club and are maintaining that state of mind which declares that we are no older than we really think we are!

MEDITATIONS of a MARRIED WOMAN

by HELEN ROWLAND

HELEN ROWLAND

MIXED GRILL

A PHILOSOPHER is one who never inquires what's in a chicken croquette, a woman's mind, or a man's promises.

Since love has become just a matter of "It," divorce has become just a matter of time.

ONE-LOVE-AT-A-TIME

This mixing drinks and mixing kisses
Is stupid, cheap and deadly tame.
A true sport has his code—and this is
"While you're playing, play the GAME!"

"One-woman" men are rare—that granted.
Love does not always lead to Hymen;
But why are so few men contented
To be "one-woman-at-a-TIME" men?

Even the best of cars has to be jacked up occasionally; and the best of marriages needs an overhauling and a new stimulus now and then to keep it running along "smooth and pretty."

* * *

A woman's love is not actually dead until a man's sentimental follies and deflections have ceased to make her cry and begun to make her laugh.

Some men can break off a love-affair so gradually and gracefully that a girl feels almost flattered; others do it so clumsily and ruthlessly that she feels almost as humiliated and shaken up as though she had been knocked down by a taxicab.

* * *

Officially speaking, NO attractive woman is ever over "thirty-nine" until she is verging on fifty.

Little Sweethearts are the Rage now

All ideas of beauty, style and fitness call for slender figures now. All who seek to please, in movies or society, must banish excess fat.

Note how many do that. In every circle you can see that most folks now are slender. Fat is the exception.

One great reason is Marmola prescription tablets. People have used them for 20 years—millions of boxes of them. They have told the results to others. The slender figures now seen everywhere are largely due to that.

No abnormal exercise or diet is required, though moderation helps. The results of Marmola come through supplying a substance which Nature employs in nutrition. Its purpose is to turn food into fuel and energy, rather than into fat. The use is based on wide research and experiment.

Every box of Marmola contains the formula, also the reasons for results. This to let you know just why it acts and avoid any fear of harm.

Marmola has for two decades held top place in this field. Go learn the reason. Watch what it does for beauty, health and vitality! Then tell your friends who need it. No one can afford to be abnormal when reduction is so easy. Order now—before you forget it.

Marmola prescription tablets are sold by all druggists at $1 per box. If your druggist is out, he will get them at once from his jobber.

Watch Your Kidneys!

Your Kidneys Are Literally Sentinels of Your Health.
To Be Well See That They Function Properly.

YOUR kidneys! Do you realize what an important part they play in your bodily health and length of life? To be well the kidneys must thoroughly cleanse the blood of poisonous waste. Sluggish kidneys permit waste impurities to remain in the blood and cause slow poisoning of the system.

One is apt to feel tired and drowsy—to have a dull, nagging backache and annoying headaches and dizzy spells. That the kidneys are not working right is often shown by scanty or burning excretions.

Assist the kidneys with a stimulant diuretic.* Use Doan's Pills. Doan's stimulate the kidneys and assist in the removal of the poisons of bodily waste. Doan's have been winning new friends for more than forty years—are endorsed from coast to coast. Ask your neighbor!

*Diuretics are medicines which increase the secretion of the kidneys.

Keep Down Excess Uric Acid

Authorities agree that the kidneys are the principal eliminants of uric acid. Doan's Pills, by stimulating the activity of the kidneys, assist in the elimination of excess uric acid. They contain no harmful nor habit-forming drugs and do not affect the heart.

HOME FROM COAST

FRANK (BULL) BROWN

Local umpire, who has just returned from a season of officiating in the Pacific Coast League. He resumed his duties as a judge of local boxing bouts at Motor Square Garden last night.

BULL BROWN BACK HOME AFTER SEASON IN WEST

By CHARLES J. DOYLE.

FRANK BROWN, heavy favorite of Herron Hill, who starred as an umpire in the Pacific Coast League in the season just ended, was back in his home town yesterday, looking fit as a fiddle. Upon being complimented on his general looks and health after his stay in Sunny California, Brownie paid Pittsburgh a big compliment by remarking:

"Brother, if I look good it is all because I started to think of the day when I would be back in Pittsburgh and I never let go of this feeling in the last week of the season."

Without any good reason, Frank has been denied a chance to show in the major leagues. Coast League people, like those of the Eastern League, where Brown officiated before going West, are high in their praise of the fearless arbiter.

Frank was not in the Coast League long before he passed out the tip that John Miljus was a big league pitcher and one who would win for the first team that realized his ability. Scout Joe Devine was thinking the same thing and so the Pirates were able to grab off the Dark John through their Pacific Coast representative.

The Oakland club, aided to a big degree by Wilbur Cooper and George Boehler, won the Coast League flag.

Sandlot Football

By TOM BIRKS.

Two outstanding feats marked the playing of the independent gridiron games over the week-end. One was the defeat of the famous Duquesne Apprentices at the hands of the Hazelwood Ryans, and the other was the feat of the Sharpsburg Tigers holding the Bridgeville Firemen to a 6-6 score.

The work of the Ryans was delightful. Bucky O'Neill, the Georgetown luminary, will not be forgotten while Brother "Sonny," younger scion of the family, runs the backfield for the Ryans. The final touchdown of the game finished a brilliant dash through the Apprentice line with "Sonny" carrying the pigskin. Baker has quite a classy aggregation playing at Rand Field, and should that class of football keep up big crowds are going to be on deck.

Pigeon Fanciers Plan Convention Here

On October 14, 15 and 16 Pittsburgh will be the mecca for racing pigeon fanciers from all parts of America. The annual convention of the American Racing Pigeon Union is the magnet that will draw devotees of the sport to this city.

The convention and annual banquet will be held in the William Penn Hotel and reports from all sections of the country indicate that there will be as many visiting fanciers at the convention as local sportsmen.

The convention is being held under the auspices of the Greater Pittsburgh Center of the American Racing Pigeon Union, the largest local organization of racing men in America. About 600 strong, the local center wields a powerful influence on the sport in the Pittsburgh district, having complete jurisdiction over all races flown here.

Among those present at the annual meeting will be President William F. Dismer, of Washington, D. C.; Vice President Walter Schmitt, a prominent Cincinnati attorney; Albert J. Behrendt, of Chicago, national secretary-treasurer; Capt. D. C. Buscall, commander of the overseas pigeon service during the late war; Edward Lang Miller, holder of many racing records and other prominent fanciers from all parts of the country.

OPEN FORUM PLANNED

October 14 will be devoted to registration and meeting of the national committees with an open forum to be held in the evening at which matters pertaining to the sport will be open for discussion among members and non-members.

The business meeting will begin at 10 o'clock Saturday morning and after intermission for lunch will continue throughout the afternoon. Many important questions are up for discussion at the coming convention, probably one of the most important being the adoption of new plan to have the union's affairs administered by a board of governors. Another matter of importance will be the adoption of a resolution doing away with the present non-participating band, and making the present prize fund band the only one in use by union fanciers.

Among the local fanciers who are handling the convention affairs are President J. L. Carney, of the local organization; Secretary Joseph L. Zippler, Edward Ninehouser, secretary of the Lawrenceville center; James H. Foust, secretary of the Central combine; Thomas Fulton, vice president of the local center; L. Niedbalski, Arthur A. Fichter, Dr. J. M. Conway, Albert Greb, Paul Coultas, Victor J. Adams, Leon Adams, Albert P. Vierheller, Barthel Erbe and other well-known local racing men.

The Women's Auxiliary has arranged a fine program for the entertainment of visiting women. This will include a visit to Heinz's plant, theater parties and a Sunday afternoon picnic.

KIKI SAYS DREYFUSS WRONG IN STAND

— toward the closing days of the race—when I fell down miserably with the bat. I couldn't hit a ball in that series, a series in which the Giants made great strides in winning the pennant that year.

BLAMES BAD SHOULDER

In that series I was working with a bad shoulder. You may remember that I had had a collision with Frank Frisch at second base earlier in the season and my shoulder was bothering me so much that I paid several visits to an osteopath. Bill McKechnie, the manager, knew my condition, but he asked me to play for the good effect it would have on the rest of the men to have the regular lineup intact. Of course, I was anxious to do anything. That I struck out so many times in that series perhaps made a bad impression on my employer.

Something else happened to make Mr. Dreyfuss feel unkindly toward me. At the end of the Giant series of 1924, at Forbes Field, in which I got many a break and happened to hit timely and help out the other boys in beating the Giants four straight, Mr. Dreyfuss sent for me and very kindly gave me a bonus. The bonus amounted to $50 a month. Some of the players asked me what I got and I told them. Later a reporter heard about the bonus, asked me to confirm it, which I did. The story came out and I am afraid Mr. Dreyfuss got the impression I was sore that he had not given me a larger bonus. That was not true. Mr. Dreyfuss didn't have to give me anything extra and I am not so unappreciative that I would look a gift horse in the mouth.

It was after these two incidents in the Giant series of 1924 that I began hearing I was anything but a favorite in the front office. It is true we disagreed over my 1926 salary, but it was finally adjusted, and I did not think that this would bring about a terrific impasse.

PRAISES DREYFUSS

I want to say right here, no matter what Mr. Dreyfuss thinks of me, personally or in my capacity as a ball player, I think he is a good baseball man, who in keeping his club recruited with good men, produces a great brand of baseball for his patrons. That he didn't like me, as I had heard from so many sources, must not dim my judgment of him as a baseball man.

There are various stories of stormy interviews I had with my employer. All of them are false. For instance, there is the story that part of my trouble of this season came when I went to Mr. Dreyfuss to demand a bonus because, the story ran, that Mr. Dreyfuss had given bonuses to other men. That is the most absurd story to come out of the "Cuyler case." I certainly would not ask for a bonus because men con-

WILD LIFE MEET CARDED

The Wild Life League of New Kensington will hold its first annual meet and picnic at its lodge on Saturday. Coon dog trials, bench show, amateur and professional horseshoe tournaments and rifle shooting have been carded. Coon trials will start at 1 o'clock.

SPORT COMMENT by JAMES J. LONG

WONDER is still being expressed by some baseball fans at the fact that a club as strong as the Pirates proved themselves to be by winning the National League pennant could be beaten four times in a row with such comparative ease as marked the clean sweep of the Yankees in the world series.

Yet it is not uncommon for one good club to defeat another good team four times in a row. This has happened a number of times during the regular season, and anything that is possible in the regular season is possible in the world series as well.

IT doesn't follow by any means that the club losing four straight is an inferior outfit. It's just a case of one team being out of its stride at the time and of the other club's being able to play sufficiently better ball to capture four contests in succession.

Recall the world series of 1914, for instance. Greatly as the Boston Nationals had enthused the country by the remarkable dash that won the pennant for them in spite of the fact that they had been in last place as late as July 19, where were there any fans who expected that they would trim the famous Athletics four times in a row in the world series that year?

During that sensational drive, the Braves won 59 and lost only 16 of their last 75 games, which means that they played .785 ball from July 19 to the finish of the season. An unparalleled dash, beyond question, but still no one dreamed that even though they might win the world

DeMarco Victim of Bad Decision

CUDDY WHIPS WALLACE IN ROUGHHOUSE GO

By HARRY KECK, Sports Editor.

CUDDY DEMARCO got even with Billy Wallace of Cleveland in the eight-round main bout at Motor Square Garden last night for his knockout defeat by the latter in two rounds at Cleveland last season when he made Billy look like a preliminary boy without even his vaunted punch and gave him a tasty drubbing all the way, BUT——

One of the judges and the referee didn't think so, with the result that at the finish Wallace found himself the recipient of a gift decision, and Referee Eddie Kennedy, taking umbrage at some of the remarks of James (Red) Mason, Cuddy's manager, took a punch at Red in the dressing room and caused a bit of a scene, and the fans went away talking to themselves.

It was a terrible fight, hard-fought but messy, and not at all to the liking of the spectators. One round was like another, with Cuddy, a master hand at making hard punchers look bad, continually stabbing with his left and then moving in and tying up his opponent. Shortly the thing developed into a wrestling and hauling and pushing exhibition, with everything going but toeholds. Butting, elbowing, mugging, kidney punching and all the other fine tricks of back-alley fighting were interspersed, and Wallace lost his head completely and was unable to do anything worthwhile offensively. What clean punching and scoring were done were registered by DeMarco; what ring generalship was displayed was put on tap by Cuddy; what forcing was done was contributed by DeMarco, so that Wallace looked as bad as Joey LaGrey against Cuddy at McKeesport, Jack Zivic against him at Motor Square Garden in their return bout and Johnny Mellow against him recently at the Duquesne baseball park.

From first to last, it was DeMarco's fight. In my opinion, Wallace didn't win a round; the best I gave him was an even break in the fourth session. And throughout it was one of the foulest fights ever permitted by a referee to run its course. DeMarco was the chief offender in this respect, but finally Wallace drifted into the same channels and he was doing plenty of kidney-walloping and butting, and DeMarco exhibited two marks on his left shoulder after the bout ended which he claimed were made by Wallace's teeth.

So even mayhem was not excluded!

Jim McLaughlin of Braddock was the judge who found for DeMarco at the finish. Frank (Bull) Brown, just back from a season of umpiring in the Pacific Coast League, voted for Wallace, on the ground, as he told me afterward, when I quizzed him, that DeMarco was responsible for the messy fight and had to be penalized for his foul tactics. This sounded plausible, from his standpoint, but the referee cannot possibly advance the same reason for giving the bout to Wallace, who was all at sea and complaining throughout the bout. If the referee also thought DeMarco's tactics were so unethical as to merit punishment, he should have disqualified him. Once he permitted the bout to go the limit such a contention was out, and, on the basis of what fighting was done, DeMarco clearly was entitled to the award.

Wallace was a double winner on the labors of the evening. He re-

PRO CAGE LOOP OPENS NOV. 19

NEW YORK, Oct. 11.—The transfer of two franchises in the American Professional Basketball League and a 56-game schedule for the 1927-28 season were approved today by club owners in session here with Joe F. Carr of Columbus, O., president of the circuit.

The Brooklyn Celtics, 1926-27 champions, move their headquarters to Madison Square Garden, under Tex Rickard's direction, for the coming season, while the Baltimore club goes to Detroit, where home games will be played at New Olympia arena.

The league remains an eight-club circuit, other franchises being located as they were last season, in Chicago, Cleveland, Fort Wayne, Ind.; Rochester, N. Y.; Washington and Philadelphia. Each club will play 28 games at home except Detroit, which is limited to 21 because of a scarcity of available dates on its new circuit.

The season will open November 19 with Chicago playing at Cleveland.

P. WANER IS FAVORED AS MOST VALUABLE

NEW YORK, Oct. 11—(AP.)—If the opinions of most of the players participating in the late world series mean anything, the most-valuable-player awards for 1927 will go to Larruping Lou Gehrig, Yankee first baseman, for the American League, and to Paul Waner, Pirate right fielder, in the National League.

The views of the players themselves are significant, perhaps, but they are not the determining factor. The awards, made annually, are based on the ballots of baseball writers representing the cities in each circuit.

Last year the honor and its $1,000 National League emolument fell to Bob O'Farrell, star catcher and now manager of the St. Louis Cardinals. The American League award went to George Burns, Cleveland first baseman.

Gehrig, most of the ball players feel, is the logical American League choice this season. Columbia Lou gave Babe Ruth a hot chase most of the year for home run honors and finished with a total of 47, more than any other player in baseball history except the Bambino himself.

Paul Waner, National League batting champion and a finished all-around performer in spite of the fact that he has completed only his second major league season, contributed probably more than any other individual to Pittsburgh's pennant triumph. Paul was the only regular to play through the season without being injured or out from other cause. His younger brother, Lloyd, was his principal rival for all-around honors, so far as the Pirates were concerned.

OLD PALS

ONE-EYE CONNELLY (IN PERSON) AND EDDIE McGOUGH

Friends of 20 years' standing, One-Eye Connelly called upon Detective Eddie McGough during the recent misunderstanding at Forbes Field to be assured that he would not be molested in his attempts to crash the gate of the Dreyfuss stronghold. Connelly, admitting that he was America's greatest gate-crasher, told reporters he had nothing to say, thereby establishing a precedent.

PIRATES AND FAMILIES START HOMEWARD TREKS

MANY Pirates, some with their families, left Pittsburgh last evening and this morning for their winter homes situated in various parts of the country. Outside of those who have promised Owner Barney Dreyfuss to remain over for the Saturday feast at the Westmoreland Club, the Buccos for the most part will have departed by the middle of the week.

Remy Kremer, accompanied by Mrs. Kremer, their little daughter and Scout Joe Devine will travel all the way to Oakland, Cal., by automobile after Saturday's banquet. Another long jaunt by auto will be taken by George Grantham and Hal Rhyne, who will drive in George's car to Phoenix, Ariz., the home of Boots. Joe Cronin and Dick Bartell will go to their California homes by train.

Shortly after the meeting of yesterday Joe Harris, accompanied by Mrs. Harris, left for their Franklin home. Mrs. Harris is a native of the pretty Western Pennsylvania town. Joe expects John Miljus and Mrs. Miljus to visit them this week and both players intend to return for the Dreyfuss party on Saturday.

PIE HERE AWHILE

Capt. Pie Traynor expects to stay in town for the Westmoreland doings, after which he will leave for Somerville, Mass., to spend some time with his folks. Pie figures on spending much of the coming winter in the Wisconsin woods, along with Burleigh Grimes. The two players

'HORSE RACE OF CENTURY' IS PLANNED IN FRANCE

PARIS, Oct. 11.—(UP.)—French sporting circles were excited today over the prospect of a "battle of the century" between the republic's two greatest race horses.

Senor Martinez de Hoz, Argentine owner of Mon Talisman, winner of Sunday's famous Prix de Arc Triomphe, and Monsieur M. P. Moulines, owner of Fiterari, were trying to arrange a match race of 100,000 francs.

Each horse has beaten the other twice. Mon Talisman seems superior over the derby distance of 1½ miles, while Fiterari appears at his best at longer distances.

The owners were expected to agree to a compromise distance of around 1 mile, 5½ furlongs for the match race.

Mon Talisman's many victories have made him a record money winner for one year in France—1,571,500 francs. His owner is the leading winning owner of the year with a total of 2,496,314 francs.

SOCCER PLAYERS SOLD

FALL RIVER, Mass., Oct. 11.—(AP.)—Sam Mark, owner of the Fall River Club of the American Soccer League, today announced that he had purchased all 14 players of the Philadelphia club. They will report here next Monday. The franchise of the Philadelphia club is not included in the deal.

Champion Loughran Another Tunney

By DOROTHY ANN HARRISON.

(Philadelphia newspaperwoman, friend of new light-heavyweight champion, who is in Pittsburgh on assignment.)

When they led Tommy Loughran out to victory in Madison Square Garden, New York, last Friday night, 25 years of clean boyhood, youth and young manhood marched beside him and a hundred-odd youngsters in the crowd of spectators saw in him the realization of their own ambitious dreams.

Loughran is light-heavyweight champion today. But, in the eyes of those boys who made the trip from Philadelphia with the St. Monica's Band, he'd have been a "champ" if McTigue had knocked him out.

In the eight years he has been in the ring life has been good to Tommy and because of his remarkable tolerance he has friends in all walks of life. But to the children of South Philadelphia, where he lives, he is something more than a friend. With the unwavering faith of childhood they can see nothing but perfection in their hero. To them he is a champion of the first order.

It never would occur to Tommy to hold forth on the fact that he never has had a drink of liquor in his life, that he does not smoke, that his respect for women is real; yet it is because of all this that he can look his youthful admirers in the eyes with honesty and frankness.

IS "GENTLEMAN TOMMY"

The new champion is 25 years old. He is the son of Irish parents, with whom he lives. His father is a street car conductor from whom he inherits his good humor; his mother is one of those genial, typically Irish mothers who has passed her handsome features along to Tommy.

He has been called "Gentleman Tommy" and the "Adonis of the Ring." Men refer to him as the handsomest man in the boxing game today. Women say nothing about him for the very good reason that, like as brilliant efforts in the National League flag fight, after coming to the Pirates from Seattle about five weeks before the close of the race, is said to have occasioned Dreyfuss' generosity. In the first series game Miljus blanked the Yankees on one hit in the last four innings, and in the final battle a wild pitch blocked his entrance to the hall of fame after he had displayed great courage by striking out Gehrig and Meusel with the bases full and the score tied in the final inning.

MILJUS SIGNS

One other Pirate, whose identity was not announced, also signed today, Dreyfuss said. A third, the only other Bucco to talk terms with the Corsair president to date, was not brought into the fold.

At the request of Dreyfuss, several Pirate mainstays will postpone their departure from the city for a few days that conferences regarding 1928 salaries may be held. It is probable that at least a half dozen Pirates will be lined up for next season before the end of the week.

SARAZEN SETS PACE

GARDEN CITY, N. Y., Oct. 11.—(INS.)—Gene Sarazene is leading the field in the Metropolitan Professional Golf tournament being played here. He had 147 for the first 36 holes. The second 36 will be played today.

NEW MANAGEMENT TO RUN DUQUESNE GARDEN

THROUGH the SPORT LENS

by HAVEY BOYLE

THE New York Yankees looked so strong against the Pirates that the observer watching them, and contemplating the various bad clubs in the American, wondered how the American League is going to prosper with what looks like a pennant monopoly in New York.

Havey Boyle.

Col. Jacob Ruppert, enthusiastic baseball magnate, who is worth millions, and who was very sincere in seeking four straight victories over the Pirates, despite the fact that four straight meant the loss of great Sunday game receipts, has a "yen" for winning baseball.

Supplied with a large army of scouts, who are armored with great money bags, the Yankees are in a position to keep recruiting the already strong forces gathered together. On top of this, the Yankees have in Miller Huggins, the best manager in the league. Altogether, American League rivals must sigh in considering the future.

AS IF it were not enough that this club should win pennants with sickening (to rival magnates) regularity, the club also owns the two greatest drawing cards in the game, Ruth and Gehrig, who by their home runs add a flavor to the Yankees. No magnate is sitting prettier than Col. Ruppert, who judiciously got into baseball when the word was passed, officially, that the beer was to be near, and hardly that.

Of course, Yankee success, in the largest stadium, redounds to the financial credit of rivals as the visitors get about 25 per cent of the Yankee intake at each game, and on the road the Yankees pack in the fans at the "home" parks of rivals, what with Ruth and Gehrig helping, but the league which has seen only two clubs, New York and Washington, win the pennants since 1921 cannot help but hope for a change which will split up the baseball interest.

BAN JOHNSON, shrewd father and guide of the American, in the old days kept a firm rein in his loop, and it is significant to note that before the Yankee surge the baseball strength in the league was better divided, allowing for better and more interesting races. But Johnson was found to be passe by some of the magnates and his passing sees the league now showing but two winners over 1921, 1922, 1923, 1924, 1925 and 1926. Barring 1924 and 1925, the Yankees won in all those other years.

The race in the American League approached the aspect of a no-contest. The Yankees got out in front early and long before the season was over the league fight was nothing but a set-up for the New Yorkers. This was fine for New York, but in the provinces interest lagged until the Yankees came along.

STRANGE what ideas are gathered from the way the Yankees, with Ruth, pack in the fans. In a game with the Athletics, who at the time were far down in the race, about 35,000 persons turned out to see—not the game, but the great Ruth. An observer who either had his tongue in his cheek or blinders on said: "The great turnout was a fine tribute to a fighting second division ball club." Well, many such tributes are paid to second division clubs, because Ruth, the greatest magnet to serve magnates, packed them in every place he went.

WITH all the advantages held now, they say the Yankee club is again loading up for next year, with astute emissaries combing the Pacific Coast League for what cream is on the baseball milk out that way. Col. Ruppert, wealthy beyond all dreams, buttressed with the largest plant in the country in the most thickly populated city, is going to be as eager for another pennant as he has been ever since he got into the league.

COL. RUPPERT is a shortish man, red of complexion, with a closely-cropped mustache. He was mingling in the lunch-room which was established at the Yankee park during the series. It was just before the fourth game was to start. Standing hard by we heard him observe: "Gee, this is the game we need today. I always have wanted a club that could win a world series by four straight victories." A New York reporter observed sympathetically: "But those Sunday receipts, Colonel?" "I have all the money I can ever use. Why should I worry about that. I want this game today more than anything else."

WHAT would help the American League to stage a better race would be trades between the top clubs and the second division, units with the top clubs yielding a little to take the worst of it, by a shade or so. This should always be the aim of a top-hole club against a weaker unit as the resultant balance will better tickle the fans. But whether that condition will be brought about must depend on Col. Ruppert's viewpoint—and the colonel likes pennants and the world series flavor.

YOU may say it is only natural that the colonel would want a world series because of the intake, yet shrewd calculators of the last big affair are ready to report that perhaps Col. Ruppert did nothing better than break even in the big show.

With the word that the clubs made hardly anything out of the big event, one's thoughts raced to a rival promoter in another game—Rickard. What would Rickard say if he only broke even on an event that played to 200,000 persons?

Seat Prices Given Slice

TWENTY-TWO home games and a new management; cut prices for all seats and the announcement that the players would begin arriving in town for the training sessions next week was the news today from Duquesne Garden, home of the Pittsburgh Pirates, this city's entrants in the National Professional Hockey League.

The names of those who are to take over the reins at the Garden were not given out, but some word is expected in the near future. Odie Cleghorn, Pirate manager, is expected in town Saturday, and word may be forthcoming at that time on the new bosses.

The Pirate home schedule is an attractive one, with 22 contests listed, beginning on November 15 when Detroit will appear here.

LOUGHRAN

Gene Tunney, they know little about him.

He is unmarried and, in his own words, "has no prospects." He plays bridge, likes Kipling, wields a wicked golf club and has made a lot of money, all of which he has carefully invested.

"They'll never have to give benefits for me," he says. "When I'm through this game I won't need anybody to keep me out of the poor house."

He dresses like any of our prosperous young bankers, knows how to talk and where to put his feet and has far better manners than many of our best collegiates.

His fighting career, of course, has been told by authorities, and I am no expert. It is enough, perhaps, to say that he has been in 105 fights and lost six. He has fought Jack Delaney, former light-heavyweight champion; Carpentier, Harry Greb, Jimmy Delaney and many others. He never has been knocked out and the only man who ever knocked him down was Tunney, the present heavyweight champion.

NOT WILD ABOUT GIRLS

It has been said that he is only a good boxer who couldn't knock off a man's hat. McTigue, I understand, is looking for the party who told HIM that, for Mike got hit with everything but the ring posts and Tommy's left jab made the acquaintance of Michael's features far too often for the comfort of that ancient Irishman.

But the thing, I think, that annoyed Mike most was the confidence with which Tommy removed the crown and the joy with which he carried it back to Philadelphia to the blare of the kids' band and the cheers and howls of a joy-maddened mob who have hailed him as a "champ" ever since his first professional fight.

Tommy and the light-heavyweight title are going around together now. Look him over, girls, and weep, because the only thing he's crazy about is fighting!

were together for many weeks in Wisconsin last year.

Glenn Wright expects to go back to his Missouri home before long. Heinie Groh and Mrs. Groh will leave shortly for Cincinnati. Earl Smith will head for his Ozark Mountain home, while Johnny Gooch will soon be busy around his Tennessee holdings. Mrs. Gooch and little John probably will make the trip by auto, but the little fellow has been ill and John will remain in Pittsburgh for a spell.

The Meadows family, Lee, senior and junior, with Mrs. Meadows will shortly be at their Florida home. Lee has big real estate holdings in Leesburg. Carmen Hill and Mrs. Hill have left for Indianapolis. The Hills visit Corry frequently. Victor Aldridge, Mrs. Aldridge and Victor, junior, expect to spend their off-season in their Indiana home. Emil Yde will shortly be back in Illinois among the home folks. Mike Cvengros also is a native of that state. Joe Dawson is a Californian by adoption.

CUYLER GOES HOME

Kiki Cuyler has already left for his Michigan home. He was accompanied by Mrs. Cuyler and their little son, Harold. Clyde Barnhart and his big family will winter at the home in Hagerstown, Md. The Pennsylvania Dutchman has been making his home across the line for a few years.

The Waner boys have gone to New York to appear in a vaudeville sketch. Paul will blow the saxophone while Sprout accompanies him on the fiddle.

Adam Comorosky has left for his home in the eastern part of Pennsylvania. Adam comes from the hard-coal district. Fred Brickell has left for Kansas.

Manager Bush is expected to remain in town for a few days.

CRIMSON TEAM DRILLS FOR HOLY CROSS TILT

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Oct. 11.—Still a bit dazed by the drubbing at the hands of the Purdue Boilermakers Saturday, John Harvard went doggedly at the task of preparing for a strong Holy Cross eleven next week-end. Harvard has not beaten Holy Cross in three years. It was announced today that the coaches are planning several shifts in the regular Harvard lineup as the result of Saturday's poor showing.

SOLDIERS IN TRIM AFTER MARQUETTE GAME

WEST POINT, N. Y., Oct. 11.—The only casualty suffered by Army in its hard game with Marquette on Saturday was a slight injury to Halfback O'Keefe. The squad was sent through a light limbering up drill yesterday and listened to a short black-board lecture. Davis and Elkins will be met Saturday.

RADIO IS BETTER WITH BATTERY POWER

Count the cost

BUY "B" power with the same demand for service you expect of other commodities and you'll buy batteries every time. Radio engineers declare battery power is the most economical and the most satisfactory source of "B" power yet developed. It operates smoothly, silently—and when the "B" battery is an Eveready Layerbilt the replacements are few and far between.

Eveready Layerbilt "B" Battery No. 486 is made for modern radio sets. It will operate any receiver at normal voltages and will do it better and more economically than any other source of "B" power. Built by a special, patented process that piles layer on layer of active material, the Layerbilt is, without any "ifs" or "buts," the longest-lasting "B" battery available. It is the product of the National Carbon Company's research laboratory—the largest electro-chemical battery laboratory in the world.

NOTES of the BOXERS

PROMOTER JIM M'GIRR of the McKeesport club has completed his card for his weekly show Thursday night with the signing of Jimmy Belmont of Braddock to meet Jimmy Duffy of New Kensington in the second bout and Bill Durius of McKeesport to oppose Tex Humes of Rochester, Pa., in the opener. Young Rudy of Charleroi will box Harry Taylor of the North Side again in the main bout and Bobby Richardson of Portage, Pa., and Teddy Esterbrook of Niles, O., will meet in the other 10-round event.

Andy Stahura of Braddock and Pete Canal of Youngstown will meet in the semi-final to the Sandy Seifert-Emmett Rocco heavyweight mill at Youngstown tonight.

Sergt. Sammy Baker and Jimmy Duffy (Hymie Gold) will box a 10-round bout at San Francisco October 25.

Frankie Garcia and Babe Ruth will meet at Chicago next Monday night.

Phil Goldstein, local lightweight, scored his second triumph in less than a week in the East when he defeated Louis Guglielmini, New York veteran, in a 10-round bout at Jersey City last night. Ray Fay, Charleroi light-heavyweight, was stopped in five rounds by Bobby Brown, Negro, at Atlantic City, and U. S. Carpentier lost to Art DeChamplain in 10 rounds at Johnstown.

Louis (Kid) Kaplan, former featherweight champion, and Tommy Cello, of California, box for the third time in New York tonight. Kaplan won the decision in each of their first two meetings.

SPORT COMMENT

series, they would do it in the minimum of four games.

ANYONE who remembers of the makeup of the Athletics that season will agree that it was quite a ball club. Connie Mack had a pitching staff made up of Chief Bender, Eddie Plank, Herb Pennock, Joe Bush, Bob Shawkey and Waldon Wyckoff. He had Wally Schang and Jack Lapp as catchers, Stuffy McInnis at first base, Eddie Collins at second, Frank (Home Run) Baker at third, Jack Barry at shortstop, Rube Oldring in left field, Amos Strunk in center field and Danny Murphy in right field.

Quite a ball club, wasn't it? Critics rate it as one of the best of all time. Yet the Braves steamrollered the might A's for four straight.

EVEN during the season just ended the Pirates themselves demonstrated how such a feat as the taking of four straight from a strong club may be accomplished. They trimmed the Giants four successive times on the New Yorkers' own grounds at a time when the Bucs were in a sorely crippled condition.

Bush's club had just lost the services of its ace pitcher, Remy Kremer, through an injury in Brooklyn on May 14. They were scheduled for five games with the Giants, and, with Kremer lost, it looked as if Pittsburgh would have to fight hard to get three or even two out of five.

One game was postponed on account of rain, but the Pirates made a clean sweep of the four other contests.

And not only was Kremer out of the series, but several of the other members of the team were playing under the handicap of injuries more or less severe.

NO one would call the old Athletics or this year's Giants feeble aggregations, so by the same line of reasoning it must be admitted that the loss of four straight in the world series does not prove the Bucs were an inferior outfit or a poor money team, but merely shows that they were unfortunate in having the series take place at one of those times in baseball when a strong team is unable to do a thing or get a break against an equally strong opponent.

Bad as they looked in the series it would not be surprising if the Pirates beat the Yanks 13 or 14 times if the two teams were to meet in a regular season's series of 22 games.

TO the credit of Manager Bush of the Pirates it must be said that he has offered no alibis of any sort on the result of the series. Instead he praised his men at yesterday's meeting for their fine work in winning the pennant under big handicaps and for giving their best efforts in the world series when everything was going against them.

Donie insists that the Yankees be given full credit for their victory and says it must be admitted that the better team won.

"THE Yankees are a great team," said the Pirate manager, "and it is no disgrace to be beaten by them, though I think we would have given them a hard fight for victory in the series if we had won that first game.

"Look the Yanks over and you will find that they have a star in practically every position. They are one of the five best teams that I ever saw. First of all I would rank the Chicago White Sox or Black Sox of 1919, and after them I would rate the champion Athletics, the old Giants and the Chicago Cubs of 1907 and 1908. The old team in Detroit cannot be omitted from the list of 'greats' either."

WHETHER it was a wild pitch or a passed ball, the foozle that gave the Yankees the winning run in the ninth inning of Saturday's game was one of the most costly misplays in baseball history.

It did not affect the players' pool, as that would have closed that day, anyhow, but from the standpoint of the magnates it meant a heavy loss.

Taking it for granted that the Bucs eventually would have won that game in extra innings, a fifth game would have been necessary, and as the Friday and Saturday contests in New York drew $209,665 and $208,097, respectively, it may be estimated that a fifth game would have jammed the park and brought more than $217,000, the sum the New York club had to refund.

So the wild pitch, or passed ball, or whatever it was, wins a place in the books as something close to a quarter-million bobble.

And that is not taking into account the possibility that with Remy Kremer on edge the Bucs might have won the fifth game, and thus made a sixth or possibly a seventh game here necessary.

Pitt Takes Trail West

By JESS CARVER.

THIS Tech-W. & J. game at Forbes Field Saturday is going to be a battle between a corking good backfield and a sturdy, fairly well experienced line, with the backfield the best bet to win. It will be W. & J.'s backs against Tech's line, that is bound to be strong despite the loss of Paul Cooper, veteran tackle.

W. & J.'s line, while no slouch of a forward wall, is not quite as good appearing as Tech's. The difference between the two, with Cooper out of the Tech list, is slight, but if it is possible to use "Coop," you'll have to concede the Tartans the edge.

In Kirkman, Cook and Amos, or Kirkman, Amos and Heisel, W. & J. has an offensive weapon near supreme. None of the three men are as good as Welch of Pitt, but the combination is hard to beat. May is just a good quarter, not an outstanding one.

The W. & J. line will be heavy, but it's hard to see how it can take much from Tech. Pauly, the giant guard, isn't as good as he might be. Jap Douds, Rochester boy, is possibly the best man on the line, and I think he is out of his position at a tackle.

The ends, Herrold and Robinson, will take little from Sweet and English, except that the Tech ends are more valuable to the particular style of play employed by their team than are the President wingmen to theirs.

Douds is without the experience of either Schmidt or Cooper at a tackle, and Malcolm can't be selected over either Tech player.

Captain Purl Anderson of Tech is one of the best guards in the district. His running mate, Cowan, is equally good.

Looking over the Tech backs, there isn't a man, outside of Harpster, over whom W. & J. needs to worry. Kennedy, the newest Tartan sensation is a fast man, and has been getting away nicely in the three games he played so far, but he has yet to face two good ends, who may interfere greatly with his romps around the ends.

Letzelter can't be compared to Amos as a fullback. Wertenberger, Stauffey, Moorehead and Harmon, the other prominent Tech ball toters, haven't shown any all-America stuff so far, even in the easy games they have played in.

Coach Sutherland will load his Panthers, those Golden snarlers from Pitt, aboard a west-bound train tomorrow night and unload 'em the following morning in Chicago. While there, the team will work out on Stagg Field in preparation for the intersectional game Saturday with Drake, at Des Moines, Ia.

The Golden Panthers, flushed as they are with the intoxicating potion brewed from that 40-0 walloping handed West Virginia Saturday, are not cocky or over-confident. Pitt has a great team, a truly great one, but a letup of one day's duration may change a lot of gridiron princes to gridiron bums. Drake may be a lot stronger than they looked against the Navy, for it was their first game, and the 200-pound line can cause plenty of trouble for the Pitt running plays if it isn't hit hard and early.

Secret practice was inaugurated by Coach Layden at Duquesne University today. The Bluffmen will work behind closed gates all this week in preparation for the contest with the big Bethany Bisons at Wellsburg, W. Va., next Saturday. There was no practice yesterday, the coaches having decided to give the squad an extra day of rest to recover from the gruelling struggle with Geneva last Friday.

sidered superior to me were given bonuses. That is the owner's business. Anyway, what would I have based a bonus claim on this year? But I mention it merely to set at rest any further rumors about this absurd angle of the case.

There is another story bringing in the name of Mr. Dreyfuss. This legend runs that once I belligerently asked Bush if "Bush or Dreyfuss was running this ball club." I never asked such a question. Before my having been fined Bush panned me for the play at third, which I described earlier, and again he panned me for what he figured were two bad throws from the outfield—on two successive days—and while both time I answered him in explanation there never was any "hot" argument.

NO WORDY ARGUMENTS

Some time after the fine and after I had apologized and had hoped everything would be all right, Bush took me to task, once, as I have said, for waving to a friend in the stand, and again, because a friend of mine had visited the clubhouse, but barring those incidents while we spoke, in passing, there were no wordy arguments.

I did not try to stir up the fans, although I'll say right here that no one appreciated more than I the way those kids in the bleachers and my other friends in the stands stood loyally by me. I mention this because I believe that, apart from any of my troubles, it was the demonstration in the stands and the way the papers played up my fining that made Bush determined not to use me. Neither of these demonstrations was sought or prompted by me. I have been accused of telling the newspapers about the fine. That is absolutely false. Anyway, why should there be any secrecy about it? Other men on the ball team had been fined—and the club made the announcement right away. If I was in so bad what prompted the desire to keep the whole matter quiet?

ceived a guarantee of $2,500 from Manager Mason, who was so anxious for the return bout that he accepted 55 per cent of the gate for DeMarco, out of which he had to pay Wallace the above sum. It is doubtful if there was anything left for Cuddy when this obligation was met, for the crowd was only a fair-sized one.

Neither man ever was in danger, although they fought hard all the way. DeMarco took care to step inside Wallace's left hooks and swings while the latter was strong, and, after four or five rounds, Wallace didn't have much dynamite left and wasn't dangerous. Cuddy was satisfied with jabbing and tying up his opponent, using his right only sparingly and when it was safe. He dictated the style of fighting throughout and always had Wallace well under control, and Billy looked like anything but a championship contender.

DeMarco weighed 138½ pounds and Wallace was three pounds lighter at 3 p. m.

The preliminary card was as good as the main bout was bad. Rudy Ceder of Tarentum turned in his fourth straight knockout victory in the semi-final, when he stowed away Harry Harris of Niles, O., with a right to the wind in the sixth round after being badly outpointed up to that stage. Harris went down gasping for breath, and, after being helped to his corner, thought he had been fouled. Ceder also dropped Harris for a count of two with a right to the jaw late in the fourth round. Harris showed a lot of boxing class and appeared to be well on the way to victory when the end came with startling suddenness. The bout, like all the others on the card, was scheduled for eight rounds. Harris weighed 153 pounds and Ceder 151.

Teddy Welch of McKeesport, coming into the ring with a badly damaged left eye, outboxed and outslugged Young Rudy of Charleroi all the way in a slambang second bout. It was their third meeting. Rudy won the first bout, was held even after the bell saved Welch in the first round of the second and ran a decided second last night. Again it was a pip of a battle. Welch weighed 135 pounds and Rudy 135½. The judges disagreed, Judge McLaughlin calling the bout a draw. The referee's decision clinched matters for Welch.

Kid Crutchfield of the Hill, squat and fat, and looking and acting not unlike old Sam Langford after a lay-off, overcame a handicap of a lot of height and reach and galloped through to victory over Sam Hunter, the Homewood Cemetery grave-digger, in the opening battle. Hunter weighed 188 pounds and Crutchfield 189¼.

The club is trying to match Joe Simonich and Lew Tendler for the windup next Monday night.

Three Winners for Garner

JAMAICA, N. Y., Oct. 11.—Mack Garner rode three winners at this track yesterday—winning half the card. He was on C. W. Winfred's Sport Hallahan to win the feature race, the Lynbrook claiming stakes, then took the El Dorado Handicap on William Ziegler's Gamble and brought home Polydor ahead in the Brunswick purse for juveniles.

Once more Stutz runs 1-2-3 using AMOCO-GAS!

STUTZ MOTOR CAR COMPANY OF AMERICA, INC.
INDIANAPOLIS, IND., U.S.A.
CABLE ADDRESS "STUTZ"

September 14, 1927.

The American Oil Company,
American Building,
Baltimore, Md.

Gentlemen:

In the stock car race meet which was held on Labor Day, September 5th, on the Atlantic City Motor Speedway, three two-passenger Stutz Black Hawk Stock Cars were piloted through to victory for first, second, and third place in the 150-mile free-for-all event, the leading car averaging 96.3 miles an hour.

We feel that we have a right to be proud of the performance of our cars as well as the meritorious product which the American Oil Company furnished, as our entries created world's stock car records from twenty-five miles to the conclusion of the event.

There is no question in our minds but that your AMOCO Gas played a large part in making such performance possible, and we are gratified in stating that wherever possible we shall avail ourselves of the use of your motor fuel, and in addition we heartily recommend it to our car owners.

Yours very truly,
STUTZ MOTOR CAR COMPANY OF AMERICA
Chas. S. Crawford
Chief Engineer

---a letter from the Chief Engineer of The Stutz factory

Running 1-2-3 in stock car races is getting to be a habit with the Stutz team.

At Atlantic City on Labor Day—
Stutz took the first three places in the 150 mile race, setting new world's records for stock cars at from 25 to 150 miles.

Now at Charlotte, N. C.—
The Stutz team took the first three places in the 75 mile race.

Both times — AMOCO-GAS was the fuel used! Mr. Charles S. Crawford—Chief Engineer of the Stutz Motor Car Co.,—tells you in the letter and telegram that AMOCO-GAS deserves a lot of credit for these victories and he "heartily recommends it to all our owners.",

As in the case of Stutz—
AMOCO-GAS has the winning habit!

The LIFE AND LETTERS OF WOODROW WILSON

Wilson Resolves on a Career of Teaching

He Was Convinced of His Genius for Political Leadership, but Must Earn a Living—His Marriage

An event of exceedingly great importance in the life of Woodrow Wilson was described in yesterday's installment of his biography in the Sun-Telegraph. This was the writing and publication of his first book, "Congressional Government," at the age of 28. Strangely, the author never had seen Congress in action, yet his work was an instant success, and was highly commended by the greatest authorities and firmly established his literary fame.

By RAY STANNARD BAKER

Copyright, 1927, by Doubleday, Page & Co.

Ambition, Marriage

WOODROW WILSON resembled Thomas Jefferson in coming to great power with a clearly defined point of view in politics. He expressed many of his conclusions in his first book, "Congressional Government," and he broke long cherished precedents, as when he appeared in person to deliver his addresses before Congress, in atttempts to apply his convictions in practical affairs. If the machine had possessed the elasticity he might have become a kind of Premier-President! In the end, it is scarcely too much to say, he fell a victim to the defects he had so clearly perceived.

For want of a unified and responsible leadership, especially in the direction of foreign affairs, the nation flounders today in a morass of uncertainty, it is the prey of obscurantist factors, it can speak with no clarity of national purpose.

The publication of "Congressional Government" in 1885, while he was still studying at Johns Hopkins University, was the first fruit of Wilson's purpose in making his power felt in politics "through literary and non-partisan agencies." He feels now that he is really beginning to carry out the terms of his "solemn covenant" with Charles Talcot, and yet he is strangely not satisfied.

He confides to Ellen:

"Yes...there is, and has long been, in my mind a 'lurking sense of disappointment and loss, as if I had missed from my life something upon which both my gifts and inclinations gave me a claim'; I do feel a very real regret that I have been shut out from my heart's first—primary—ambition and purpose, which was to take an active, if possible a leading part in public life and strike out for myself, if I had the ability, a statesman's career. That is my heart's—or, rather, my mind's deepest secret...But don't mistake the feeling for more than it is. It is nothing more than a regret; and the more I study the conditions of public service in this country the less personal does the regret become. My disappointment is in the fact that there is no room for such a career in this country for anybody, rather than the fact that there is no chance for me. Had I independent means of support, even of the most modest proportions, I should doubtless have sought an entrance into politics anyhow and have tried to fight my way to predominant influence even amidst the hurly-burly and helter-skelter of Congress.

Self-Analysis; Plans

"I have a strong instinct of leadership, an unmistakabily oratorical temperament and the keenest possible delight in affairs; and it has required very constant and stringent schooling to content me with the sober methods of the scholar and the man of letters.

"I have no patience for the tedious toil of what is known as 'research;' great thoughts to the world; I should be complete if I could inspire a great movement of opinion, if I could read the experiences of the past into the practical life of the men of today and so communicate the thought to the minds of the great mass of the people as to impel them to great political achievements. Burke was a very much greater man than Cobden and Bright is much nearer to the measure of my powers, it seems to me, than the writing of imperishable thoughts upon the greatest problems of politics, which was Burke's mission. I think with you . . . that 'of all the world's workers those which take by far the highest rank are the writers of noble books.' If one could choose between the two careers, with the assurance that he had the capacity for either, 'it seems to me there would be no room for hesitation even.'

"But my feeling has been that such literary talents as I have are secondary to my equipment for other things; that my power to write was meant to be a handmaiden to my power to speak and to organize action. Of course, it is quite possible that I have been all along entirely misled in this view. I am ready to accept the providential ordering of my life as conclusive on that point. Certainly I have taken the course which will, with God's favor, enable me to realize most of what I at first proposed to myself, and I do not in the least repine at the necessity which has shut me out from all other courses of life. It is for this reason that I have never made these confessions so fully before; I did not want even to seem to be discontented with my lot in life. I shall write with no less diligence of preparation both moral and mental and with no less effort to put all that is best of myself into my books because I have had to give up a cherished ambition to be an actor in the affairs about which only my pen can now be busy.

"The new channels of work shall not clog my enthusiasm, and nothing shall lower my ideals or make a pause in my effort to realize them. One thing there is which I have now that I did not have when I dreamed and planned about a career as statesman and orator; one thing that I had no conception of then, and which is more to me than the strength and inspiration of any ambition—that one priceless, inestimable thing is your love. . . ."

Secondary Course Chosen

He thus accepts the secondary course. He yields to the ancient human compulsions. He is poor, he must live. He is in love, he must marry. He begins a long and, indeed brilliant service as educator, writer and lecturer on history and politics, all in the main line of the purpose of his covenant with Charles Talcott, but by means of "literary and non-partisan agencies," which were never to satisfy him wholly. But he resolves greatly that if he himself cannot lead directly he will inspire his students with passion for public service, and he continues for 25 years in this "secondary" course, working prodigiously as a student of government and politics and history, lecturing and writing, schooling his notable gifts of leadership in the lesser politics of university life—struggling to make over the college he loves in the light of the vision he has—awaiting blindly the opportunity of returning to the primary and truly "vital purpose of his whole being" in the New Jersey campaign of 1910. He had, indeed, great talents as a writer and an educator; he had genius as a statesman.

But if he could hold himself down with stern determination to a secondary course, he could not avoid, nor did he desire to avoid, a profound interest in the great political drama of the time—the struggle between Cleveland and Blaine. While his sympathies, as between the two were wholly within Cleveland, he distrusted profoundly both of the old parties, the hackneyed ideas, the out-worn slogans. He finds no really clear thinking in either camp, nor the greatest issues truly defined, and like so many ardent young men, he dreams of a new party which would bring together the liberal-minded and thoughtful people of the country, a great reforming and constructive party.

As the campaign advances he grows more and more devoted to Cleveland and his campaign. He sees only misfortune for the country if Blaine is elected.

But when Cleveland is inaugurated in March, 1885, the first Democratic President in twenty-four years, Wilson does not take the journey of an hour to Washington to see the ceremony. He writes on March 4:

. . . "I did not 'run down' to Washington today, though nearly the whole university has gone down, including all the men (four) from this house except solemn little Dr. Caldwell and myself. I wanted to go very much, of course, but I could spare neither the time nor the money."

His interest here and always afterward was in the broader and more fundamental issues and policies, and upon these, though he was not to take an active part in political life for a quarter of a century, he was steadily thinking.

Wilson's Marriage

Woodrow Wilson and Ellen Louise Axson were married in the manse of the Independent Presbyterian Church of Savannah on June 24, 1885. Wilson had completed his work at Johns Hopkins and Ellen Axson had returned from her art studies in New York. The dignified old manse, which still stands among the trees behind the famous church where the music of "Greenland's Icy Mountains" was composed and first sung, had been her home—all the home she had had—since her father's death in the previous year. She had come to live with her grandfather, the Rev. I. S. K. Axson, who was the minister of the church.

All the Wilsons, the Axsons, the Hoyts, the Howes and some of the Woodrows were there. It was an evening wedding. They stood in the corner of the quaint old parlor, with its high ceilings, its fireplace, its dignified furniture. It was a simple ceremony, presided over by the grandfather of the bride and father of the bridegroom. We have a momentary glimpse of these two old noble ministers facing the young people, both with tears in their eyes. As to the young people, "a finer looking couple was never seen in Savannah." Stockton Axson has described the event:

"I remember how he and I chatted about the books in my grandfather's bookcases while we waited for the bride to come downstairs. I also remember a less idyllic circumstance, how bliss was jarred and the scent of orange blossoms temporarily annulled while two small boys, the bridegroom's nephew, Wilson Howe, and the bride's brother, Edward Axson, 'mixed it up' in a gorgeous fight over some difference in boyish opinions. The bride was much shocked, but I caught a twinkle in the bridegroom's eye, which seemed to say, 'Let's separate them; but don't let's be in too desperate haste about it.'"

Honeymoon in Arden

They went for their honeymoon to a place among the hills of North Carolina which bore the idyllic name of Arden. It was a one-story bit of a cottage among the trees. It had a broad-roofed porch and vines about the windows.

"We are out of doors most of the time, walking together and reading, unless I coerce him into singing, for he has a beautiful voice," wrote the bride to a friend.

It had been a courtship full of impetuous intensity, not without its crises and alarms.

"Can you keep a secret?" she had said when she told her brother of her engagement, and she goes on to assure him: "He is the greatest man in the world and the best."

And yet she told her cousin a little later that "if I had not promised him just then it would never have happened at all." For she had found her father ill with a nervous malady of which he died not long afterward. She was overwhelmed and doubtful as to whether she should marry at all. Wilson at Johns Hopkins, intense and passionate, was reduced to misery. "It's a matter of life and death with me," as he had written to her two months before the wedding.

Tomorrow's chapter will deal with the early married life of the Wilsons. The serious young husband, at first overwhelmed by doubts as to whether he is suited for his new obligations, soon becomes dependent upon his wife and shares with her the burdens of his work.

SHERIFF BANS REMUS VISITORS

EX-BOOTLEG KING PLANS TO BE OWN ATTORNEY

CINCINNATI, Oct. 11.—(AP.)—Sheriff William M. Anderson has called a halt upon curious visitors who have been calling at the county jail to see George Remus, former bootleg king, who several days ago shot and killed his wife, Mrs. Imogene Remus, a few hours before the scheduled hearing of their divorce suit.

Almost a steady stream of visitors, mostly curiosity seekers, daily has asked admission to the prisoner's cell.

REMUS ASKS BAN

Sheriff Anderson asked Remus if he really wished to see all those persons and he replied that he did not.

"I'm glad to see my friends and I have had a lot of offers from attorneys who want to represent me," he said. "But when George Remus goes on trial he will be represented by George Remus and no one else."

Before he embarked on his adventurous career in the bootlegging business, Remus was an attorney in Chicago.

Swearing of the grand jury in Common Pleas Court cleared the way today for investigation of the killing.

LOOK FOR QUICK ACTION

It is expected an indictment will be returned Thursday or Friday and that Remus will be arraigned at once and his trial set for the earliest possible date.

George J. Connors, former associate of Remus, was on the way back today from Lansing, Mich., where he went in an effort to verify reports that Mrs. Remus deposited securities and other valuables in a Lansing bank.

"I knew Sunday night that the safety deposit box had been found in Lansing," Remus said. "To me this substantiates the relationship between my wife and Franklin L. Dodge. The finding of the deposit box in Dodge's home town proves my contention of conspiracy. I do not know how many securities were in the box nor do I care."

REMUS FUNERAL IS SECRET

CHICAGO, Oct. 11.—The body of Mrs. Imogene Holmes Remus, who was shot and killed Thursday by her husband, George Remus, in Cincinnati, was buried here yesterday with the utmost secrecy.

Not even intimate friends were permitted to view the body and no information was given out regarding the funeral. It was announced previously that burial was to be today.

REED PREDICTS HIGH TARIFF ON FRENCH GOODS

A high prohibitory tariff on French-made goods as retaliation for the French discriminatory rates on goods manufactured here was predicted by Senator David A. Reed in an address to the Men's Club of the Joseph Horne Company at their annual banquet last night. W. H. Burchfield, second vice president of the company, presided. Other speakers were T. T. Jones of East Liverpool, O., and Prof. William G. Madore, anthropologist.

JOHNSTON NAMED HEAD OF MISSION CRUSADE

John A. Johnston, Duquesne University, was elected president of the Pittsburgh Conference, Catholic Students' Mission Crusade, at its first meeting of the year. Charles O. Rice was named secretary and treasurer. The admisison of new units to the crusade was discussed and the members planned organization of a lecture bureau.

ASKS $20,000 FOR TAXICAB BEATING

Margaret Brown and Harry Brown, her husband, bring a $20,000 damage suit against the Checker Cab Company for personal injuries suffered when, she alleges, a cab driver beat her. Mrs. Brown alleges that last August 22 she boarded a checkered cab in Seventh street, Pittsburgh, and instructed the driver to take her to her home, 407 Martindale street, North Side. When the driver took a circuitous route, according to Mrs. Brown, she remonstrated. When within a block of her home, Mrs. Brown alleges, the driver stopped the cab, beat her and threw her into the street. She claims she suffered severe personal injuries.

Angelo Barufoldi, in behalf of his minor son, Ernest Barufoldi, 10, asks $15,000 damages from W. A. Lawler. The father alleges that Lawler is the owner of a shanty at Sygon, North Fayette township, where the Barufoldis live. On May 12, last, the Barufoldi boy, while in school, received a dynamite cap from a school companion and the cap exploded, causing injuries which confined the boy in the hospital for more than two weeks. The father alleges the dynamite cap came from the shanty owned by Lawler and that the shanty was not properly locked and protected.

Elizabeth Duncan and Andrew Duncan, her husband, entered suit against the Pittsburgh Railways Company for joint damages of $15,000 for injuries sustained by Mrs. Duncan on a Frankstown avenue street car July 20. Mary Doerfler and Nicholas Doerfler, her husband, ask joint damages of $40,000 from the Pittsburgh Railways Company in another action brought for the same accident, alleging personal injuries to Mrs. Doerfler.

Albert H. White brought an action for damages of $35,000 against Irving Gusky. White claims that on last July 2 an automobile owned by Gusky collided with his motorcycle, throwing him to the ground, and he suffered a fracture of his skull and broken eardrums.

Frank J. Scott asks $10,000 damages from Freda Harms for personal injuries suffered when he was struck by an automobile owned by the defendant last July 3.

For personal injuries received when their automobiles collided in East Carson street last August 2, Deane J. Wirick asks $10,000 damages from Robert K. Boyer.

Ray J. Oxenreiter entered suit against the Yellow Cab Company for $30,000 for personal injuries said to have been received last July 31.

HEY, HAY! FARM CIRCLES AGOG OVER BIG FORD DEAL

MERCER, Pa., Oct. 11.—Trading circles are all agog over the Johnson-Gibson transaction. Attorney Virgil Johnson traded his Ford to Farmer Mead Gibson for 50 bushels of apples—10 bushels a year for the next five years.

SNUBBED—WANTS DIVORCE

DORIS STEVENS

Charging her husband refused to receive her in his home, Doris Stevens, noted feminist and wife of Dudly Field Malone, has filed application for divorce. Doris Stevens is a member of the Lucy Stone League and Malone an outstanding attorney.

CONVICT BRYN MAWR MAN OF DRIVING WHILE DRUNK

Edgar Johnson, of Bryn Mawr, was convicted yesterday in Criminal Court of driving an automobile in McKeesport, May 11, while intoxicated. Judge Harry H. Rowand deferred sentence.

WOMAN HIT BY AUTO SUES

Ella G. Maloney has brought suit against Allegheny county to recover damages for injuries sustained August 28, last, when she was struck by an automobile owned by the county. She claims that she suffered a fracture of the skull and that her hearing has been impaired.

Damages of $40,000 are asked from the Pittsburgh Railways Company by Andrew L. Duncan in a suit brought in Common Pleas Court in behalf of his son, James, 3. It is claimed that the boy was injured while boarding a street car July 20 last, losing the normal use of his feet.

WILDWOOD CLUB SUES WOMAN

The Wildwood Country Club yesterday filed a bill in equity in Common Pleas Court as a preliminary injunction to restrain Anna Simpkins from interfering with the construction of a golf course on the club's land in Hampton township. It is set forth that the defendant claims a right of way for ingress and egress through the club's land from her property which adjoins. It is asserted that the easement claimed is not of record.

BOY SCOUTS TO HOLD BOARD OF REVIEW

A board of review will be conducted for the North Boroughs Tuesday night, October 25, according to announcement which has been made through the Pittsburgh Council, Boy Scouts of America. All Scouts seeking promotion in the Court of Honor, which is to take place October 28 at the Bellevue Chapter, Knights of Columbus, must present their credentials at the meeting of October 25.

500 WOMEN HERE FOR FEDERATION CONVENTION

ALL DISTRICTS IN STATE SEND DELEGATES

Five hundred women today are in attendance at the thirty-second annual convention of the State Federation of Pennsylvania Women, which was formally opened last night, and will continue through Friday.

Among the high lights of the day's sessions, all of which are being held in Carnegie Music Hall, are the president's address by Mrs. John H. Hamme, of York, delivered in response to the address of welcome by Mrs. Ambrose Nevin Diehl, vice president of this district; a talk by Frank C. Harper, Pittsburgh columnist, on "The Newspaper and the Community," and an address on "Soviet Russia and the United States," by the Rev. Edmund A. Walsh, S. J., vice president of Georgetown University.

MRS. HAMME WARNS

Warning against communistic propaganda and the menace of organized effort to spread atheism were voiced by Mrs. Hamme in her address. The former, she stated, "attacks every grade of society, but alarmingly operates among our young people, the unthinking, the uneducated and the viciously inclined." She urged, "Turn the searchlight of investigation into your schools, your churches and your social gatherings, for the propagandist uses the finest instruments for the conduct of his business."

Of the second menace, Mrs. Hamme said, "It is now that our federation of women must cease to be a name and become a symbol. No individual has a right to negligence or neutrality. Our obligation is obvious, for unless we lend ourselves and our organization to stamp out this evil, and try to invest life with deeper spiritual meanings for those who shall come after us, there is no excuse in our being."

Mrs. Hamme called attention to the achievement of the administration's objective—the placing of the Federation on a firm business and financial basis—an achievement which has surpassed the dreams of the most sanguine. Just now the women of the southern district are reaping a tangible benefit from the per capita dues system, which was adopted during Mrs. Hamme's regime, for the convention has come to Pittsburgh without any additional expense to the individual clubs, a hitherto unheard of thing.

Mrs. Hamme also pointed out that the departments of work had been reorganized and readjusted to conform to regulations of the General Federation; that the juniors had been raised to the dignity of a department in Pennsylvania, and she spoke briefly on the adjustment in the classification of membership, a complex piece of work which she has finished.

FUND NEAR $30,000

The splendid and growing scholarship work of the Federation was another point touched upon, as was the endowment fund, termed by the president "a substantial evidence of the thrift and generosity of our clubs," which has reached almost $30,000.

Comment on the work of forest conservation, the value of "The Messenger," the official publication; the new speakers' bureau, which provides speakers for club meetings; membership (91 clubs added during Mrs. Hamme's administration; total, 415 in the Federation) and routine business of her encumbency were included in the talk, Mrs. Hamme saying that the president's duties are increasing constantly and to such a degree that soon it may become necessary to maintain permanent headquarters centrally located with a paid secretary in attendance. Contributions to charity, philanthropy, educational and community projects have totaled $162,962.

The luncheon given at the Concordia Club in honor of Mrs. S. Blair Luckie, federation chairman of legislation, by the legislative committee of the Congress of Clubs and the Consumers' League, the reception by the Twentieth Century Club officers for the board, county and club presidents of the state are other events of the day, while tonight the convention theme, "Beauty and Its Application to Every-day Life," will be the subject of an address by the Rev. Dr. Percy G. K. Kammerer, and there will be music by Mrs. Christine Haskell, pianist; Arthur B. Jennings, Jr., organist, and Cass Ward Whitney, baritone.

At the same hour the Girls' Auxiliary of the Mothers' Club of Carrick will entertain all other juniors with a reception and program in the Carrick Mothers' clubhouse.

At the dinner which the Congress of Clubs will give at 6 o'clock for state officers and department chairmen, each guest will have her individual hostess, the woman occupying the corresponding office in the Congress organization. Mrs. Elsie Breese Mitchell will sing, accompanied by Frank Kennedy.

Delegates from all parts of the state arrived from early yesterday morning until late last night and many more will get in today for the opening sessions. Among the visitors is Mrs. Wyeth Morehead of Salem, Va., president of the Virginia state organization. Mrs. Hamme and her staff were in conference nearly all day in the Hotel Schenley, where the credentials and registration committees sat, and in the afternoon the delegates attended a library tea and conference in Carnegie Library, where various subjects were discussed, an exhibit was viewed and a talk was given by Miss Lide Edwards.

The presidents' dinner, the largest ever held at a Federation convention, was in the University Club and was attended by 200 presidents, past presidents and presidents-elect of clubs and county federations, of whom there was a goodly sprinkling from even the farthest district, the northeastern. Mrs. Hamme called upon a few of the women informally, there was some impromptu singing led remarkably well by Mrs. A. B. Lynn, president of the Southern Club, and the group at her table.

The only entertainment feature were readings by Mrs. J. Charles Wilson, a prominent local club woman, who chose her offerings with that peculiar sense of fitness that is one of her many gifts. Theodosia Garrison's "A Thanksgiving" was done with rare dignity and charm. The reception which followed in the Hotel Schenley was a brilliant affair and was attended by about 400 women. The gowning was notably handsome. Music was furnished by an orchestra which played all evening and by a vocal quartet composed of I. D. Schaffer, Joseph Donaghy, Carl McVicker and R. M. Gibbs with Walter Poyntz accompanying.

The nominating committee reported the following ticket for election: President, Mrs. John A. Frick, Allentown Woman's Club; vice president at large, Mrs. Ralph W. Johnston, Woman's Club of Pittsburgh; northeastern vice president, Mrs. J. E. Sickler, Scranton Century Club; southeastern vice president, Mrs. J. E. Sickler, Scranton Century Club; southeastern vice president, Mrs. Richard J. Hamilton, Ardmore Woman's Club; central vice president, Mrs. Margaret Krall, Shippensburg Civic Club; northwestern vice president, Mrs. Linius Strock, Punxsutawney Woman's Club; southwestern vice president, Mrs. John E. McKirdy, Sewickley Valley Woman's Club; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Rollo S. Knapp, Easton Woman's Club; recording secretary, Mrs. Charles W. Hunt, Williamsport Civic Club; treasurer, Mrs. Harry B. Bradley, Franklin Woman's Club; directors, Mrs. Louis Piolett, Towanda Wednesday Club; Mrs. Walter A. [illegible]ler, Lancaster Iris Club; Mrs. F. W. Haller, State College Woman's Club; Mrs. William P. Rose, Cambridge Springs Gam-Sac-Mah Club; Mrs. John A. Elliott, Beaver Falls Outlook Club.

SALVATION ARMY FUND WORKERS GET $57,155

With $57,155 reported as received of the $105,500 being asked for this year in the Salvation Army home service appeal campaign, the 1,000 unpaid workers who are canvassing the county on behalf of the fund hope to report the fund realized before the campaign ends Saturday. The home service fund is the army's budget for its work in this county during the next 12 months.

Rheumatism Recipe

Ex-Sergeant Paul Case, Room 116 Quigg Building, Brockton, Mass., states that while serving with the American Army in France he was given a prescription for Rheumatism and Neuritis that has produced most gratifying results in thousands of cases. He says the prescription cost him nothing, so he asks nothing for it, but will send it free to any one who writes him.—Advertisement.

NOTABLES TO ATTEND K. C. BANQUET

Pittsburgh district Knights of Columbus will hold their eighteenth annual Columbus Day banquet tomorrow evening at 6:30 in the William Penn Hotel, a reception for the speakers and honor guests preceding the dinner. Speakers will be the Rev. Dr. Peter Guilday, of Washington, professor of church history at the University of America; Judge John Barton Payne, national chairman of the American Red Cross, and Col. Hanford MacNider, assistant Secretary of War and past national commander of the American Legion. The Rev. Dr. Paul E. Campbell, superintendent of parish schools of Pittsburgh diocese, will deliver the invocation and brief addresses will be given by Leo A. McMullen, president of Pittsburgh Chapter, K. of C., and David M. Martin, district deputy and general chairman of the Columbus Day committees. A musical program directed by Frank Maggio will include solos by George Quinlan, tenor, with Mme. Leila Wilson-Smith at the piano. Father Guilday will speak on "The Catholic Question in the United States." James Francis Burke will preside as toastmaster. Many public officials of the city, county and state will be among the guests. Col. MacNider will arrive in Pittsburgh by airplane and many of his friends in the American Legion plan to attend the banquet to greet their past commander, who wears many decorations for war-time conspicuous bravery in France.

VANDALS WRECK HIGH SCHOOL

A gang of thieves, believed to have been composed of school boys, broke into the Daniel Webster High School, Reedsdale street and Scotland avenue, and the Phipps gymnasium across the street from the school, last night, doing damage estimated at $5,000 in the school and escaping with football equipment worth $400 and $2 in cash taken from a teacher's desk.

They gained entrance to the school with a key which unlocked a door leading into the building from the fire escape. To enter the gymnasium, they dug a hole in the roof with a pick.

SWISSVALE GIRL ACQUITTED

Margaret Minnie Lucas, 19, of 2309 Patterson street, Swissvale, was acquitted of a charge of perjury yesterday by a jury in Criminal Court. The verdict placed the costs upon the prosecutor, Elizabeth Gibson, an investigator for the Western Pennsylvania Humane Society.

The defendant declared troublesome neighbors, aided by the society representative, had been responsible for her bringing a serious charge against her own father, who was held for court, but acquitted April 28, when the girl repudiated the charge. The charge of perjury against her followed the repudiation.

EX-BOXER HELD FOR ASSAULT

"Young Bijou," Negro ex-pugilist, indulged in an informal bout with Deputy Coroner Robert Neuman the other day and was held for court on a charge of assault and battery by Magistrate George H. England in Central Police Station this morning. Neuman had reprimanded "Bijou" for using profanity on the telephone.

"The morgue is no place to try to stage a come-back," said Magistrate England. "Bijou's" real name is George Anderson, according to the police.

John Nye Rebukes Sally for Dancing Publicly in the Roadhouse

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

SALLY JEROME is the mainstay of her family in the absence of her father, who does not live with her mother. MRS. JEROME enjoys poor health, so Sally does the housework mornings and officework afternoons. BEAU and MILLIE, her brother and sister, give nothing towards keeping up the home. TED SLOAN loves Sally and wants her to marry him. But Sally is interested only in JOHN NYE, for whom Millie works. Nye is infatuated with Millie, who prefers a bond salesman named DAVIDSON. Davidson worries Sally with his attentions. During an illness of Millie's, Sally works for John Nye. Later he offers her a steady job, but Sally refuses it and goes into the roadside inn business with her AUNT EMILY JEROME. The business does not prosper until Aunt Em hires a jazz band and Sally puts on an exhibition ''shimmy Black Bottom'' dance with Ted for her partner. Presently Ted confesses that he's ashamed of being a ''dancing fool'' and Sally sends him packing. Beau's baby is born, and shortly afterwards Beau begins to run around nights. Mabel, his wife, decides to make him support his own home, and looks around for a job to enable her to buy household furniture. Millie leaves John Nye's employ with the story that he ''got fresh'' with her. Mabel takes the job. Millie goes to work then, in Davidson's office, and quits that place with the same story about Davidson. One night when Millie has left for Bermuda with her mother and Mr. Jerome, who had returned to his family after a long illness, Davidson drops into the inn. His story of Millie's leaving the office that employed him is that she was angry because of his affection for Sally. He starts making love to Sally to prove his point, and looking up, Sally sees John Nye in the doorway, watching the whole scene.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

SHE KNEW it by the tell-tale beating of her heart, and the queer gone feeling at the pit of her stomach.

She turned and glanced quickly at him. He had taken a newspaper from his coat pocket and was looking through it.

''What on earth did he come here tonight for?'' she asked herself. It was a long time before she found out.

''What's Nye hanging around here for?'' Davidson was asking, and his question seemed to be the echo of Sally's thoughts.

''Food, I suppose,'' she replied quickly. ''He knows Millie's not here, so it must be food.''

Davidson smiled and looked at her with that caressing look that was like the touch of his hands going over her. ''It couldn't be you, could it?'' he asked smoothly.

Sally did not even blush. ''He hates me!'' she declared with conviction. ''I went down to work for him one day not so long ago, and walked out before I'd been there 15 minutes. We don't get along—he and I.''

''Do you and I? Do we get along?'' asked Davidson. ''I know one thing—I could get along forever with you if you wouldn't be such a bristly little thing. Are you like this with all men?''

"Like what?"

"Like you are with me," he went on to explain. "Cold and distant—peeved if a man lays a finger on you?"

Sally gave him a blighting look. "This," said she, "is a very silly conversation. Let's talk sense. . . . Did Millie really leave your office because you and she had a quarrel over Ted Sloan and me?"

"We had a quarrel over you," the man said simply. "I told you that before. Sloan was just to be the fourth person in this little party I framed up. It was you that Millie was sore about."

"She said you tried to kiss her, too," Sally accused him. "I think she was angry because you behaved towards her as you did in the office—where she was likely to get herself talked about, you know."

Davidson gave her a long, steady look.

"Did Millie tell you I made love to her in the office?" he asked roughly.

Sally looked down at her hands that were clasping and unclasping themselves on the edge of the little table.

"If she did," Davidson ran on, in his downright heavy way, "she's a liar." He never minced words. "I've been trying to get Millie Jerome off my neck for months. Ever since the time I met you, as a matter of fact. I always knew, some girl would knock me for a row of golf clubs some day, and you're the girl."

Crude as his words were, the ring of truth was in them.

But Sally had had enough of him, truthful or not truthful as he might be. She stood up.

The three musicians were taking their places, and a dozen people had come into the dining room.

"Almost time for me to dance," she said absently.

"Millie never could tell the truth," Davidson seemed to be speaking to himself now, rather than to her. "She was always breaking dates with me—and then lying to square herself. And she liked me, too—"

"Oh, I know that!" Sally assured him. "She always said she did." She took a quick look at John Nye as she flashed past him on her way to the hall to get a tambourine that she had bought for the new dance.

At 7:30, when Sally re-entered the dining room for her Savannah Stomp, it was crowded. The sound of talk, the fragrance of tobacco smoke filled the air.

Davidson was still sitting at his table, smoking a thick, black cigar and drinking black coffee.

John Nye was at his table, too. Sally did not look directly at him, but she could see him from the tail of her eye.

She began to dance.

And the Sally who danced was a Sally whom John Nye never had dreamed of—a wild, abandoned gypsy, whose teeth gleamed in a wide, flashing smile, whose eyes smiled, and whose red heels twinkled madly about the small square of floor in the center of the room.

She was no more like the demure, sensible little private secretary who had timidly brought him sandwiches than a Bird of Paradise is like a Jenny Wren.

If Sally had happened to look his way she would have seen many things clearly written on his face just then. Astonishment, a kind of unwilling admiration, and anger, as well as something else.

But she never noticed him. She smiled at the other faces that were turned towards her, and she waved her hand to Davidson, who clapped loudly and long when she was finished.

She danced again, and then the floor was given over to the diners for ballroom dancing.

Sally drifted into the kitchen, light and bright-colored as an autumn leaf in the west wind. Her scarlet silk rags, sewn with little bells, tinkled as she went. The door swung shut upon her.

John Nye's eyes stayed upon the panels of the swinging door until it closed. Then he laid a five-dollar bill upon the table and got up.

"Never mind the change," he said shortly to the round-eyed Hilda, who stared dully after him. No one had ever given her three dollars for a tip before.

He went into the hall.

Sally was there.

She was on her way upstairs to change her dress, and she started to pass him with just the tiniest smile of recognition.

Then just as she put out her hand to grasp the newel post at the bottom of the flight, she felt her two arms seized firmly from behind and John Nye swung her around facing him.

Fortunately, the big hall was empty. There was no one about to witness the ridiculous scene that followed. It truly was ridiculous—for John Nye shook Sally exactly as a big brother might have shaken a small and wicked sister.

"This is a fine thing for you to be doing, isn't it?" he asked violently, and Sally laughed from sheer nervousness. She couldn't believe that this thing was actually happening to her. . . . John Nye, shaking her! Why, it was impossible! It didn't seem as if it could be happening to her.

Then, in a twinkling, she recovered herself.

"Please take your hands from me!" she said, turning and twisting herself until she was out of his grasp. "What are you talking about, Mr. Nye?" Even in her own ears her voice sounded cool and calm now.

"If you don't know yourself, how can I explain to you?" he asked. "But don't you see that you're not like this? That it's not your sort of thing?"

Sally was frankly mystified. She shrugged her shoulders—smooth and graceful under the thin scarlet silk of her bodice.

"You mean dancing here?" she asked. "In my aunt's restaurant? Do you think it's such a terrible thing to do?"

His mouth twisted in a sarcastic smile.

"Oh, well, better women than I have danced for their living," answered Sally, her feet on the bottom step of the stairs. "Dancing is a perfectly respectable thing to do. And I love it. I'm sorry if you dislike to see Millie's sister making a public show of herself, if that's the way you think of it. But you mustn't think any the less of Millie, because I do it. It isn't her fault that I dance here, you know. And Aunt Em and I didn't start out to run a roadhouse."

Silence for a minute.

Then John Nye spoke again. "I suppose it isn't any of my business what you do—but what does your Davidson think about it?"

Just then Davidson came strutting out of the dining room, and without speaking to him, John Nye turned and went out of the house.

CHAPTER LIX.

IT WAS a breathless and bewildered Sally who held out her hand to wish Davidson good night.

She barely knew what she said to him, and she only half heard him assuring her that he would call her up in a few days.

After he was gone she climbed the stairs to her own room—and presently found herself standing before the mirror of her dresser, without any clear recollection of coming upstairs.

With quick, nervous fingers, she began to take off the gypsy dress—the thin, scarlet silk, the gay, beflowered calico, the little silk cap all covered with bright brass bells.

Then, slipping into her faded old cotton kimono, she rolled them all into a ball—all the bright, gay-looking garments—and carried them to the trunk-room at the head of the attic stairs.

Her own trunk stood in a corner, behind the barricade of bedsteads, boxes, old rockers and dressers that Mrs. Jerome had brought to the house months before.

Sally climbed over these things with the quick, smooth ease of a cat, and dropped down to the dusty floor beyond them. She flung up the lid of her cheap, black tin trunk, and thrust the roll of silk and calico down at the very bottom, under piles of her winter clothes.

"There!" she said aloud, and with great satisfaction. "There!" She felt as if she had closed the door upon the whole period of her life, as she slammed the lid of the trunk down, and climbed back over her mother's dusty household goods, and locked the door of the trunk room behind her.

At 10 that night, when Aunt Em came running up stairs to find out why she wasn't doing the dance that she did every night about that time, Sally was in bed.

But she was not asleep. She was sitting bolt upright, with a mending basket before her on the bed, and she was darning the sleeves of her old black serge office suit.

The frown on Aunt Emily's face deepened.

"What under high heaven ARE you doing, Sally Jerome?" she asked in wonderment, and Sally held up the dress to show her what she was doing.

"Mending my old office dress, aunt," she said meekly. "I'm going out to look for a job in the morning—an office job."

Aunt Em was thunderstruck, flabber-gasted . . . Here was a pretty kettle of fish, she seemed to be thinking. Her star attraction suddenly showing a streak of temperament and refusing to dance at a moment's notice! And for no reason at all, so far as Aunt Emily could see.

To Be Continued.

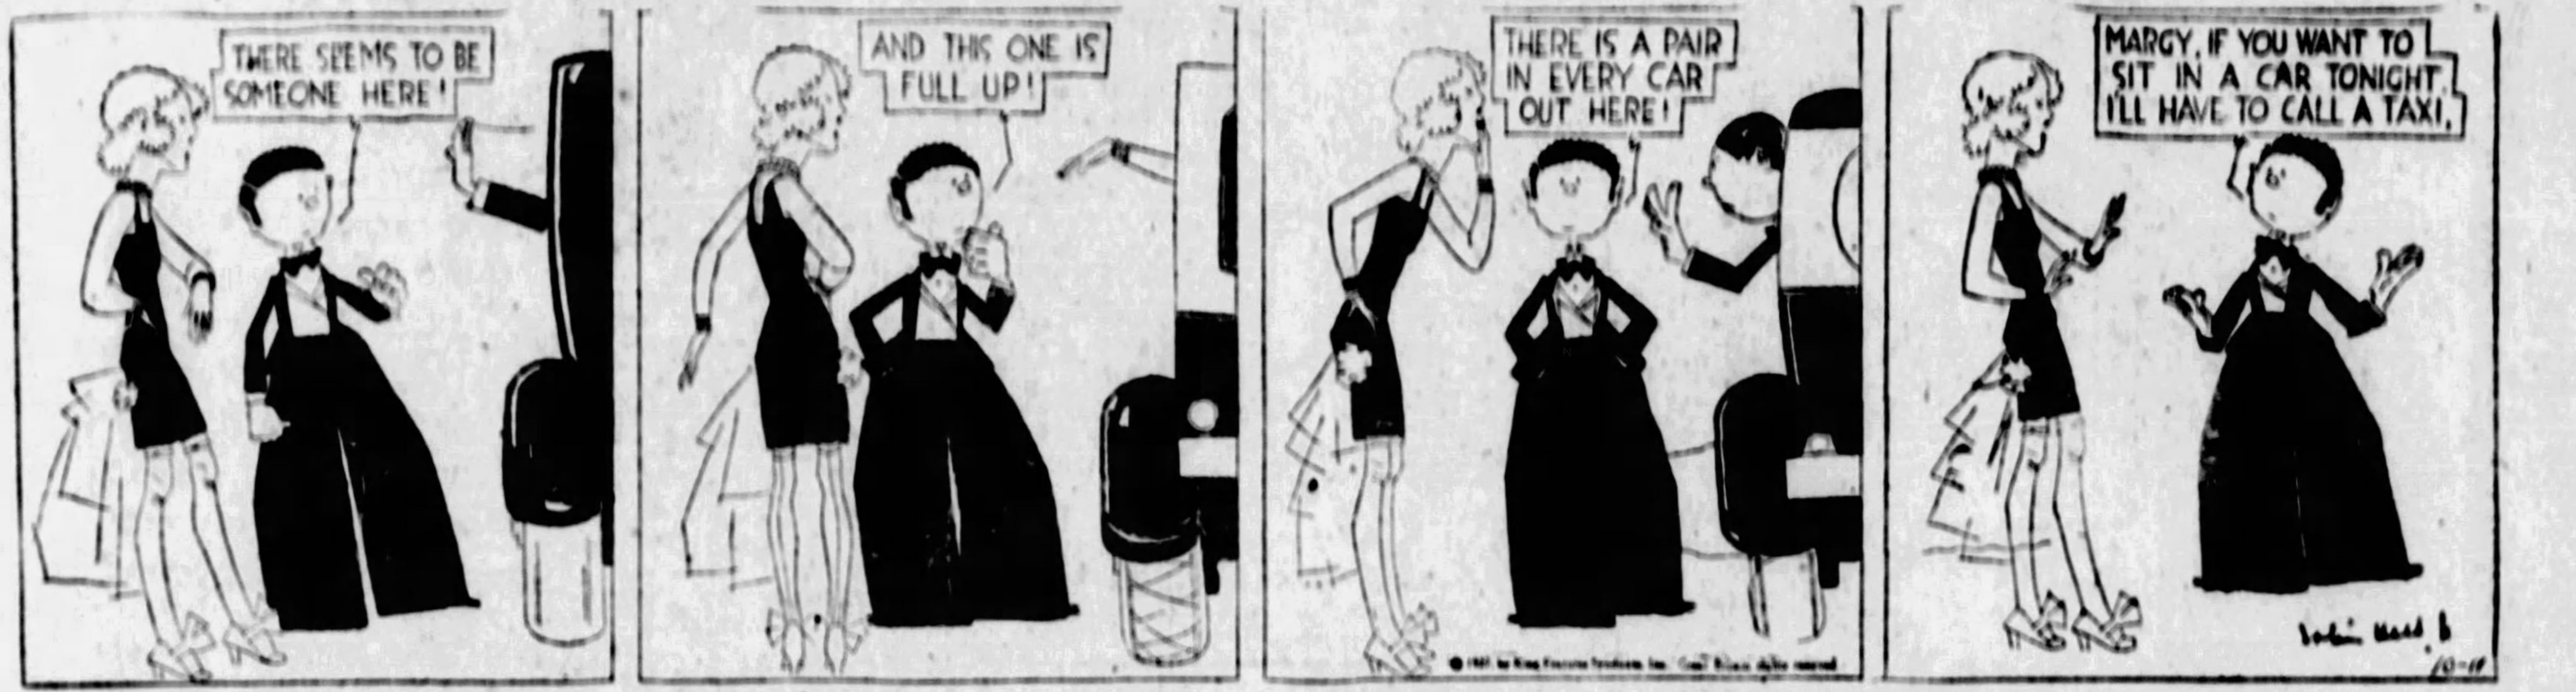
Merely Margy, An Awfully Sweet Girl

Story by Lloyd Mayer

By John Held, Jr.



THERE SEEMS TO BE SOMEONE HERE!
AND THIS ONE IS FULL UP!
THERE IS A PAIR IN EVERY CAR OUT HERE!
MARGY, IF YOU WANT TO SIT IN A CAR TONIGHT, I'LL HAVE TO CALL A TAXI,
John Held Jr

"My dear, I simply MUST tell you about an AWfully amusing INcidence that happened on this HOUSE party that ARab and NOIsy and I gouged IN on, because ACtually, my dear, I NEARly had hysTERics about it because it was so DARNED FUNny, do you know what I mean? Well, ANYways, my dear, you see there was a DANCE practicably EVery night we were THERE, only practicably NObody would be DANcing after the first two or three dances because this MeTAVish esTATE effect, my dear, is SIMply tiTANic and has all these sort of CAGEY little reTREATS and things scattered 'round where everybody would sort of disapPEAR to and sit OUT, sort of, do you know what I mean? So one night, you see, there was this DANCE and HEAPS of people came to it in CARS from EVerywhere, my dear, so there were these CARS parked for MILES in every diRECtion. So when ARab cut IN on me I suggested it would be sort of a NOVelty for a change to TRAIPSE forth at this point and sit in one of these CARS instead of one of these odd little SYLvan reTREATS which I was HONestly getting just TOO TIRED of, ANYways, because the MINute I would let ARab enSCONCE himself in one of them with me he would suddenly be afFLICted with bad LOVE trouble—you know the type! But the SCREAMing part of it WAS, my dear, that simply EVery one of these CARS had been apPROpriated by the time we decided on my AUto sugGEStion—can you BEAR it? So in POSitive desperAtion ARab said if I inSISted on sitting in a CAR he guessed he would have to call a TAXI at this point, which I think was a simply KILLing reMARK, my dear—I mean I ACtually DO!"

Madge Wins in Her Plan to Call on the Foreigners

IT was curious—and amusing—to watch the different reactions of the group on the veranda to my proposal that they all go with me the next day to call on our new neighbors, the Lincolns, who just had taken The Larches, the nearest country place to ours. I knew even before they spoke that there were two people who would not go, and their reply was prompt.

"Catch me calling on a lot of foreigners who can't pronounce their own names and take Abraham Lincoln's to cover it," my mother-in-law said caustically—she is the original one hundred percenter, I am sure.

I shot a quick, furtive glance at Noel Veritzen who but a few minutes before had told us that Veritzen was the nearest English variation of his own unpronounceable name. But he evidently had not noticed Mother Graham's remark. He and Mary were gazing excitedly at me, and I had no doubt of their eager acceptance of my invitation when they should get a chance to speak.

"It might prove very exciting," I said, smiling at her, for I know her love of a mystery. "Katie says they're Transvarians, too. Queer, there being two sets of those people here at once, when there hasn't been one of their nationality around here ever before."

"Katie says a lot of things besides her prayers," my mother-in-law retorted, "and I can't see myself traipsing down there to call on those folks at her suggestion. I'm surprised at you, Margaret."

"It wasn't at her suggestion," I explained with resolute although a bit creaky good humor. "Mrs. Ticer told me how lonely the young girl is—she says she is most charming—and that she asked about us and wondered if we could call. It's only neighborly."

"Oh, go on if you want to," Mother Graham capitulated—she has a really kind heart underneath her crustiness, "only don't ask me to go along."

"How about you, Katherine?" I glanced appealingly at my cousin's winsome wife, but I knew her answer before I spoke. She detests making new acquaintances, and she also never loses an opportunity to engineer Junior's absence from any excursion where he might be in the way.

She shook her head, smiling.

"Junior and I couldn't possibly go," she said. "I promised him we'd find where the speckled hen has stolen her nest, and then we have to dig some worms for fishing."

I threw her a grateful glance for her strategy, for I knew that otherwise my small son would have begged to go, and I would have hated to refuse him. Indeed, Dicky no doubt would have taken him, much to my discomfort, for children, to my mind, have no place in such trips as the one I was planning.

"That's decisive, anyway," I said, then turning to Noel and Mary I put on my severest air.

"I'm not going to let you two off," I said.

"Try keeping us away," Mary caroled. "I haven't been so thrilled in weeks. A beautiful girl with a lot of money—she must have to have taken The Larches and hired all the Ticers for the summer—and a sort of mystery about her—oh, boy—maybe she's a counterfeiter or a lady bootlegger."

"Mary!" her grandmother ejaculated, but the rest of us laughed, and I looked at Dicky, a trifle embarrassed.

"Will you come with us?" I asked, wondering what his answer would be.

"Will I?" he returned, and there was a queer little glint in the back of his eyes as he spoke. "Just watch me! Beautiful young girls with mysterious romantic surroundings aren't so numerous in my young life that I can afford to pass any of them up. I'll be there, dear heart, with a fresh collar and a new necktie and a haircut and a shave and everything."

I laughed with the rest, but all through the rest of the day and the forenoon of the next, indeed until the very start of our drive to The Larches, I was uneasily conscious and—conjecturous—of that queer little glint in my husband's eyes.

WHAT'S the ANSWER?

1. What is the difference between warm and cold blooded animals?
2. How many full generals has the United States had and who were they?
3. Who originated the donkey and elephant as symbols of the Democratic and Republican parties respectively?
4. In ancient Rome, who was a centurion?
5. What does a cat use its whiskers for?
6. Does sound travel faster in air or in water?
7. What is the difference between common and preferred stock?
8. What was the original meaning of our word "alderman"?
9. Of whom is it said in the Bible that "they shall be called the children of God"?
10. What was the Washington Elm?

The answers to these questions may be found in tomorrow's paper.

Here are the answers to yesterday's questions.

1. Calpurnia was the wife of Julius Caesar from 59 B. C.
2. There are 3,424 spoken languages or dialects distributed as follows: North and South America, 1,624; Asia, 937; Europe, 587; Africa, 276.
3. The males and females of all ordinary species of ants have wings. Only the workers or neuters are wingless.
4. Lake Superior is the largest expanse of fresh water in the world. Its estimated area is over 31,000 square miles.
5. Rattlesnakes are viviparous; that is, the eggs are hatched inside the body and the young are brought forth living.
6. The United States does not own any Panama Canal territory. The strip of 436 square miles used by the canal was in 1904 leased to this country by Panama in perpetuity for $10,000,000 and a yearly rental of $250,000.
7. Mercerization is the treatment of the cotton fabric with caustic soda, potash, or some similar chemical, so as to increase the color-absorbing qualities of the cotton. It also gives it a silky gloss. The process derived its name from the inventor, John Mercer, an Englishman, who died in 1866.
8. The "Battle Hymn of the Republic" was written by Julia Ward Howe, an American author who was born in New York in 1819.
9. High German is the language spoken by the people in the highlands of Germany. It includes Swiss, Alsatian and Bavarian dialects. Low German is spoken by the inhabitants of the lowlands in the north, and includes Friesian, Dutch and Flemish. It is not a corruption of High German, but is a distinct form of speech.
10. The longest speech ever made in Congress was delivered by Senator Robert M. La Follette, of Wisconsin, in 1919. He kept the floor for nearly 19 consecutive hours. He was filibustering against an emergency currency bill.

Cold Tea a Cleaner

To remove dullness and specks from your furniture you should make a mixture of whiting and cold tea. First rub the glass with a little warm tea on a soft cloth, and then apply the paste, afterward rubbing clean with a piece of dry tissue paper.

School nurse says all girls should know this

TALKING to a roomful of high school girls on personal hygiene, an experienced district nurse said:

"One of the basic rules of health for girls is to keep the system functioning naturally at all times. Normal exercise and diet habits should be encouraged. But when necessary there's no harm in taking nujol, since it works mechanically and can't disturb the normal functions of any organ of the body. Particularly with girls, there are times when nujol should always be taken. Take a spoonful every night for a few days. It's a thoroughly safe and harmless method. It won't cause distress or gas pains or griping."

Not Like Medicine

Nujol is different from any other substance. It contains no drugs or medicine. It can be taken safely no matter how you are feeling because it is so pure and harmless, and works so easily. Every woman should keep a bottle on hand. Every druggist has this remarkable substance. Get the genuine. Perfected by the famous Chemical Products Division of the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey. Look for the Nujol bottle with the label on the back that you can read right through the bottle.

The Woman Pays

But Does Not Mind It Now.

For years women have been buying vanishing creams, always hoping and looking forward to finding a cream that would not harm or dry up the skin and clog the pores, a cream that could be used as a powder base without leaving that usual scaly appearance.

And now, after years of patient and scientific research work by an expert chemist, there has been produced a vanishing cream in liquid form, known as Mibalm Liquid Vanishing Cream. A cream that is so different from the solid creams and unlike all liquid creams.

It is healing, soothing and mildly astringent, contains no oils, fat or grease, is snowflake-like in texture, and unequaled as a powder base. One application leaves the skin soft and pearl-like in appearance.

MIBALM LIQUID VANISHING CREAM is snow-white, it is made by the makers of MIBALM, you can buy it at all the leading Drug and Department Stores, you can always get it at May's.

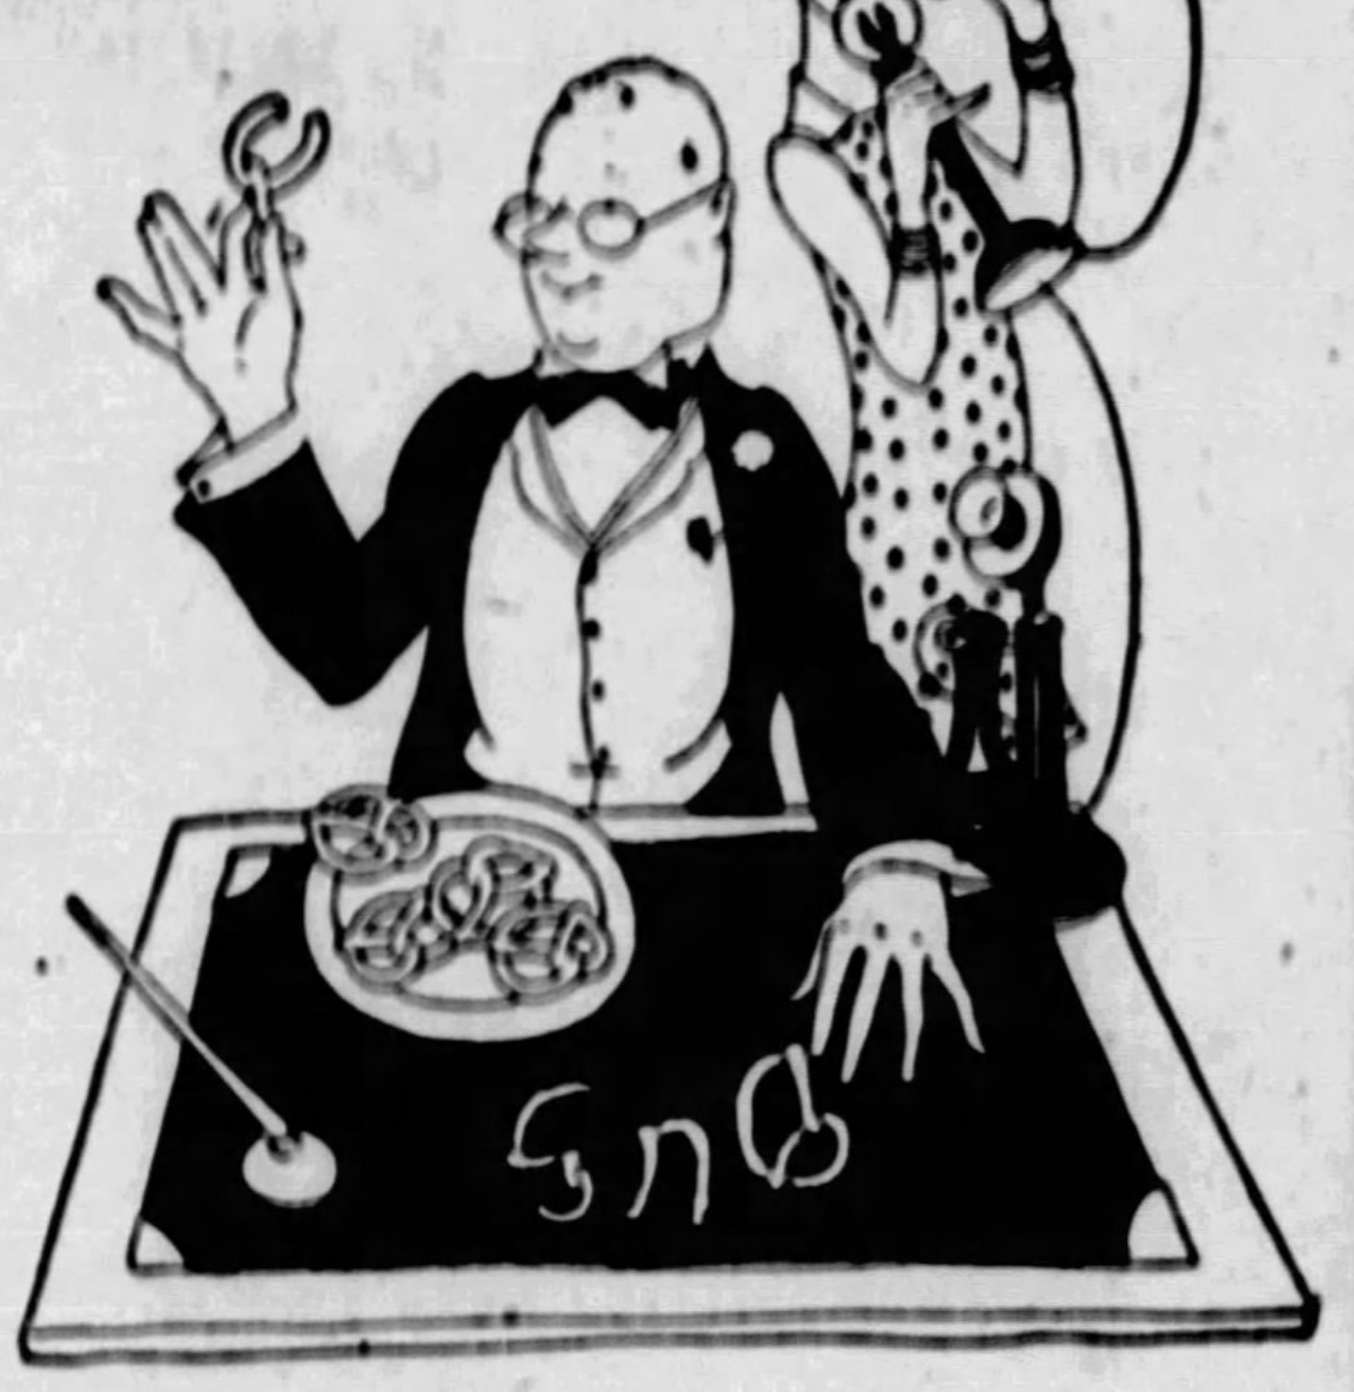
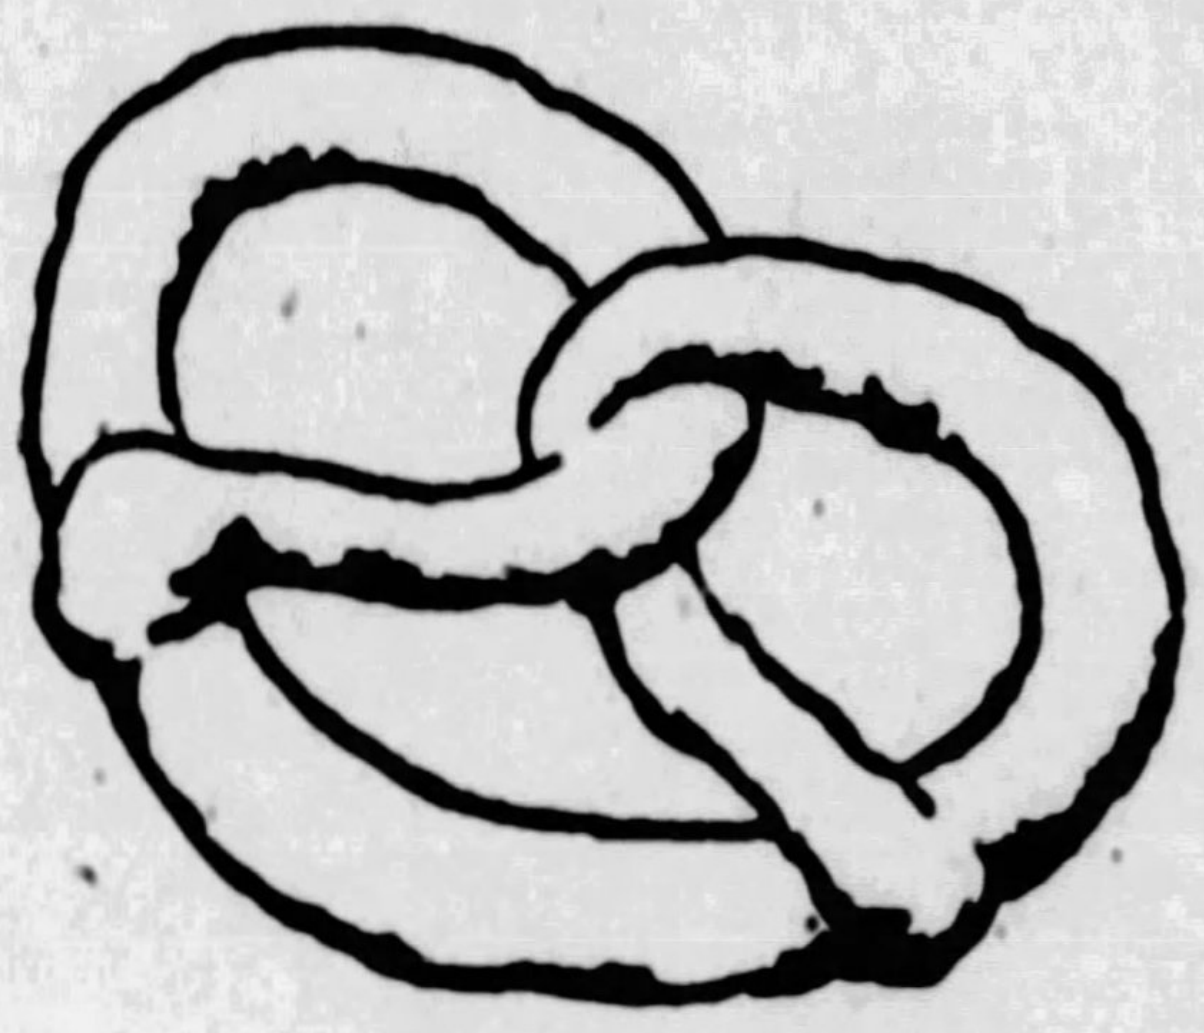
Bite yourself an Alphabet





"Mr. Pretzeleer is busy in conference"

Very, very high pressure executives make it a rule to pretzel at least once every afternoon. They find that biting out letters rests their 90 H. P. brains. Try it. Lock the doors, Send out word you're in conference and start biting. A good word to bite is because it helps make you believe you are—busy, at least, being a pretzeleer.

It was a pretzeleer who invented the word toothsome. He was thinking of the fine hearty salty flavor that comes free with every O-So-Gud. And the crispness and brittleness. To say nothing of the crunchiness.

The more you pretzel with O-So-Guds the better you like it. Pretzel before going to bed. With soup, salad, dessert. When you drink ginger ale. If the youngsters will eat between meals there's nothing better than a knotty but nice pretzel . . . And you don't have to worry about digesting them. That's easy.

Uneeda Bakers pretzels, of course. We call them O-So-Guds because they are.

Dangerous Innocence

FEW GIRLS, it seemed, could have been blessed with finer qualities for success and happiness than was Irene. Guided by a wonderful and understanding mother, she had learned to cherish all the ideals that make for a sweet, wholesome, normal life. But when she found herself alone, struggling for success in the big city, she quickly learned that beauty, talent and goodness may prove dull weapons in a world that demands knowledge and experience as well.

Yet she fought on, battling bravely against disappointment, want and loneliness—little dreaming that her very innocence and ignorance of life were to prove her most terrible enemies. For it was her desperate yearning for sympathy and companionship that brought the beautiful Bess, the handsome, romantic Ted and the worldly-wise Harold into her life. Later it was their cruel sneers and laughter at her refusal to drink and "have a good time" that made her wonder if, after all, "being a good sport" were any real harm.

Could she have foreseen that ghastly near-future day when she would awake, her brain paralyzed with horror, her heart sickened with fury, her nerves torn and exhausted, she would have flown from her friends as from a deadly pestilence. Yet that moment of frightful discovery was still to come; and when it did, it was only the beginning—the first step into a world of agony, terror and revulsion of soul.

Irene's pitiful story will rend the heart of everyone who reads it. It is entitled "Dangerous Innocence," and appears complete in November True Story Magazine.

(Above)—"With one movement he tore off the shade and held up the lamp. I stood in the blinding glare and watched the blood drain from his face. Suddenly he started toward me. I knew he meant to kill me. Then—" (From "Dangerous Innocence," November True Story Magazine.)

Dramas of Real Life That Startle and Thrill

IN the foreword of a recent novel, the author says: "In this book none of the characters represent real persons, living or dead. They are wholly imaginary."

Which is just another way of saying: "This story isn't life; it is simply a product of my imagination."

What a striking contrast to this and all other fiction is presented by the stories that appear each month in True Story Magazine. The characters are not fictitious; they are real. The events are not imaginary; they really happened.

In no other magazine will you find such amazingly frank and powerfully dramatic narratives of real life. In these compelling stories, the very hearts and souls of the writers are revealed. Their struggles, temptations, defeats, triumphs, loves, hates, joys and sorrows become an open book to all who wish to read. The November issue alone contains fifteen gripping true-life chronicles that fascinate, startle and thrill. Your newsdealer has it. Get your copy today.

(Above)—"STUPID WITH WINE, HE OPENED THE DOOR"—A young, fun-loving, motherless girl, living in an isolated village, it was not strange that Marietta fell madly in love with the handsome young violinist who came to the town. Nor could the threats and pleadings of her poor father stem the tide of folly into which she innocently plunged. (See "The Road to Ecstasy," November True Story.)

(Right)—"THE BULLET HAD FOUND ITS MARK"—Love of a strong-willed, determined girl for a man who was marked for death by a lawless band of mountaineers proves the mainspring of action in this thrilling, heart-clutching story, "Pride of the Hills," in November True Story Magazine.

(Left)—"HE PUSHED HIS WAY IN"—Marriage, a home, an adorable baby—what bliss to a girl who had always known loneliness. Then a husband's careless neglect forced her to accept the attentions of another man out of sheer hunger for companionship. Every man, every woman should read "A Lonely Heart's Call," November True Story.

(Right)—"HE PRESSED MY HAND"—Her home life broken, the lives of her parents shattered by divorce, Vera was left to face the world's pitfalls with a heart hardened by disillusionment and despair. How she met the crisis of her life on the difficult road she had to travel is told in "The Eyes of Our Children," November True Story Magazine.

(Left)—"MY HEART SEEMED TO STOP"—Never was a girl more gloriously happy than Beryl in her married life with Gustave, hero of the air. Then the beautiful, the fascinating Miss Swift came on the scene as an aviation pupil. One day they sped into the clouds on a secret and mysterious flight. What happened is revealed in "Secret of the Sky," True Story for November.

U. S. Shipping Is Decaying; Business Men Should Act.

By B. C. FORBES

WHAT'S the matter with American shipping? And can it be remedied?

THE records reveal clearly that something is the matter with it. Of America's total foreign commerce only 33 per cent is carried in ships flying the American flag.

Again: Lloyd's reports that the United States has suffered a decrease in the gross tonnage of her mercantile fleet since 1920, whereas Great Britain, Germany, Japan and other competitors have enjoyed an increase. Our tonnage was 16,324,000 in 1920; in 1926, 14,578,000. Britain, 18,300,000 in 1920; now, 19,399,000. Germany has jumped from 672,000 to 3,110,000 tons and Japan from 2,995,000 to 3,967,000.

A MAN of fifteen years' shipping experience in Britain, Australia and Latin America, a trained accountant now located in San Francisco, William H. Critch, in course of a very comprehensive letter to this column, registers these points:

"America's foreign trade, particularly her export trade, is the keystone of her business prosperity. How can we proceed in order to keep the lead in the big struggle for commercial supremacy that is near at hand?

"The crux of the situation as regards our foreign trade is transportation. We surely have the goods to supply the foreign markets, but we have not the right sort of transportation to those markets.

OUR difficulty is two-fold: Lack of American vessels, and lack of ability to operate successfully enough of those we do have in our foreign service under the American flag.

"Our greatest manufacturing organization, the United States Steel Corporation, has been very successful in the foreign field, because the 'foreign vision' of one man, James A. Farrell, its president, gave it transportation of the right sort.

"Few of our manufacturers can furnish their own vessels, but they can all do the next best thing: Ship their cargoes by vessels flying the American flag. It requires a shipping man to solve this end of the problem, not a naval man or a railroad man.

"THE management of our American flag ships is the key to the success of America's foreign trade. Our salesmen can and do sell our goods, our bankers can and do finance our foreign trade, our manufacturers, through our high-grade workers, produce the goods, but our shipping management does not match the efficiency of the other three factors.

"Why?

"Because very few of them know more than one department of transportation.

"All over the country there is a scramble for shipments—a costly scramble. This expense is eating up profits. Very few of our American flag lines know what it costs to operate their vessels. They must make it their business to find out definitely how costs are made up, and also how to stop leaks.

"THESE things cannot be discovered at first-hand in an uptown office, and too frequently such information is buried in the accounts department and never reaches the management.

"Unfortunately, most of the managers have never met their men, or at least not under working conditions, nor do they know what those working conditions are, except, perhaps, by hearsay. Very few of them are of the type of Robert Dollar or H. F. Alexander, who know their men and materials at first-hand, and learned their business where the money is made and lost, especially lost—on the docks and in the ships.

"What should be done is pretty obvious. It is up to America's financial, manufacturing and transportation leaders. Definite plans for improvement would be forthcoming if these leaders were to get together.

"The fact that the government continues in the shipping business proves that our private shipping managers and operators of shipping board services are wanting in efficiency. Would they not drive the government out of the shipping game if it were otherwise?"

Does that strike you as commonsense?

COTTON MARKET

NEW YORK, Oct. 11.—The cotton market opened easy today at a decline of 14 to 18 points, active months showing net losses of about 20 to 24 points in early trading under a continuation of yesterday's selling movement.

This included further liquidation of old accounts and considerable southern selling, but trade buying and covering on the decline steadied the market and caused rallies of 15 or 18 points from the lowest by the end of the first hour.

Early selling was promoted by favorable weather reports and relatively easy Liverpool cables, while the disposition to take profits on recent sales probably was increased by the proximity of a holiday and reports of a well maintained spot basis in the South.

Private cables from Liverpool reported hedging and Bombay selling there and that stocks of cotton yarns were accumulating.

The market became firmer after the early selling orders had been absorbed. Local brokers reported an increased trade demand, while there was considerable covering in preparation for the holiday tomorrow, and prices were firm, December advancing to 20.72c and March to 21.00c, or 14 to 17 points net higher. Offerings appeared to increase somewhat at this level, but the market was fairly steady within 5 or 6 points of the best at mid-day. The advance was accompanied by reports that holders of spot cotton in the south were resisting declines and the basis was being firmly maintained.

SUGAR MARKET.

NEW YORK, Oct. 11.—(AP.)—After selling off 1.32c to the basis of 4.35c for Cuban duty paid, at which level sales were confirmed of 10,000 bags of Cuban afloat to a local refiner, the raw sugar market today developed a steadier tone and a further buying interest at the same level found no further offerings.

The steadier tone to the spot market and more favorable London advices, together with unconfirmed reports that as soon as President Machado of Cuba returned to Havana tomorrow he would issue a decree withdrawing 150,000 tons of sugar from the present crop for export, and the possibility of postponing the start of the next season's grinding to January 15th, were responsible for firmness in raw sugar futures. Another bullish influence was the estimate of the U. S. Department of Agriculture placing the domestic beet yield at 6,760,000 tons of sugar beets, against last year's harvest of 7,220,000 tons, which was considerably below recent private estimates. The market opened unchanged to 2 points higher on covering and some European buying at midday showed net gains of 2 to 4 points.

No changes were reported in refiners' list quotations which ranged from 5.90 to 6.10 for fine granulated with only a light inquiry reported.

BULLS REGAIN CONTROL OF MARKET

NEW YORK, Oct. 11.—(AP.)—Operators working for higher prices regained control of the price movement in today's stock market after an early period of irregularity. A few new weak spots were uncovered by bear traders, but heavy buying of U. S. Steel common and General Motors finally turned the general course of prices upward. Call money was again in plentiful supply at the renewal figure of 4 per cent.

The weekly steel trade reviews continued to stress the absence of the expected pick-up in demand, the Iron Age composite price for finished steel dropping to the lowest level in five years. U. S. Steel common, however, rallied from a low of 143⅞ to 145½ and there was a brisk demand for Colorado Fuel, Vanadium and Crucible. Gulf States sank to a new low for the year and Bethlehem continued to lose ground on the growing belief that dividends would not be resumed this year, as confidently expected a few weeks ago.

Resumption of the advance on General Motors coincided with the return to this country of William C. Durant, who has been actively identified with "bull" operations in that issue during the past few years. The delay in the introduction of the new Ford models also was a factor. Some of the low and medium priced public utilities yielded readily to selling pressure in the early trading, but the group stiffened on the appearance of strong buying orders in Radio Corporation, Western Union and Peoples Gas.

Houston Oil made up its early 5-point decline and bullish operations were resumed in Freeport Texas and A. M. Byers.

Rails offered stubborn resistance to selling pressure and by early afternoon were creeping forward under the leadership of the high grade investment shares.

Bullish operations were reviving at midday under the impetus of a substantial advance in the local tractions and other public utilities, notably Peoples Gas. Previously, the list had been driven down sharply in many instances. Losses running as high as 5 points in Houston Oil. Some of the Eastern coalers weakened in common with the industrials but Ontario and Western was consistently bought and rose above 41. The rate on standing loans which carry over until Thursday on account of the Columbus holiday tomorrow, was continued at 4 per cent.

New York Bond Market

NEW YORK, Oct. 11—(AP.)—Interest in bond circles today centered in forthcoming new offerings expected within the next few days. Negotiations for the long expected Polish issue were understood to be in the final stage, and marketing of the $15,000,000 or more to be underwritten by a New York syndicate may be undertaken some time this week. The $41,500,000 American portion of the large Brazilian loan, together with the British portion, probably will be offered on Thursday or Friday. The interest rate has not yet been announced, but it is expected to be around 6½ per cent.

Polish bonds were firm in today's market, but the 6½ per cent Brazilian issue, which was floated earlier in the year, had an easing tendency. Other foreign obligations were unusually quiet.

Domestic mortgages failed to establish a definite trend. There was moderate demand for Loew 6s and Interborough Rapid Transit 5s, but Goodyear 5s were in supply. Sinclair Oil 6½s sagged to 93⅝ following the Supreme Court decision in the Teapot Dome case, or fractionally more than a point above their low for the year. Railroad liens were much less active than in recent sessions.

Irregularity characterized the United States government list, with trading in small volume.

NEW YORK, Oct. 11—(AP.)—Transactions in the most active bonds on the New York Stock Exchange today were as follows, 000 omitted in sales column (United States bonds in dollars and thirty-seconds of dollars):

PARADE TO MARK COLUMBUS DAY

An automobile parade will feature the celebration of Columbus Day tomorrow.

Forming at Cedar and North avenues, at 10 a. m., with hundreds of cars in line, as well as floats and three bands, the parade will move through the North Side to the Manchester Bridge, to Liberty avenue, to Fifth avenue and then through the Oakland, Homewood, Brushton, Larimer avenue, Bloomfield and Lawrenceville districts and end at Washington Park.

City and county officials will head the parade and a silver loving cup has been offered for the best decorated car in line. William V. Foglia will be marshal.

In the evening a large reception and dance will be held in the Hotel Schenley ballroom.

M. E. MINISTERS TO CONVENE

Methodist ministers forsake the cloth for baseball uniforms tomorrow when two teams of clergymen will compete before 350 of their brethren as a feature of the opening day of the one hundred and fourth annual meeting of the Pittsburgh conference, Methodist Episcopal Church. Sessions of the conference will be held in the First Methodist Church of McKeesport.

Bishop F. J. McConnell will preside at sessions of the conference. With Dr. Thomas G. Hick, district superintendent, and the Rev. L. D. Spaugy, pastor of the McKeesport church, he will conduct a meeting preliminary to the conference tonight at 8 o'clock.

OWNER DIES IN HOSPITAL

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., Oct. 11.—Zack Wartanian, 54, owner of the Westmont Grove and State Theater dance pavilions, died of throat trouble at Memorial Hospital here Monday.

Standard Continues Upswing Here

The upward movement in Standard Sanitary Manufacturing common, which has been in progress on the Pittsburgh Stock Exchange for the past several days, was continued today with the stock going into new high ground for the year before the end of the first hour's trading. Opening on Standard was at a slight advance over yesterday's close, which was a point or so under that session's high.

On the move yesterday the stock had bulged up to around 104, but the advance had attracted profit-taking of moderate volume which had occasioned a recession of about a point from the top. Demand for the shares was as spirited this morning as at any time on the upswing. There was nothing new in the way of news on the issue, but brokers said the demand from small investors was holding up well. In addition, the speculative element was encouraged by the sustained rise and the persistent talk of much higher price by the time the stock reaches the "big board" where it is scheduled for listing in the near future.

There was not much change noted in Lone Star Gas and the stock was slow in getting started. A few shares of Pittsburgh Oil and Gas came out unchanged at 3¼, and Arkansas was also handled at the same price at which it sold late yesterday.

Pittsburgh Plate Glass sold again at $200 a share, the price to which it dropped in yesterday's market. Only a few odd lots were offered and buyers seemed willing to pay the $200 figure for the supply.

Lone Star continued quiet into the afternoon, with the price showing little inclination to move far from 49. Most of the turnover today was at 49⅛. Arkansas improved moderately, but there was nothing demonstrative about its advance.

SEAT SOLD FOR $250,000

NEW YORK, Oct. 11.—(AP.)—Walter L. Ross, brother of Charley Ross, noted kidnaping victim, has disposed of his seat on the New York Stock Exchange for $250,000, the highest price ever recorded for a membership.

Ross offered his seat for sale at $226,000 two months ago, and left it to Exchange authorities to complete the deal.

Ross will now get an unexpected $24,000 profit if the sale of the membership to Richard O'Brien, of M. J. Meehan & Co., which has been completed, is approved by the Exchange.

Ross, a Philadelphian, decided two months ago to retire from business and travel. He had been a member of the Exchange since 1899, when seats sold for from $29,500 to $40,000.

LEGIONNAIRE ROBBED

Delegate Loses Bankroll of $500 in Paris.

Paris, Sept. 22.—One of the few tragedies of the American Legion convention here occurred today when Legionnaire Joseph Regina, of New York City, was robbed of $500, his entire bankroll.

Regina took his loss with good grace, and borrowed $25 from the New York state Legion headquarters. He plans to use this money to go to Italy at the conclusion of the convention, where he has friends who he says will provide for him.

Mellon Travelers Cheques

THERE is no temptation to steal Mellon Travelers Cheques because they are of no value to anyone but the rightful owner. They cannot be cashed unless countersigned in the presence of the paying agent.

Mellon Travelers Cheques, besides being absolutely safe, are the most convenient means of carrying expense money on a trip. They are recognized and honored all over the world as "good as gold." They may be tendered at full face value in payment of hotel bills, transportation, taxi fares, guide fees and for purchases.

Mellon Travelers Cheques cost you nothing beyond their face value—you can cash them for exactly the same amount of money you pay for them.

New York Curb Market

NEW YORK, Oct. 11.—(AP.)—Movements in the curb market all through the day were of a fitful character, rallies and reactions being frequent after declines and advances, and there was a general contraction in the volume of trading reflecting the development of uncertainty in speculative circles generally.

Some issues in which there are pool or syndicate operations were among the strong features, but those issues on wide advances, received only slight consideration and were without influence on the rest of the list. Many stocks that had recently been active and strong reflected scattered liquidation that has been in progress for some days and there was little demand at around current quotations for many of the stocks that previously demanded attention.

Celanese new stock was one of the weak features, falling over 4 points, while Johns Manville was in renewed demand and moved up over 2 points to 120. Deere & Co. also was strong, advancing 4 points, and Bancitaly, after moving up about a point was in supply at concessions. Royal Baking Powder, which dropped 10 points in Monday's trading, had a further loss of 15 points, bringing its price down to 240 against the recent high of 339.

Utilities in general showed a receding tendency, although some of these stocks made gains in the early trading, among them being Federal Water Service, which rose over a point.

Oils as a group showed a stronger tone. Imperial Oil of Canada advanced 1⅛ to 58, and Humble and Standard Oil of Indiana were firm and had a fractional advance.

NEW YORK, Oct. 11.—(AP.)—Following is the official list of transactions on the New York Curb Exchange, giving all stocks and bonds traded (000 omitted in sales column in bond list):

Output of gold from the Rand mines in September totaled 842,000 ounces, compared with 842,000 ounces in August and 851,000 ounces in July.

Superior Iron Ore Shipments.

September iron ore shipments from the Lake Superior district to Eastern ports were 2,780,895 tons under the same period last year. For the season to September 30, shipments aggregated 42,381,344 tons against 45,330,908 tons last year.

Further Drop At Seminole.

Seminole oil production for 24 hours ended 7 a. m., October 10, totaled 434,449 barrels, a decrease of 5,160 barrels from the day preceding.

Newton Deal Denied.

Rumors to the effect that the Fisher Body Company, General Motors subsidiary, will take over the Newton Steel Company, are denied by E. F. Clark, president of the latter. However, Mr. Clark stated that Newton will call on December 1 at 104 and interest, $750,000 outstanding 7 per cent bonds, inasmuch as the funds are available. Further reorganization of the capital structure may follow.

European Improvement.

C. E. Mitchell, president of the National City Bank of New York, just returned from Europe, said: "Conditions in Europe appear better than at any time in recent years. There is a greater degree of political stability which combined with progress toward currency stabilization has brought order into the industry and some measure of prosperity."

Gillette Earnings Up.

The Gillette Safety Razor Company reports for nine months ended September 30 profits of $10,030,421 after taxes and depreciation equal to $5.01 a share on 2,000,000 shares against $9,301,463 or $4.65 a share in the 1926 period. Regarding the special dividend, a director stated: "Special extra dividends is in keeping with directors' policy of declaring extra dividends as earnings permit."

Sugar Exchange Honors Bache.

The New York Sugar and Coffee Exchange closed at 1:30 o'clock this afternoon out of respect to the memory of its president, L. S. Bache, who died suddenly yesterday afternoon. The Rubber Exchange of New York closed at 12 o'clock for a five-minute suspension, as a mark of respect to Mr. Bache, who was president of the rubber exchange clearing house.

Buick Has Good Quarter.

Sales of the Buick Motor Company for the third quarter jumped to 82,955 cars as compared with 70,941 in the same period of last year.

Record Week for Union Pacific.

A Union Pacific official states that all freight records on the road were broken in the last week of September.

Steel Bookings Disappointment.

Iron Age says expansion of bookings so far in October is a fraction of what was expected. Consequently, except possibly among producers who usually figure largely in railroad steel, the continued cautious buying will tend to check the bulge in operations which October weather commonly favors. In view of the virtual absence of forward contracting, bookings have closely represented consumption for some time.

The Iron Age composite price for finished steel has reached the low point of the past five years, dropping to 2.331 cents a pound from 2.346 cents of the three preceding weeks. One year ago it was 2.453 cents. The pig iron composite remains for a third week at $18.09 a ton.

Steel Operations Gain.

Steel operating schedules in the Mahoning Valley this week show moderate improvement. Trumbull Steel is above 80 per cent of capacity; Youngstown Sheet and Tube at between 55 and 60 per cent, Republic Steel at 55 per cent and Sharon Steel Hoop at between 80 and 85 per cent.

Gulf Coast Oil Gains.

Crude oil production in the Gulf Coast area for the first nine months of 1927 reached 40,094,317 barrels, an increase of 7,090,628 barrels over the corresponding 1926 period.

Piggly Wiggly Sales Gain.

September sales of Piggly Wiggly Western States Company were $1,088,703, a gain of 57.2 per cent over September last year, and for nine months this year $12,201,925, against $7,326,378 in the same period of 1926, a gain of 68.3 per cent.

Zinc Stocks Drop.

Stocks of slab zinc on September 30 were 54,277 short tons, a drop of 310 tons under the month before, the American Zinc Institute reports. Production was 47,734 tons and shipments 48,045 tons, of which 4,007 tons were exported.

Machinery Sales Up.

The growth in New England's aircraft industries has stimulated machinery sales in that territory, American Machinist reports. Increased buying interest is noted in Philadelphia, Buffalo and New York. Automobile activity is responsible for a moderate gain in sales and new inquiries in Milwaukee. Demand for machine tools continues to improve in most of the important industrial centers.

Kayser to Reduce Stock.

Julius Kayser & Co. has informed the New York Stock Exchange of a proposed reduction in authorized capital stock by 70,000 shares of preferred stock.

Cement Output Drops.

Production of Portland Cement in September declined to 17,492,000 barrels from 18,315,000 in August, but was 921,000 barrels more than in September, 1926.

Sheet Steel Slow.

Inability of automotive manufacturers to increase production schedules due to slack demand for cars is a depressing influence on the sheet steel market, says Daily Metal Trade. Some Detroit consumers report 4.10 cents a pound quoted on auto body sheets, although 4.15 cents now is the general price, against 4.25 cents which has prevailed for months. Eastern pig iron quotations are weak.

Postum-Log Cabin Deal.

Negotiations by Postum Company, Inc., for the acquisition of Log Cabin Products Corporation of St. Paul, Minn., a fruit company, are expected to be completed in a day or two.

Exchanges to Close.

The New York Coffee and Sugar Exchange will be closed today at 1:30 p. m. as a mark of respect to the memory of Leopold S. Bache, its president, who died yesterday.

CHICAGO BOARD

CHICAGO, Oct. 11.—Grain underwent an all around early drop in price today, tumbled down by the United States government crop report. All deliveries of corn reached a new low price record for the season. Opening at ½c to 1⅝c setback, wheat afterward showed some additional losses.

Corn started 1⅝@2⅛c off and then recovered to a moderate extent.

Oats declined but held better than corn or wheat.

Provisions as well as cereals went down grade.

Notwithstanding that the Canadian government crop report is construed as bullish, wheat traders here devoted themselves far more today to the unexpected bearish aspect of the United States crop figures. In this connection authoritative European advices at hand said the future course of wheat values abroad would depend on the value of North American offers and on growing conditions in the southern hemisphere. Today's Australian crop news was less favorable, but Argentine crop news auspicious.

In corn, particular notice was taken of government comment that the Kansas estimated yield of corn, 171,000,000 bushels, is the best crop the state has raised since 1915 and about three times as much as last year's Kansas corn harvest. Besides, the indicated Kansas crop of kafir, milo, maize and feterita, 39,913,000 bushels, is the largest on record.

At noon wheat was 1½c to 1⅝c net lower and corn 2¼c to 2½c down.

BULL-ETIN

(News Dispatch)

Vice President Dawes, it was announced today, has turned down an invitation to accept a gift of two complimentary seats in the second first row for the Dempsey-Tunney fight.

Whadda they mean, "second first row?" A lotta yoofs discovered on the night of September 22 that their seats were in the 342nd front row.

WHAT DO YOU MAKE OF THIS, WATSON?

(From Smalltown Paper)

Mr. McDonald, who is a lover of music, attended band practice Friday evening feeling fine. Shortly after returning home he was suddenly taken ill and has been constantly under the care of a doctor ever since.

Mary had a little damn,
Which from a darn did grow;
And every time that Mary spoke
That damn would overflow.

EFFECT OF THE HIGHER LEARNING ON CRITICISM

(From Morning Paper)

"The audience gave Jolson a huge ovation when he sang 'My Shadow and I,' which already has an established vogue."

Doctor says 85,000,000 people in America have corns.

Yes—and the other 35,000,000 step on them.

FRISBY INTERVIEWS TUNNEY—HE GIVES HIM FIRST EDITION

Mr. Frisby.

By Mr. Frisby,
Staff Correspondent
(Delayed in Transmission)

CHICAGO—After asking the identity of I dont know how many persons in the public library today I finally succeeded in finding Mister Tunney for an interview. At least the fellow said he was Mister Tunney. It was not for me to argue with him. There was some confusion, as the fellow later told others he was Napoleon—but this was doubtless a prank.

I asked Mr. Tunney, who, by the way, has grown quite a beard, if he wished me to write in his autograph album, which I did, courteously. And he wrote in mine, taking dictation quite rapidly, I thought. He wrote my favorite autograph, to wit—

You ask for something original?
I don't know how to begin!
The only original thing in my mind
Relates to original sin.

We had a good laugh, thwacking each other on the back, and so forth, until he suddenly thwacked me on the chin and began kicking.

It was my pleasure, knowing Mr. Tunney collects first editions, to give him my first edition of the American.

FAMOUS LAST WORDS
That isn't fat—it's muscle.

THIS WAGGISH WORLD

by Roy K. Moulton

EXPECT anything now. The scientists announce that they have just discovered fifteen new sun-spots, and every little sun-spot has a meaning all its own. Several new freckles have appeared on Old Sol's face. He is beginning to look like Wesley Barry.

The Mississippi floods, the St. Louis cyclone, the Japanese quakes and Cal's trip to the Black Hills—all caused by sun-spots, and the scientists tell us that the worst is yet to come.

This column refuses to become excited.

DURING the coming year we are going to suffer from earthquakes, cyclones, intense cold, intense heat, sand storms, hives, shingles, rheumatism, housemaid's knee, thunder and lightning, book-agents, bootleggers, holdup men, blue-sky stock salesmen, fake currency and yellow jaundice.

The scientists are a happy lot of old birds. When one of them springs a joke in the parlor it curdles the milk out in the pantry. Their idea of a summer resort is Woodlawn and their idea of wonderful music is that extracted from a one-string violin. They are just optimistic.

They say Mussolini has laughed only once in his life. Therefore he is just one laugh ahead of the scientists. The ordinary scientist who does the predicting these days is the kind of cheerful philosopher who spreads joy and gladness like an airplane spraying potato bugs. He prefers his boiled spaghetti made out of barbed wire and always takes a little mustard on his ice cream.

Others may be dubiously unhappy and filled with forebodings but the good old scientist jollies his way through life warning people that they must eat what they don't like, because if they eat anything they like or do anything they like in regards to anything, it will kill them. Every fine day is a weather-breeder. Every day that dawns with the world still holding together for another spin is a miracle.

His favorite light humorous readings is an epitaph in a country graveyard.

THE day after the new sun-spots were announced a friend of mine says his landlord called on him and raised the rent. "Don't blame me," said the landlord. "I can't help it. The sun-spots are to blame."

Out in Utah a woman shot a judge as he sat on his bench. Her alibi will doubtless be sun-spots. The French agreed to arbitrate the tariff matter with the United States. If the United States will kick the Fordney tariff into the garbage can, France will reduce the duty on wooden nutmegs one-half of one per cent. Very liberal from the continental viewpoint. Sun-spots caused this outburst of generosity.

A few more freckles on the old sun and nobody will be traveling to Europe, and the citizens of Paris will have to go to work.

THERE is only one gloom dispenser we know of who is not a scientist and he is Dean Inge. It seems he was going to be a scientist, but his money gave out before he could buy a telescope, and so he took to preaching. He has done real well at it and is one of the greatest allies the scientists have ever had.

The latter, so far as we are concerned, can sign off any time they like.

"You Said It, Marceline!"

By MARCELINE d'ALROY

ON "BREAKFAST BY-PLAY"

It seems, now, there are THREE kinds of WOMEN:
Those who get their HUSBANDS' breakfast; those Who let THEM GET THEIR Own, and those who expect
THEM to get THEIRS.
And there is MUCH
To be said for ALL of Them. He who gets his Wife up, DESERVES
Credit. He who gets his OWN breakfast, PRAISE.
He who gets his WIFE'S—Admiration.
And in all probability,
Though the WIFE in bed
Thinks she is putting Something OVER him,
She may be vastly MISTAKEN. For
Few husbands find their Own wives attractive at Breakfast.
Perhaps it is WISE
Not to judge this novel
Situation HARSHLY.
Probably only PRETTY young
And pretty WISE ones get Waited on in bed.
The others have to GET
UP. For such is LIFE!

Return All Goods Promptly And Reduce Cost to You

The Merchants Council of the Pittsburgh Chamber of Commerce is conducting an educational campaign which has for its ultimate purpose the lessening of ''overhead'' in merchandising, and the consequent benefit to patrons. It all depends on the patrons themselves. They can solve the problem. And nothing unreasonable is being asked.

More prompt return of goods that are unsatisfactory is requested. Walter Rosenbaum, of the Merchants Council, states the amount tied up in goods which are returned after delay amounts to ''millions of dollars'' yearly. Patrons are not asked to keep goods that are unsatisfactory, but to get them back to the store as quickly as possible so they may be returned to stock and become an asset instead of a liability.

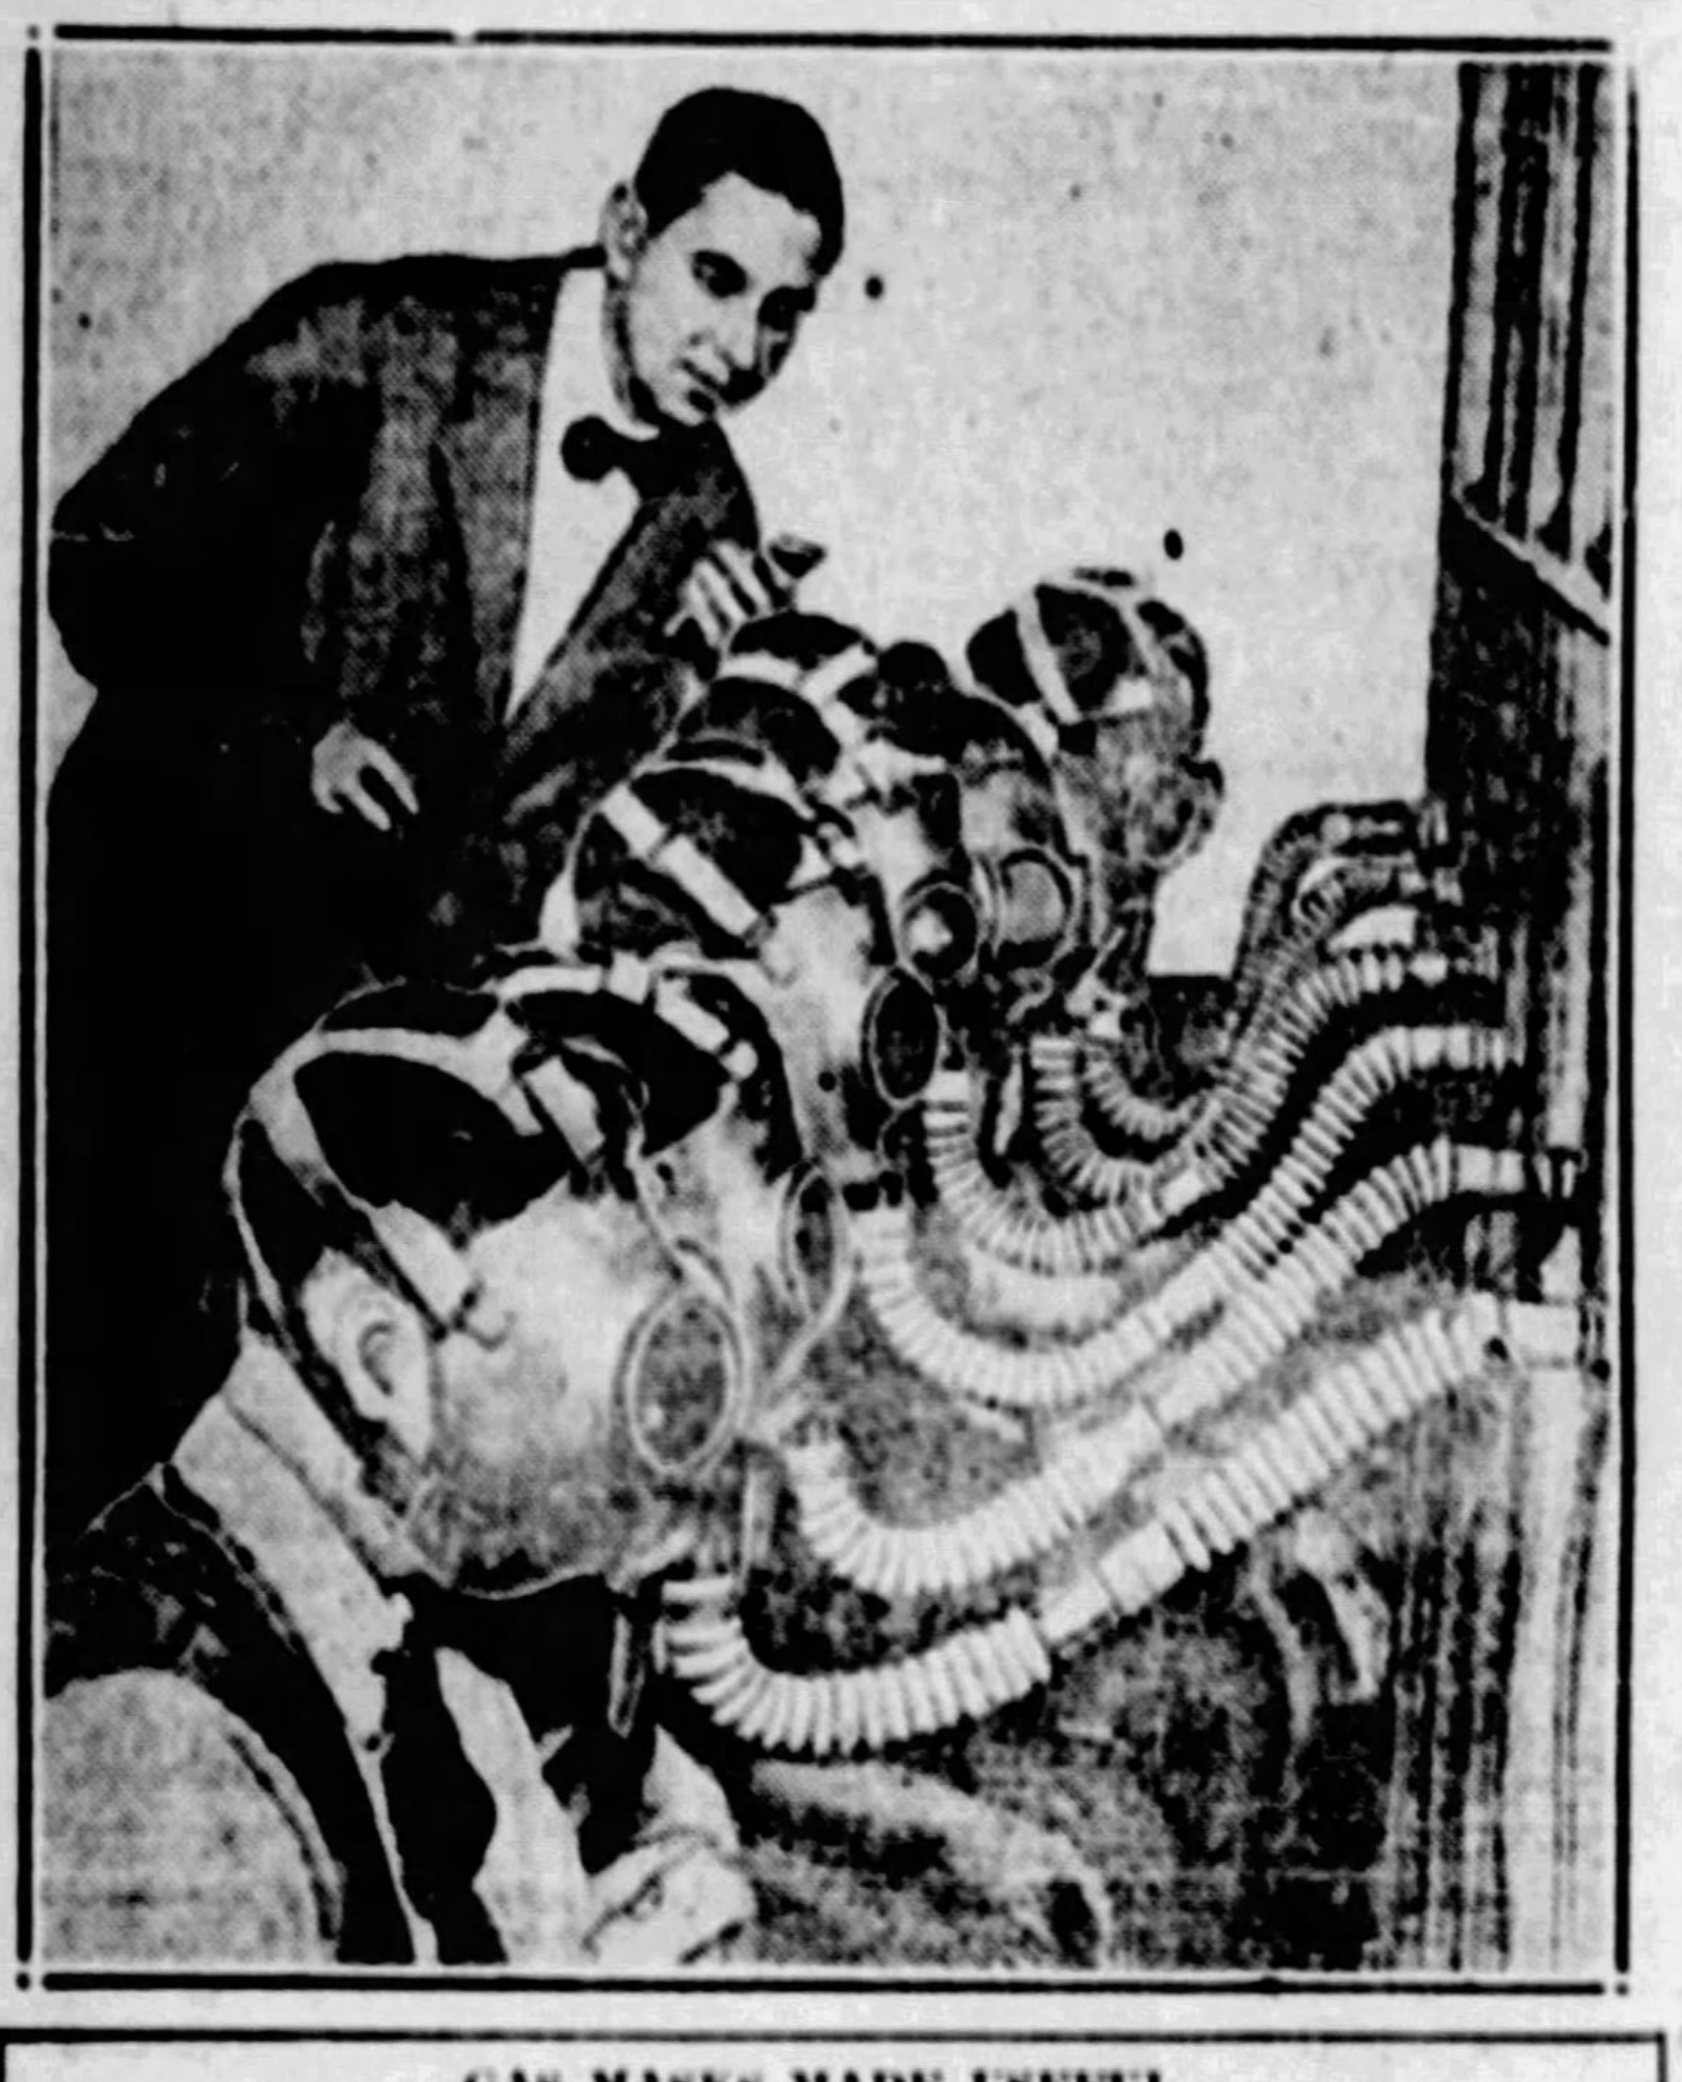
All of us should be able to see the fairness of the attitude of the merchants. When we delay the return of merchandise we do not intend to keep we are wasting time and money that BELONG TO OTHERS. That hits us as well as the others because we cannot waste what is not ours any more than what belongs to us without thereby being sufferers as well.

In the case of unreturned merchandise the effect is reflected in the greater cost of doing business. If the cost is high the buyer pays it. If it is low he benefits. So, if we do what is reasonable in keeping costs down we are not only helping the merchant, but in the long run, ourselves also.

A series of advertisements has started in Pittsburgh's newspapers, informing all how they may help. Be sure to read them—all of them.

Benevolent Gas Masks

They Work to HELP Human Beings, Not to KILL Them.



GAS MASKS MADE USEFUL.

Many important inventions based originally on the desire to kill the end by being useful. The first savage that fastened a sharp flint at the end of a stick probably wanted to kill his half human neighbor in a hand to hand fight.

And the first savage that ever thought of bending a bow and shooting an arrow wanted to kill some neighbor safely AT A DISTANCE.

That sharp flint, fastened to a stick, was the beginning of all our tools, plows, axes, chisels, etc. And the bow and arrow ultimately did more to FEED the human race than to KILL the human race.

So with the gas mask, which was invented as part of warfare to kill men by poison.

Already that gas mask, as you see in this picture, is extremely useful. The photograph shows a room near Westminster Bridge, in London, where gases are tested and masks tried out to help firemen and miners in their dangerous work. Also these scientific and useful masks are employed to test the purification of the human breath by means of oxygen. Little by little men become civilized, and their most brutal ideas often, in the end contribute to civilization.

Head of American Labor Spurns Call of Moscow

Communism and communistic philosophy find no fertile soil in the ranks of the American Federation of Labor, now in convention in Los Angeles. That was assured when William Green, president of the federation, shook communism as a terrier would a rat and tossed it out of the convention hall. Assurance was given in the form of ''tumultuous indorsement'' of his words.

Because of his position and especially because of his association with the Mine Workers, the words of Mr. Green have particular significance in Pittsburgh, where he has many friends both in labor and commercial ranks. They, too, will give hearty indorsement to his ultimatum.

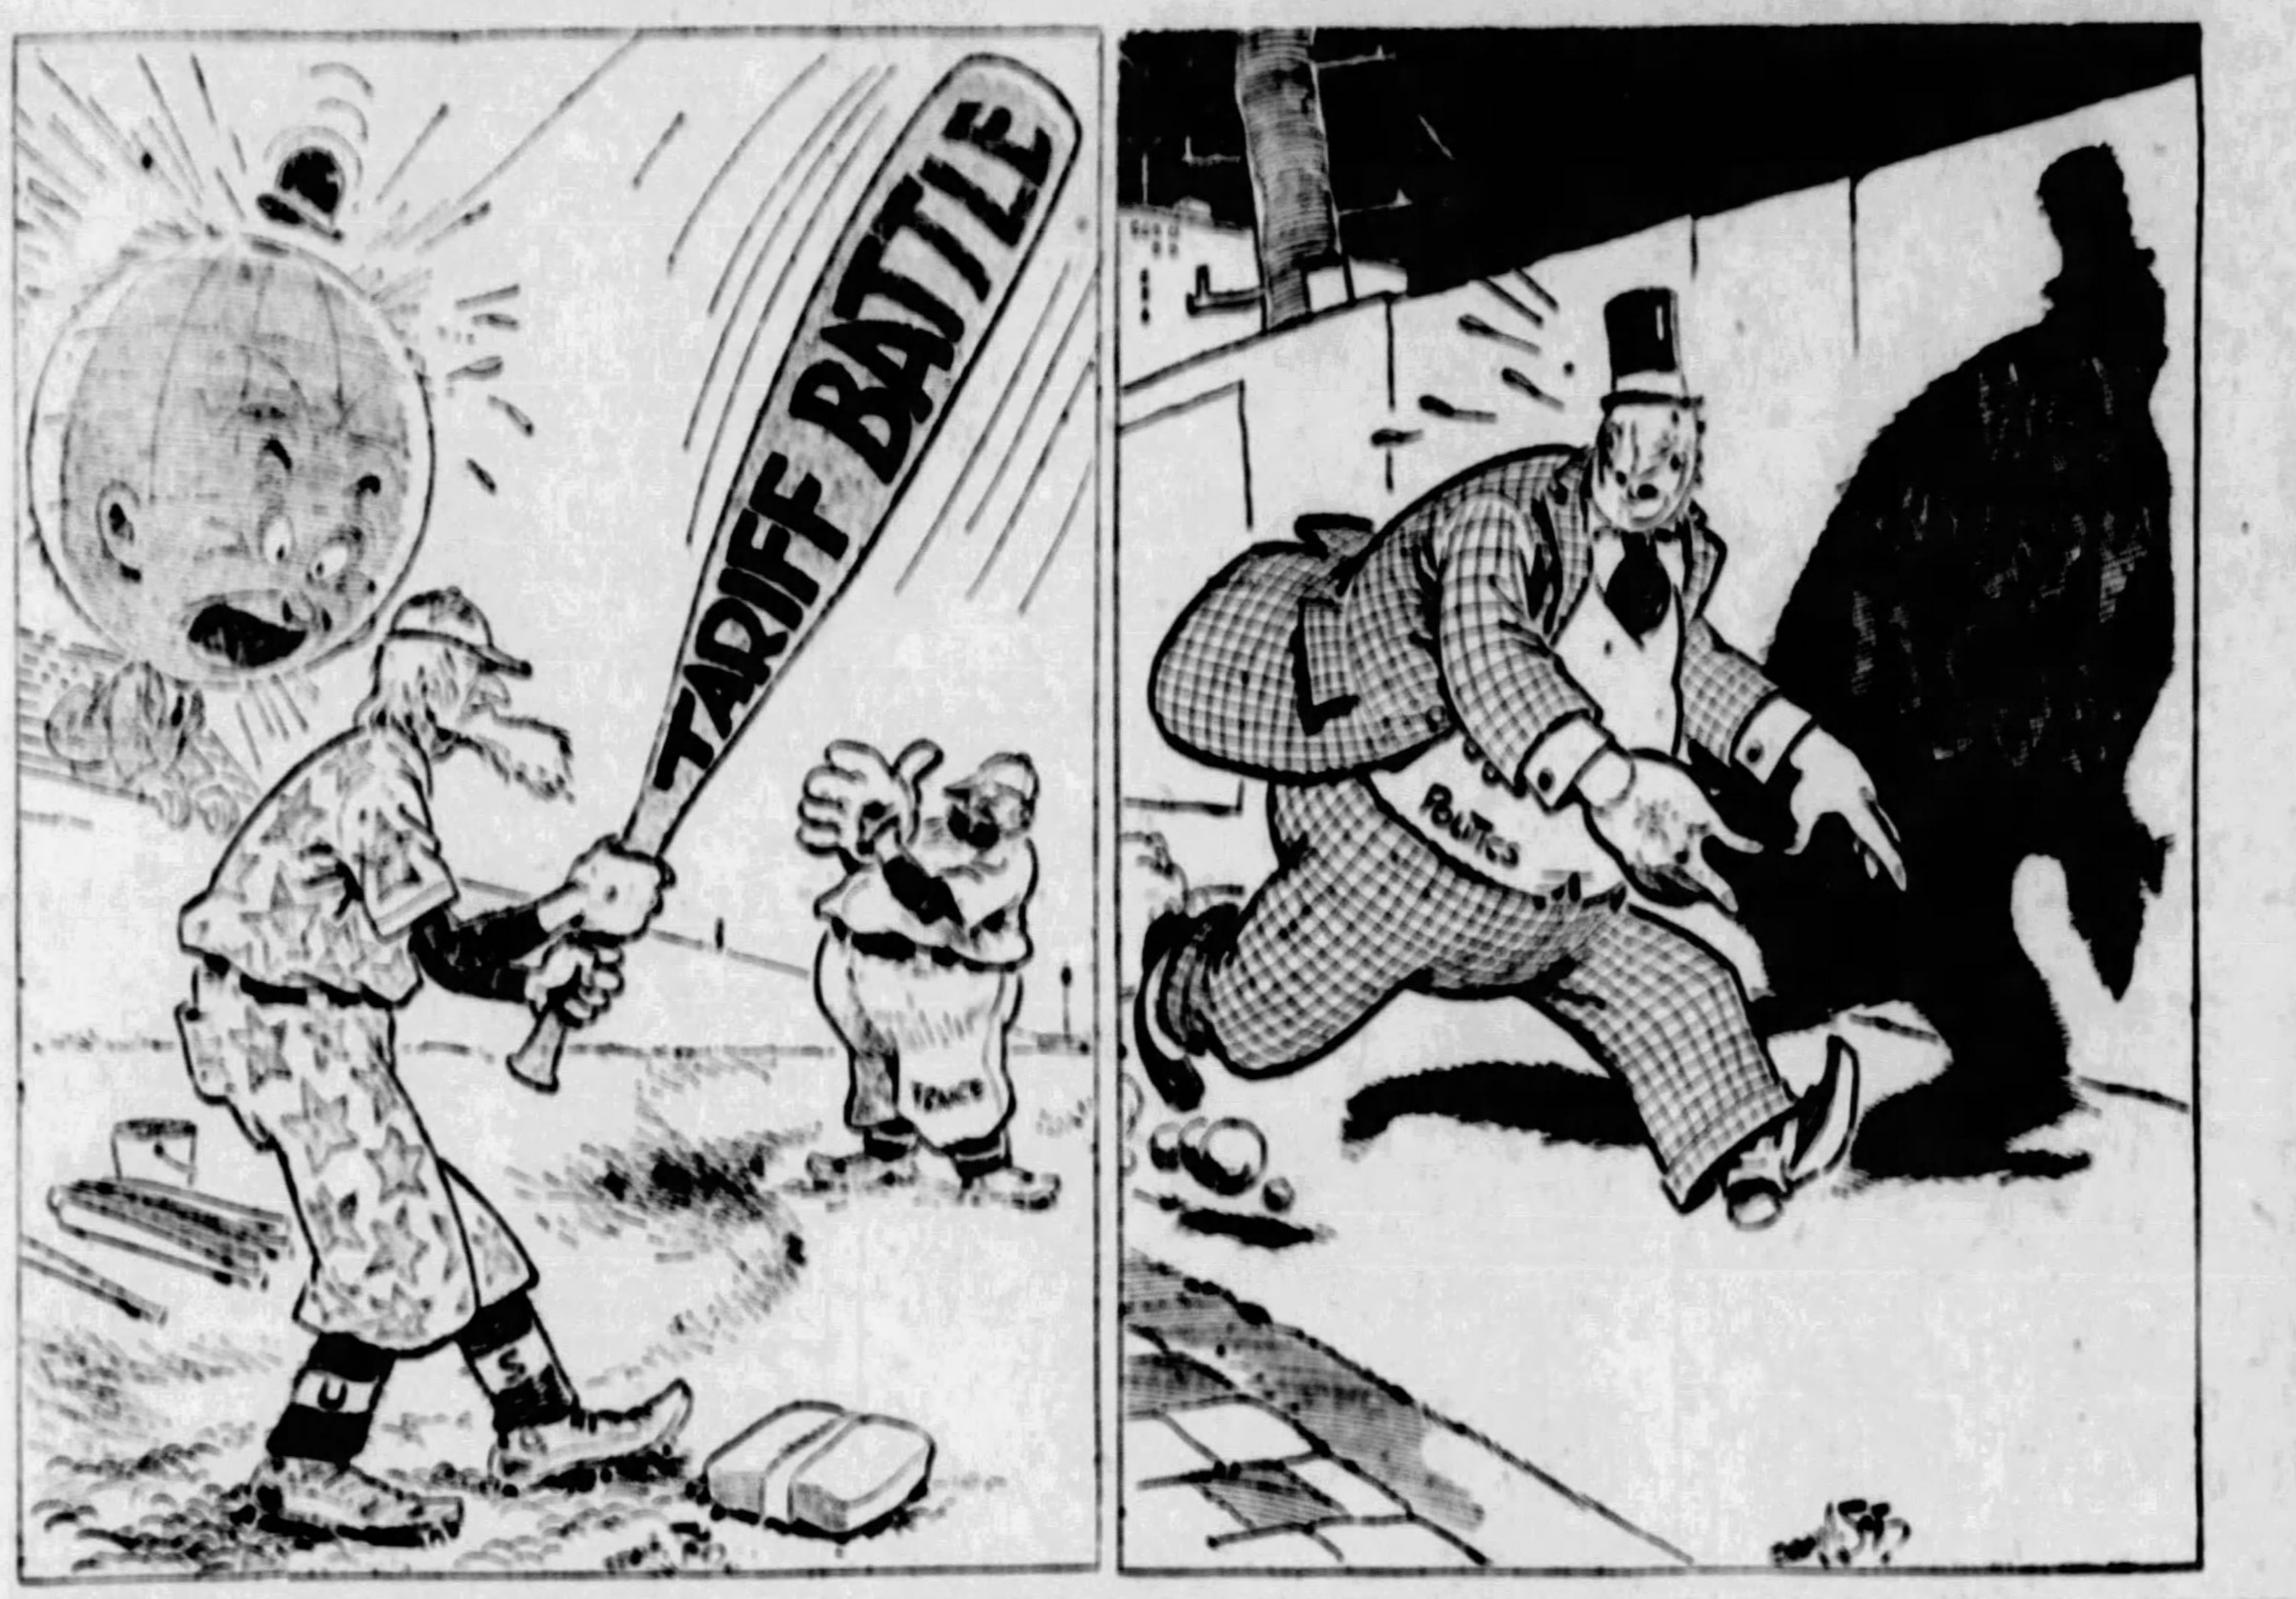
Green, who is a mine worker from Ohio, said American labor would accept no dictation from Moscow nor listen to communism's siren call. He declared there would be no experimenting with lives of workers ''in something which found birth in class hatred in a country ruled by dictators for centuries.''

His intimation that there can be no communism without class hatred as a basis is a verity. And class hatred is evidence of an ''inferiority complex,'' which, thank heaven, exists to but a small extent, if at all, among workers. Class consciousness presupposes men are superior or inferior according to their social station in life. By that standard many of the world's greatest and noblest men are tagged with the label of inferiority.

Green, native American, is too well rooted in American ideals to admit he is in a class lower than that of any other man. So was his predecessor in the office he now holds, the late Samuel Gompers. As was Gompers, he is a fighter for the rights of labor who has no delusions about Utopia.

Labor has many problems to solve, but it has solved many. It has improved its condition by seeking the solution along conservative lines. None of its problems has been solved by any ''siren call'' from Moscow or elsewhere. No wonder there was ''tumultuous indorsement'' when he stood against experimenting with the lives of workers.

WE HAVE WITH US—



Garrett P Serviss Says:

A Cynic on Woman's Destiny

I HAVE a friend who dares to maintain and to thrust upon his acquaintances the idea that the course of human evolution is now tending toward the elimination of women, or her absorption into what he calls the "stronger sex." He bases this absurdity upon the strong current of psychological and physiological tendency which he alleges is sweeping woman toward identity and coalescence with man, first mentally and in the end physically.

The entire "woman movement," he avers, can only be interpreted as a visible result of this uncontrollable current and a proof of its rapid acceleration in our day. He does not pretend to fix any upper limit to the time that will be required to complete the predicted transformation, or to foresee its successive stages; he only lifts up his eyes and his hands when I ask him to be more specific. But occasionally he goes so far as to assert that the progress of the change from woman to man will become perfectly evident in the next generation by the "masculinization" of the female countenance and bearing.

"You can see it already!" he then exclaims. "One cannot tell a boy from a girl now without cross-examination."

This extraordinary pessimist avers that the division into sexes was an experiment of nature that has not succeeded well. He points to the uni-sexual plants as representing unquestionably the ideal condition for reproduction which, he says, is the only logical raison d'etre of sex. He shuts his ears to all suggestions of the immense ethical and artistic significance of two sexes and he manifests a violent antipathy to love.

Sexual love, he declares, is essentially base, and has had a fearful effect upon morals and intellect. Study of it has already made novelists, as a race, crazy. They can think and write of nothing else. They make it the prime mover of human action. Sexual love has been exaggerated until it now overshadows everything else. But the novelists, though they ought to be less garrulous about it, are, he admits, nearly right in their estimate of the part it plays in the world.

From this he goes on to combat by contradiction all that can be said for sex as the greatest civilizing force that the world has known. "No," he cries, "the division of the sexes has been of no advantage to humanity, but just the opposite. It has delayed civilization by introducing jealousy in its most corrupting and violent forms and by interrupting the beneficent work of platonic friendship, which is the true civilizer and refiner of human manners." He quotes Voltaire's definition: "Friendship is the marriage of the soul" and says man should need no other marriage.

"Can any higher or nobler sentiment," he adds, "fill the soul than that which is felt upon hearing and joining in the singing of Burns' 'Should auld acquaintance be forgot?'—a sentiment in which sex has no part whatever. And hear what Tom Moore says:

"'Friend of my soul! this goblet sip,
'Twill chase that pensive tear;
'Tis not so sweet as woman's lip,
But, oh, 'tis more sincere!'

"Read Cicero, read Montague, read Emerson, on 'Friendship,' for all the great thinkers and writers have understood it, praised it, and ranked it above the love that sex inspires. No, don't tell me either that love is the source of the appreciation and worship of beauty. Beauty was in being long before sex was introduced into the world? Venus borrowed, or stole, beauty for a cloak, without which she could never have deceived man."

Perhaps I ought not to have set down the abhorrent doctrine of this cynic, but after all it is only to laugh, as Max O'Rell would have said.

Women's Umbrellas

When the rain starts women put up little, short umbrellas, with no long harpoon on the end but a blunt ball. They swing nicely and hurt no one.

Men's umbrellas are still copies of that carried by Jonas Hanway, who introduced them to London in the Eighteenth Century. But why that rapier on the end of them?

Right Friends

HOW do you choose your friends? Do you want a sop for your vanity or do you want real companionship?

Do you want to feel that you are moving in the social swim or are you seeking to derive some real good from those with whom you associate?

Perhaps you have been taken up in a measure by certain social leaders but you realize that you are not exactly intimate with them.

You may think you are nearly "in" when in reality you are a long ways out.

If you know this, the fact has hurt you, perhaps.

You are not happy in these associations that you have tried so hard to develop!

Your limitations, perhaps, are such that you can never really belong to the group you are aiming for. There are really fine men and women with whom you would be much happier.

If your finances or your social ability is not pleasing to those you want to follow, how can you expect to be happy with these persons?

Don't be shallow in choosing your friends.

Tales That Are Told

Irritating

SOMEONE had hinted to old man White that his daughter was secretly married, and the old fellow flew into a terrible rage.

"Mary," he said sternly to the girl that evening, "I have been told that you are secretly married."

"Well," replied Mary evasively, "I ain't saying I ain't."

"I ain't asking you if you ain't," he thundered. "What I ask you is, if you is?"

Wrong Number

"WHEN did Moses live?" asked the teacher.

The class was silent, so she continued: "Open your books and read the page about Moses. What does it say there?"

After a pause a boy replied. "It says 'Moses, 4000 B. C.'"

"Then why didn't you know when Moses lived?" demanded the teacher.

"Well," said the boy, "I thought that was his telephone number."—London Tit Bits.

Papa's Perfume

LITTLE Maurice's mother had caught a severe cold, and as a precautionary measure had resorted to an old remedy—a glass of hot whisky.

Later in the evening, after Maurice had put away his toys and toddled upstairs to bed, his mother paid him the usual good-night visit.

As she bent over her small son before kissing him a look of reproach crept into the boy's eyes.

"Oh, mummie," he said solemnly, "you've been using daddie's scent."—London Answer.

Ye Towne Gossip

by K. C. B.

Dear K. C. B.—We thought it a bright idea to write and ask you if you would say a few words for the French Hospital Nurses in connection with a dance to be given for the benefit of the Sick Nurses' Fund. Feeling that a few words from you would be a big boost toward a success we would appreciate it very much.

Z. M. J. and D. A. H.,

MY DEAR Girls.
SUCH A little thing.
YOU ASK me to do.
* * *
AND SO glad I am.
THAT THERE is something.
THAT I may do.
* * *
FOR I wouldn't want.
THAT I had been privileged.
TO AID a fund.
FOR SHUT-IN nurses.
AND THEN had failed.
TO LEND that aid.
AND ANYWAY, girls.
A LONG time ago.
I KNEW a French nurse.
* * *
AND I saw her first.
ON A railroad train.
UP IN Canada.
BOUND WESTWARD.
TO THE prairie lands.
AND I was young.
WITH MY first mustache.
AND SHE was young.
AND BEAUTIFUL.
AND I gazed on her.
THROUGH MILES of forest.
SOMEWHERE UP north.
ON LAKE Superior.
AND FINALLY.
AS EVENING came.
AND I won from her.
A PASSING smile.
AND DREAMED of her.
FOR MILES and miles.
AND IN the morning.
MY MORNING greeting.
EARNED RESPONSE.
WITH ANOTHER smile.
AND FINALLY.
ALONG SOME time.
IN THE afternoon.
OF THIS second day out.
WHEN EVERYBODY.
WAS GETTING acquainted.
I MADE so bold.
* * *
AS TO stop where she sat.
AND MAKE some remark.
ABOUT THE scenery.
AND SHE couldn't speak.
ONE WORD of English.
AND I couldn't speak.
ONE WORD of French.
AND THE romance ended.
RIGHT THEN and there.
AND I think I'm going.
TO THIS dance of yours.
BUT I want to know first.
* * *
IF THE nurses speak English.
FOR I can't even dance.
IN A foreign tongue.
AND ANYBODY.
I HOLD in my arms.
HAS GOT to know.
WHAT I'M talking about.
I THANK you.

Isn't It So?

New York Day by Day

by O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Oct. 11.—The finish of every chorus girl is supposed to be a picturesque catastrophe. She is either found lifeless under an upset auto near a roadhouse or on a hospital charity cot, being weaned from drink and drugs. Almost invariably the end is pictured as shabby.

This is ridiculous generalization. Not that the chorus hasn't its plundering gold-diggers, cafe show-offs, booze and dope addicts and such. It has. Indeed, it has its quota of adroit home wreckers who regard polite blackmail as a diversion.

There is also the myth that almost every collegiate is legitimate prey. Once in awhile a college boy is snared into a midnight elopement, but as a rule the chorus girls regard him as a Good Time Charlie for the evening. The hardboiled sisters of the guild angle for bigger game.

After all, chorus girls reason, many have married millionaires. Why can't they? These are the ladies, of course, who give the chorus a bad name. Where there is one chorus girl occupying a fancy flat in the West 70's there are a hundred cooking meals over gas jets in mussy theatrical boarding houses or walk-up apartments in the Forties.

More than half the girls who come to New York seeking a stage career enter the chorus with no other thought than using this as a means to stepping up in the profession. They may rise no higher than to step out of the line to feed a joke to a comedian, but the ambition is sincere.

An illustrated magazine a month ago showed 10 rather celebrated chorus beauties of the past 10 years who are now in pleasant domesticity. Not one of them married rich men, although it is quite probable they could, had they desired.

And as a matter of fact there are not more than a half dozen truly notorious chorus girls out of the thousands who have appeared on Broadway. Yet all chorus girls come under the same grouping—vain, frivolous creatures with one single and relentless purpose.

An illuminating sidelight on Broadway sidewalk pencil selling was revealed the other day. A beggar, picked up for not having a license, declared he had carried the same five pencils in his outstretched hand for nearly two years.

* * *

A few years ago a bright young man, then connected with a press association, fell in love with a young lady reporter on an afternoon paper. He phoned her one evening to go to a theater. She had just received an assignment to write a special article on "What It Means to Be an Old Maid." It had to be in the office that night, so she couldn't accept. He told her he would write it while she fulfilled other assignments. He did. It was so excellent she received a raise in salary. He later married her and now owns that newspaper and many others. And that is an honest-to-goodness true story. His name is Roy W. Howard.

The old type of dancing school in Manhattan has almost passed. They became jazz palaces or closed their doors. The most famous of the dancing teachers was Allen Dodworth, whose instructions became a part of social training. Dodworth had a walk that became a society feature. Unless one walked like this immaculate dancing teacher he lost caste. The dancing teacher not only taught one how to walk, dance, but how to sit down, curtsey and innumerable other social graces that flowered in the mid-Victorian period. There are several of the Dodworth type of dancing teachers in Brooklyn, but not more than two in Manhattan, and their classes are small. They are in the same category of the brown stone front.

In those days the men who attended dancing schools were called "Willie boys." Often toughs in the neighborhood stoned them.

The Bail Evil

By DR. FRANK CRANE

There has been a good deal of stir recently in several cities about the bail nuisance.

A man is arrested. It may be that he is not at all guilty of the alleged crime and to keep from going to jail he has to furnish bail.

There is a swarm of bail dealers in the proximity of most police stations who make a business of bailing the accused people out for a consideration. If the bail is set, for instance, at $1,000, they will furnish it, but they must get $100, or 10 per cent.

I have heard it said that if a man jumps his bail it makes no difference. The court authorities and the bail men seem to be in league.

These bail furnishers seem to have an extraordinary standing with the court officials. These officials will take their word for anything and also accept their bond.

A friend of mine was arrested recently for carrying liquor. It was on Sunday morning. I went down to the jail to furnish him bail and took along a property owner, as I was informed that a man to sign the bond must be a property owner.

The clerk at the jail informed me that he could not accept a bond from a property owner, but he had to have cash. The banks were all closed on Sunday and neither of us happened to have the cash handy, so the clerk informed us we could go to one of these bond brokers and get the amount of bail for $1,000 by a payment of $100. We didn't do it. My friend, however, did it himself and was bailed out on paying $100 to the broker.

Just why this clerk should refuse the bond of a property owner and why he was willing to accept the bond from a bail broker I cannot say.

The whole system is rotten.

An Australian in this country recently said they did things differently there. Cash bail is not acceptable. A man must be a property owner to furnish bail. In this way the bail broker is eliminated.

The bail broker is an evil institution, furnishing abundant opportunity for police graft and preying upon innocent people.

The Rhyming Optimist

By ALINE MICHAELIS

I Do Not Ask

I DO NOT ask too much of any day in joy's bright, shining coin; I would not have the hours forever gay nor from far years purloin the beauty and the bliss that is to be upon some unborn dawn, the hope and vision that will set me free and lure my footsteps on. But I would have, from every care-filled hour, its moment of release, an instant when the seed of toil should flower into the bloom of peace. And I would know this much of recompense; when worldly tasks are through my feet might tread with happy innocence the ways that once they knew. I do not ask too much as swift years move, for fear lest time should bring more shining gifts and take away this love, my life's most precious thing.

THE LIFE OF THOMAS A. EDISON

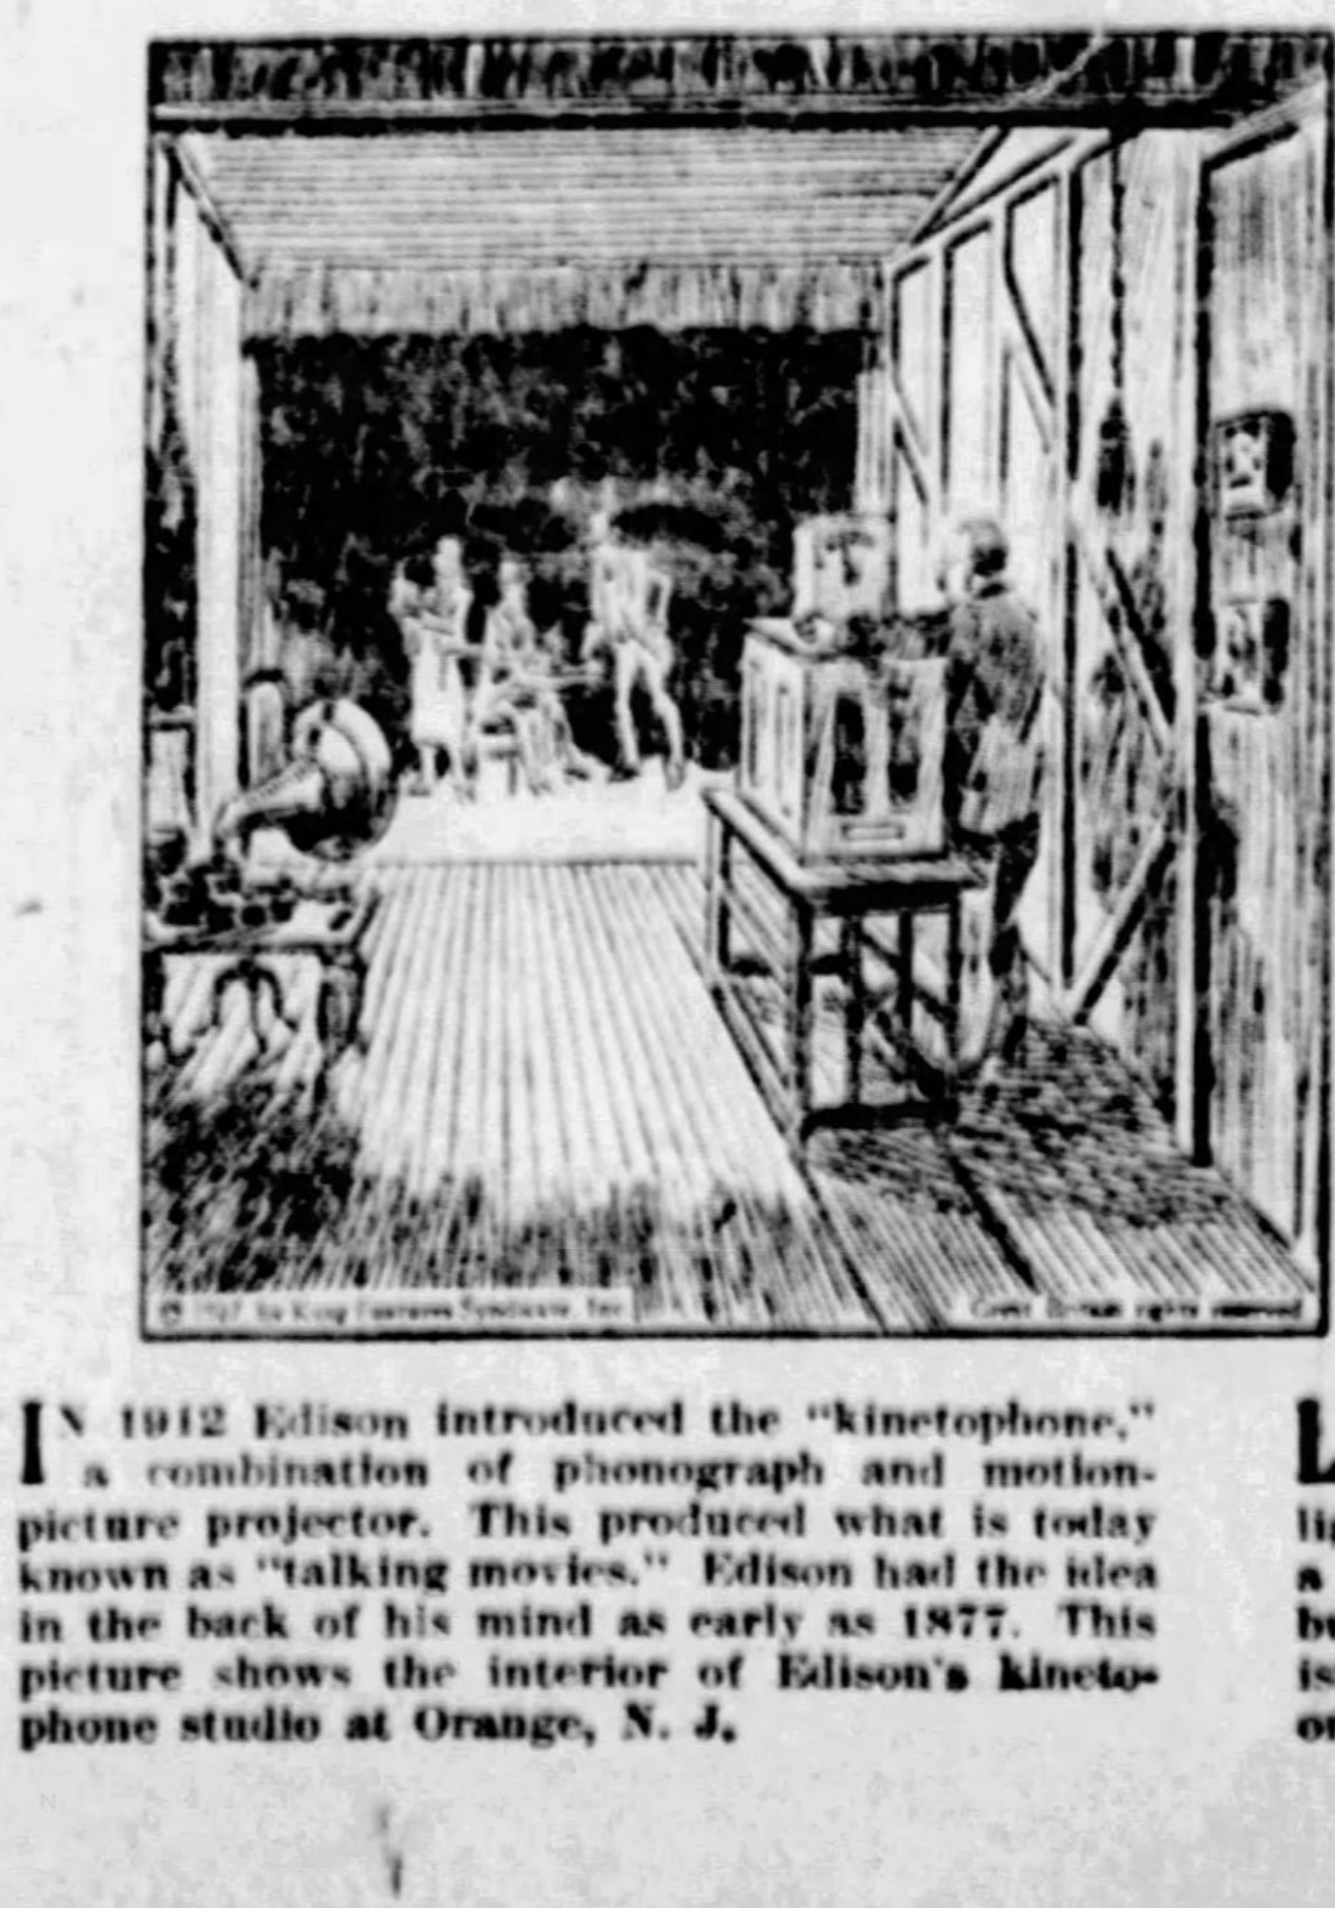
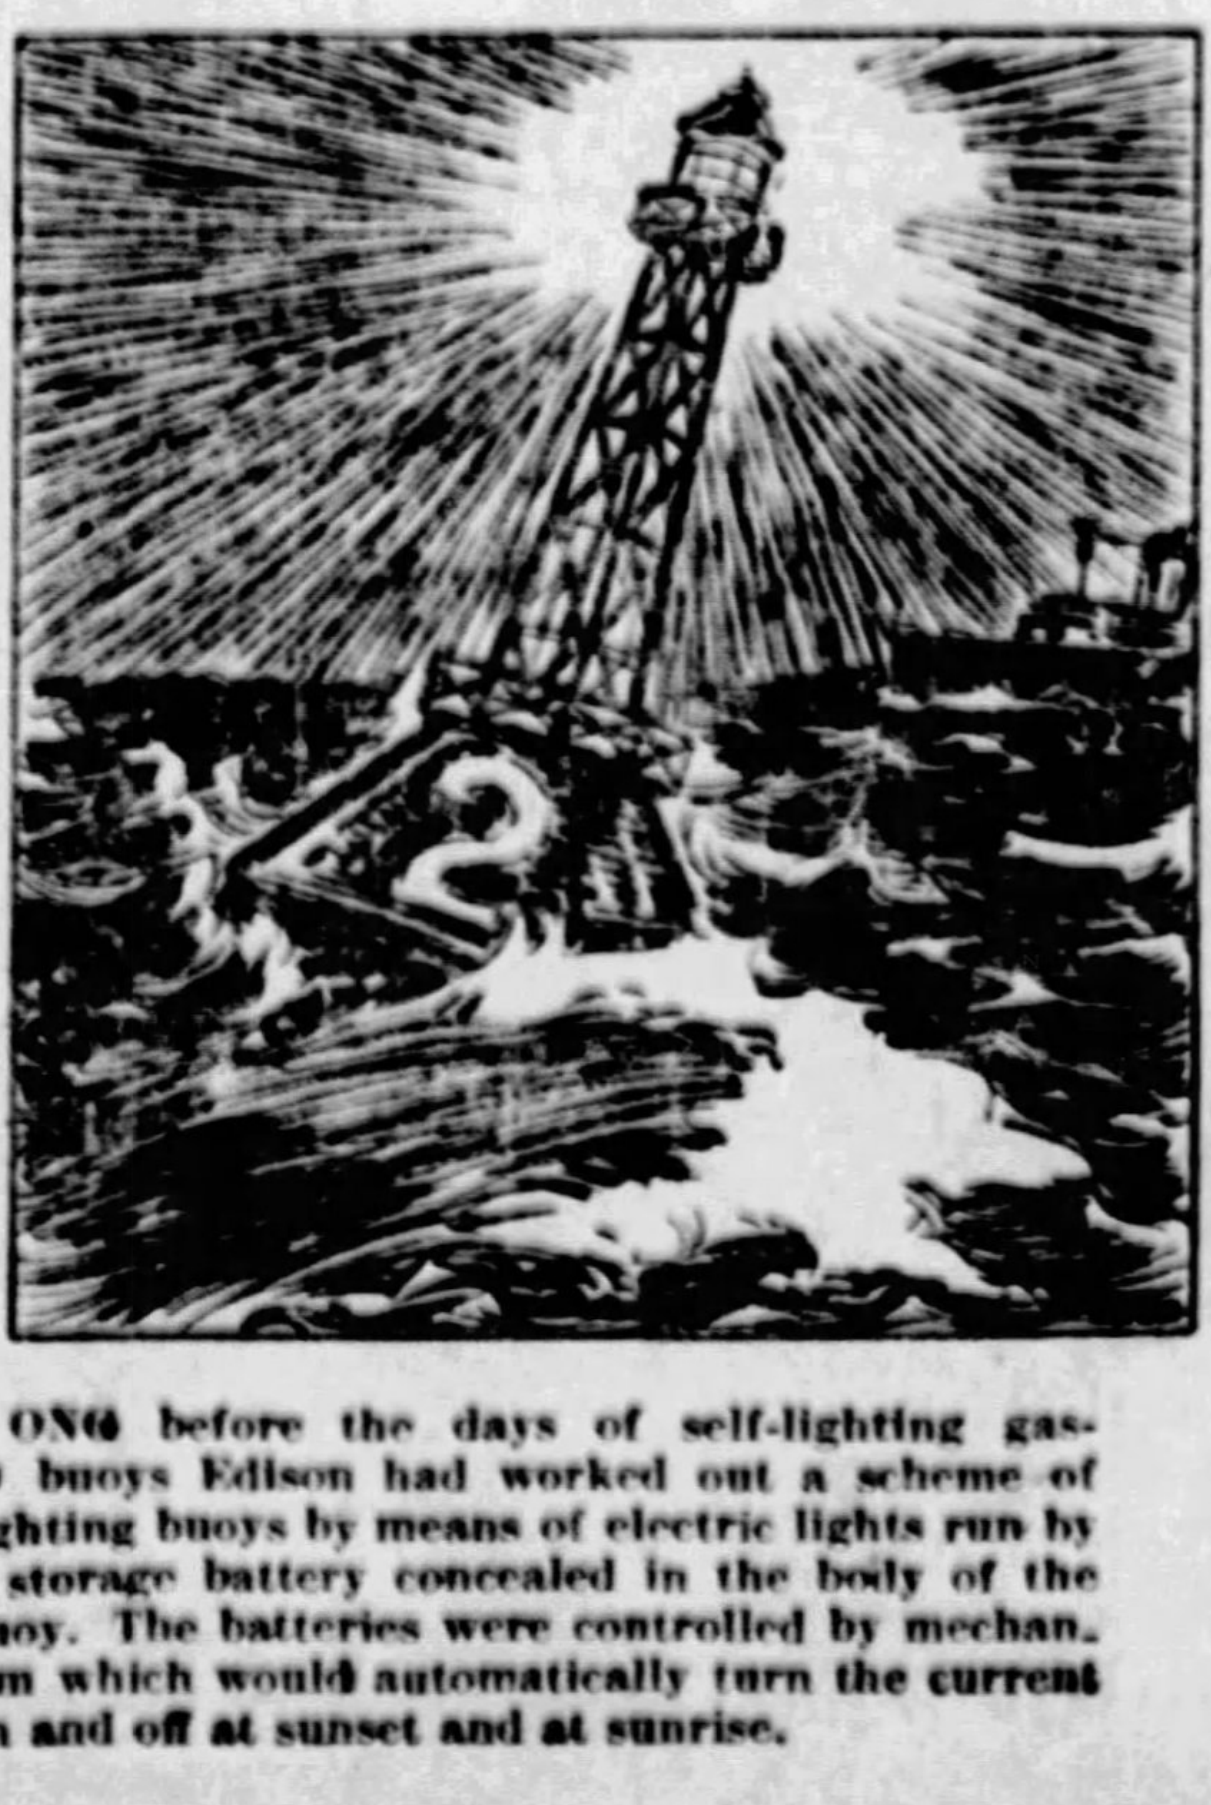
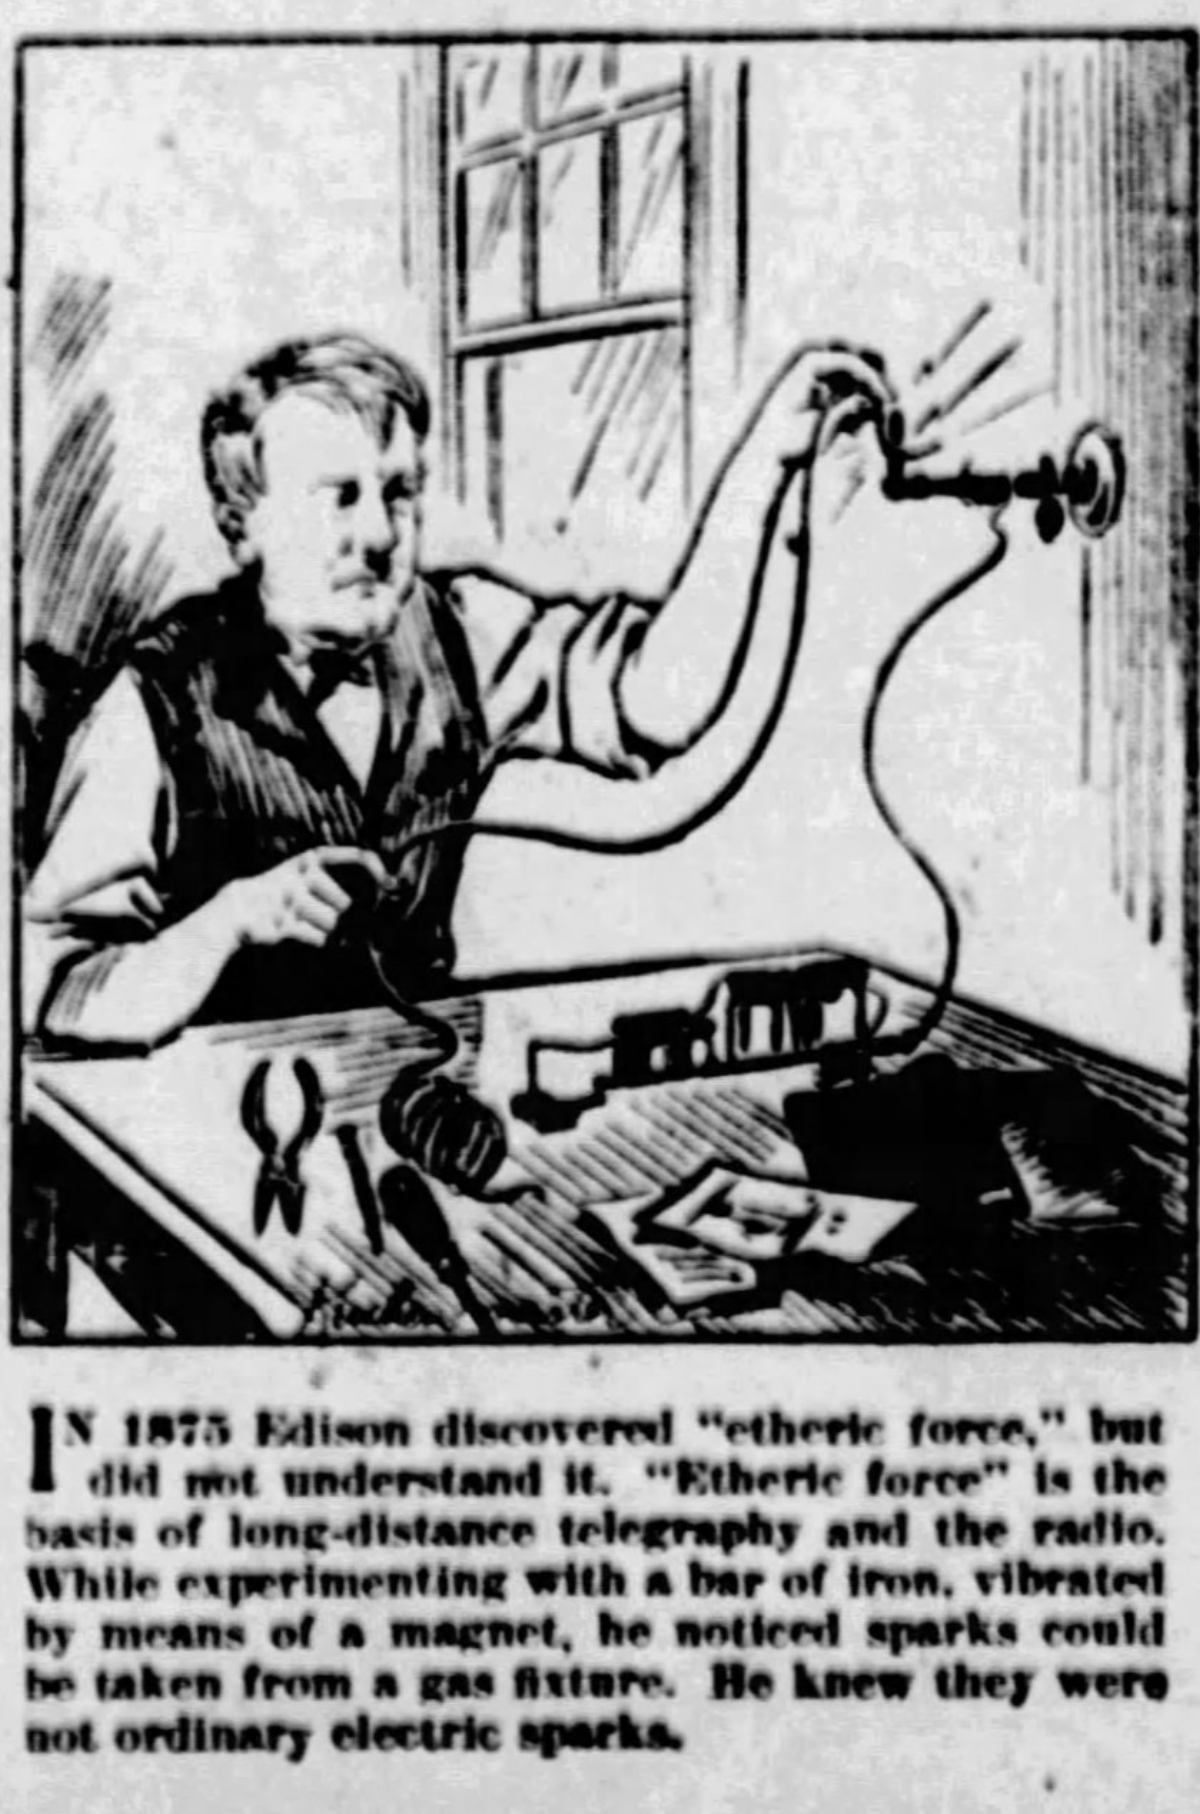
Text by Arthur J. Palmer
Drawings by Frank Kuchenmeister



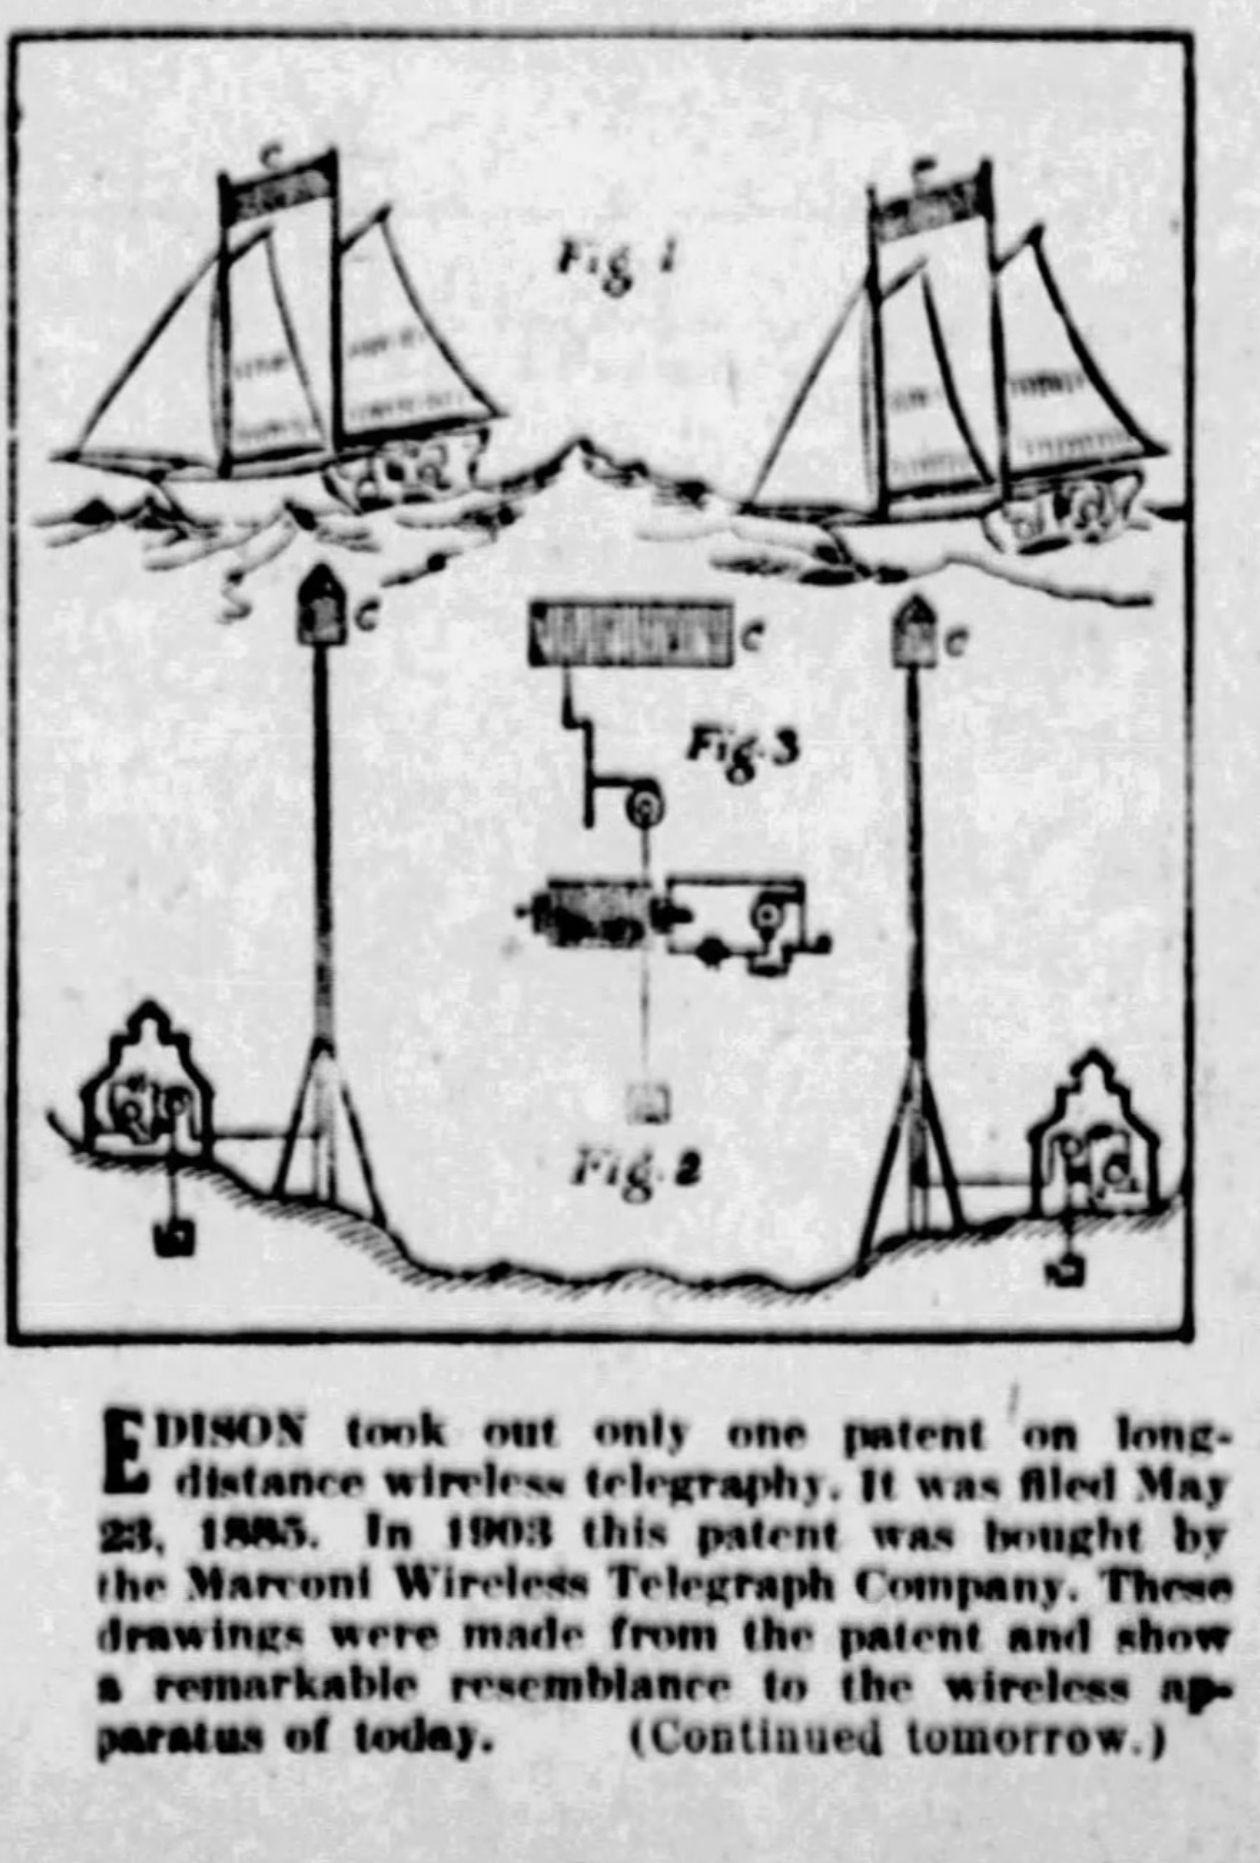
IN 1912 Edison introduced the "kinetophone," a combination of phonograph and motion-picture projector. This produced what is today known as "talking movies." Edison had the idea in the back of his mind as early as 1877. This picture shows the interior of Edison's kinetophone studio at Orange, N. J.



LONG before the days of self-lighting gas-buoys Edison had worked out a scheme of lighting buoys by means of electric lights run by a storage battery concealed in the body of the buoy. The batteries were controlled by mechanism which would automatically turn the current on and off at sunset and at sunrise.



IN 1875 Edison discovered "etheric force," but did not understand it. "Etheric force" is the basis of long-distance telegraphy and the radio. While experimenting with a bar of iron, vibrated by means of a magnet, he noticed sparks could be taken from a gas fixture. He knew they were not ordinary electric sparks.



EDISON took out only one patent on long-distance wireless telegraphy. It was filed May 23, 1885. In 1903 this patent was bought by the Marconi Wireless Telegraph Company. These drawings were made from the patent and show a remarkable resemblance to the wireless apparatus of today. (Continued tomorrow.)
